PREFACE.

THE object of the present publication is to stimulate to a more diligent and systematic study of God's Word.

In compiling and preparing the collection of "Notes for Bible Readings" herewith presented to the Christian public, no attempt has been made at an elaborate arrangement of subjects, or to give exhaustive explanatory notes in connection with any subject; but the aim has been rather to collect such matter as would prove suggestive and awaken further study and research into the golden depths of the Word.

A large amount of matter has been added, all bearing on Bible reading, Bible study, &c.; this has been done in order to give the best thoughts of some of the most prominent Bible students and Christian workers of our time, upon this most important Christian duty and privilege.

These "Notes" have been gathered from various sources; many of them have been kindly contributed by friends, and others are clippings from different religious publications. Where the authors are known their names or initials have been given. For all such favors the parties interested will please accept the thanks of the editors.

This informal volume is now sent out with a prayer that the promised teaching of the Holy Spirit may attend its use, and that through its instrumentality many may be led to the Great Teacher, many led to an entire consecration, and to a deeper and more attentive study of the Word of God.

BIBLE READINGS.

BY D. W. WHITTLE.

1st. How prepared :

Select some doctrine or exhortation as to Christian living, practical in the application, and exalting Christ. Among such subjects will readily occur Grace, Love, Faith, Redemption, Sanctification, the Blood, Prayer, the Two Natures, the New Birth, Work, Warfare, and so on. Take the concordance and read, with prayer, all the passages bearing upon the topic selected. Get full yourself of the truth taught. Praise God by yourself and for yourself for its preciousness. Then, divide your topic into heads, according to its natural and logical divisions. This is the key to the preparation of an interesting, profitable, and instructive reading. The bringing together of passages in a jumble, selecting them because they all contain the same word, cannot interest or profit. There must be order and a development of thought in the exhortation of doctrine for the mind to receive and profit by it.

The reading below is presented as suggesting this plan, not as the best execution of it.

Be careful in not making the reading too long. Better to divide your topic into five or six readings, and bring out the Scriptures upon each head to your own satisfaction, than to crowd too many heads into one reading. You will find the instruction thus given more easily apprehended and more carefully retained. The fault with most of us lay workers, who have been uninstructed in logical presentation of truth, is in the beginning of our work to make our readings too cumbersome. My first Bible reading on Faith contained some sixty Scripture references. Before they were all read the audience were tired, and it was a source of anxiety and difficulty for me to interest them. That same Bible reading prepared for one meeting has now developed into seven, given as a course, at seven successive meetings, with seeming interest and appreciation on the part of the people, and pleasure to myself.

I have used for this reading, and for others, as a matter of convenience, the Scripture suggestion of the number seven, in making up the heads of the topics. For instance, upon Faith the order of the readings and their divisions is as follows :

1st. Seven reasons for reasonableness of Faith (all Scripture texts).

2d. Seven directions as to how Faith is received.

3d. Seven things possessed by Faith.

- 4th. Seven fruits of Faith.
- 5th. Seven trials of Faith.
- 6th. Seven things said of those without Faith.
- 7th. Seven triumphs of Faith.

Two or three Scripture references are used under each head, making each reading consist of between twenty and twenty-five texts.

It will, of course, be understood that this subdivision and elaboration is recommended only for those topics that in the nature of the case, by the wide scope of truth embraced by them, require it. More simple topics would be better treated condensed into one reading. After your Scripture texts are arranged, endeavor under each one of your headings to have one or more appropriate illustrations, to make clear the truth and to fasten it in the memory.

2d. How to give Bible readings.

The method should vary with the character of the audience and the circumstances and surroundings of the meeting. In a very large audience it is better to read the passages yourself, asking the audience to turn to them and all join with you in the reading. Give time for all to turn to the passages, and read slow and distinct enough for all to join. Pay much attention to emphasis in reading. The proper interpretation of the text will often be revealed by proper emphasizing of the words.

In a small audience, in a lecture room where persons reading in different parts of the room can be readily heard, give out your references—one text to a person, if you have good readers enough, if not, two or more texts to the same person. Use slips of paper in giving out the references. Have them prepared before you go to the meeting, and ask some one who is acquainted with the audience to distribute them to good readers as you are singing the opening hymn, or (this is far better) before you commence the exercises.

It is not safe to call out references and let them be taken by volunteers. Some will have wrong passages and some will not read distinctly. The slips will also give you trouble unless the person giving them out is judicious, and makes each one who receives a slip understand that they are to read the passage promptly when called for. It is best for the leader, also, as he opens the meeting to distinctly explain what he expects of those who have received slips, and to request them if they do not intend to comply to pass the slip back.

After calling for a reference twice, with slight interval, the leader had better read himself, not delaying the audience for those who have lost the place.

Let the word stand out clear and speak for itself. Simply call attention to the obvious truth each reference presents, and its connection and place in the subject you are developing. Have faith in the presence of the Holy Spirit as the teacher. Have confidence in the power of the Word to do its own work. Be humble in the advancement of your interpretation of the text, and always fortify your interpretation, not by quoting human authority, but the Word itself. Remember James iii. 1. "My brethren, be not many teachers, knowing that we shall receive the greater condemnation." The less of our thought and our ideas in the reading, the more profitable it will be to us and to all.

HOW TO STUDY THE BIBLE.

BY REV. LYMAN ABBOTT.

I.—MEANS OF STUDY.—In answering the question which I have epitomized in the title of this and three succeeding letters on the subject, I shall assume that you have neither the means to purchase a large library nor the time and opportunity to make good use of it if you had it. I shall assume that you are engaged in some form of Bible instruction, and that you want some suggestions to aid you in getting a clear, practical knowledge of the Bible yourself, which you may impart to others.

For this purpose you need a library. You cannot study without books. But your library need not be large or expensive; a jack-knife in skilful hands is better than a full tool-chest in the hands of a bungler.

First you must have a reference Bible, and a good one. It is a matter of no mean importance to have one Bible that is good enough to last a life-time. I have one, a Bagster, that I have carried over twenty years. I can turn to a book, a chapter, or a text with celerity, for I have learned to know the verses by their localities; in another Bible I might ransack the pages for the missing verse in vain. Buy your Bible in flexible binding. It costs more but it never wears out.

Next to a reference Bible is a Bible Text-book and a concordance; the Text-Book is more important than the Concordance as well as cheaper. The difference between a Text-book and a Concordance is that the former gives you references to Scripture teaching according to subjects, while the latter gives a classification of all Scripture texts according to words. Thus, if you look in your Concordance for the word "atonement" you will find only one verse referred to, for the word only occurs once in the New Testament; but if you look in your Text-Book you will find many references, for the New Testament is full of the doctrine. The use of a Concordance is to find a given text, one important word of which you know; the use of the Text-Book is to find a collection of Bible texts on any given theme, not one of which you may have known before.

Next to the Text-Book and Concordance, which are simply contrivances for finding out what is in the Bible, comes a good Bible Dictionary. The object of this is to give a knowledge of biblical geography and antiquities, without which much that is in the Bible is but imperfectly intelligible. For scholars who want to study the conflicting themes and opinions of learned men there is nothing so good as the American edition of Smith's Bible Dictionary, in four volumes. But he who has not acquired some practical skill in the balancing pros and cons is liable to get lost in the labyrinthine discussions of this scholarly work. For such, a "Dictionary of Religious Knowledge" is published by Harper & Brothers which aims to include both all biblical subjects and all important theological and ecclesiastical topics. Of that, since I was its chief editor, I shall not say anything more than that it was prepared with especial view to the wants of those biblical students who desire a volume to give them the results without the processes of scholarship.

Next to a Bible Dictionary is a good Commentary on the Bible. I know a great many persons express a contempt for commentaries, and as commentaries are often used the contempt is natural; only it is deserved by the use, not by the book. The commentary is not a book to be studied, it is a book to help you study the Bible. Knives and forks are better than fingers for the purpose of eating; but the man who should attempt to eat knives and forks would have a sorry meal. Study the Bible; let a good commentary help you in your study. It will give you the best reading when there are variations. It will give you the meaning of the original when the English version is inadequate. It will give you light on manners and customs when they are needed as interpreters. It will give you the connection with the context and light from parallel passages when the meaning is obscure. It will indicate to you the spiritual purpose of the writer and of the Spirit of God in the writer, and it will give you the best suggestive thoughts of the best thinkers, or some of them, respecting the meaning and use of the passage. It is the very folly of self-conceit to assume, as some of the critics of the commentaries do, that any man can pick up his Bible, and in half an hour read as much in a verse or a chapter, without aid, as he can after a conference with the most devout and scholarly thinkers who have spent days and weeks in the reverent study of the same book and perhaps the identical passage under consideration.

Finally you need to complete your library, a blank-book in which to enter the results of your study. I do not advise any system of Bible-marking. Keep your Bible clean to express to you God's thoughts, not to serve as a journal, or a diary of your own. The best blank-book for library purposes is an interleaved Bible: the best for use in the class is a little blank-book to be carried in the pocket; better than either is a combination; a small blank-book to jot down the thought at the moment—to serve as the merchant's day-book—and an Index Rerum or an interleaved Bible into which these thoughts are transferred from time to time—to serve as the merchant's journal and ledger.

One other means of study is as important as a library—that is time. If you will select half an hour—the morning half hour is the best, in my judgment—for regular and systematic study of the Word of God, though each day you will do but little, you will be surprised to find how much you have learned in the course of the year. The tortoise still beats the hare in the race.

2nd. Methods:

Turn a college student adrift in the Astor Library or the Congressional Library, and though he might enjoy himself in a desultory way in mousing among the books he would come out at the end of the day little wiser than he went in. He should first ask, How is this library arranged?

Where are the historical alcoves? Where is the philosophy?

Where the belles-lettres? Fitful dashes at the Bible—the Psalms to-day, the Epistles to-morrow, Exodus the day after—give a man about as much knowledge of the Bible as a child gets of Botany who goes gathering wild flowers in the woods in May.

A study of the Bible as a whole is a necessary preliminary.

What is the Bible? It is a library. How long was it in process of evolution—or creation, if that is a more orthodox word? About sixteen hundred years. Of what does it consist? Laws, political economy, history, poetry, biography, fiction, theology. How do you divide it? The first five books of the Old Testament are laws and political economy; the next twelve books are history; the rest are poetry and prophecy. The first four books of the New Testament are biography; the next one is history; the rest, except Revelation, are theology and philosophy, but always written for a practical purpose and with a practical application. The last book is a poem, a picture, a drama.

This short catechism indicates what I mean by the study of the Bible as a whole. This gives the outlines of the structure. Some knowledge of authors, their times, their civilization, their purpose in writing, the characteristics of Jewish laws, of ancient history, of Hebrew poetry are equally necessary. Any good Bible Dictionary, any good Commentary, will give you more or less material for such preliminary study. In connection with many Sunday-schools are Normal Classes to pursue such courses of study. They ought to be more numerous than they are.

The study of individual books is a secondary preliminary. How many of even tolerably well educated Sunday-school teachers have any idea of the significance and purpose and character of single books of the Bible—Leviticus, Ruth, Job, Ecclesiastes? How many know any generic difference between the Epistle to the Philippians and that to the Galatians? We read the Bible as Jack Horner ate his Christmas pudding—pick out the p'ums and sometimes with the same result; when we are through our morning chapter we take our reward in a sweet sense of self-satisfaction, "What a good boy am I!"

Let me illustrate what I mean by the study of individual books. The scholar has read verses and chapters from the book of Job. He has heard repeatedly quoted, "Oh that mine adversary had written a book!" He has no idea what it means, for the quotation is always semi-jocular. He takes up the book of Job to study it. What is it? A poem, a parable, a story—whether fiction founded on fact or fiction without any fact-foundation is not very material, it is certainly as true as the parable of the prodigal son, and that is true enough. Who was Job? A man who lived in the world's twilight. No "Sun of Righteousness" had risen on him. He never refers to law, or priest, or prophet, or dream, or divine revelation of any kind. He was a worshipper of a true but a wholly unknown God. He was a Hebrew Socrates. His religion was the "religion of nature." If it be said that he possessed in addition that knowledge of God which had trickled down through tradition from the patriarchal age, it may be replied that every devout heathen has possessed the same knowledge. He lived in the faith of the aphorism, Be virtuous and you will be happy. So long as he was prosperous his "religion of nature" stood him in good stead. But adversity came. His property was swept away; his children were killed; disease laid hold on him; nothing was left but his wife, and she was almost the direst misfortune of all. He was utterly overwhelmed; was in hopeless perplexity. The very foundations of his faith were broken up. His three friends insisted on it that all this was a punishment for his sins. He was too good a man to play at mock humility, and indignantly denied it. He maintained his virtue, and yet he could not give up his faith in God; so his perplexity embittered his grief. Out of it comes the cry for just that which the divine revelation gives to us in our sorrow. "Oh for a Daysman! Oh for a divine disclosure of the unknown! Oh that this divine Enemy who has suffered blow on blow to fall upon me had written a book to explain his ways and reveal his will!" Natural religion fails in great sorrow. Then the soul wants a Saviour; wants a Bible.

When the student has gotten this general view of the book of Job, as a parabolic poem teaching the need of a supernatural Christianity, all in the book, every cry of Job, every supercilious consolation offered by his three miscalled friends, becomes significant. No man can understand a part that does not understand the whole. He that would interpret aright a single flower in the tapestry must first stand off a little and get a view of the whole pattern.

"Vanity of vanities; all is vanity." It is not true, all is not vanity. This world is God's university. It is magnificently endowed. As a training-school for another life beyond it is admirable. No man can read aright the book of Ecclesiastes who does not consider it as the experience of a man who had not taken this world as a training-school: who had sought for happiness in wealth, pleasure, riches; who had drank life's cups and found it foam on top and dregs at the bottom. "Vanity of vanities; all is vanity" is not the Christian verdict; it is the misanthrope's wail. It is the testimony of the blase man of the world. It is true only from his point of view. The student must know the author of Ecclesiastes and his life and his purpose before he can understand the book. Who would interpret Childe Harold as though Cowper had written it?

The Epistle to the Philippians is the letter of thanks of a foreign missionary box. The Epistle to the Galatians is the letter of admonition to the fickle-minded Frenchmen of the first century because their zeal of love had turned to ceremonialism. The Epistle to the Romans is a treatise on systematic theology in the form of a letter. Each must be read in the light of its origin and object.

This general course of study of the structure of the whole Bible and of individual books in the Bible is preliminary to study in detail of their contents. It will give all the advantage to be gained by reading the Bible through in course. I do not advise any one to undertake such a reading. I should as soon think of attempting to read a library through, or a cyclopedia. I should almost as soon think of eating a hotel course all through, disposing of all the soups in order to-day and beginning on the fish course to-morrow. The only, certainly the chief, use of such a course of reading is that thus you may get a general knowledge of the contents of the Bible, and the method of study which I have indicated is far better for that purpose.

3. MORE ABOUT METHODS.—The possible ways of studying the Bible are as diverse as human minds. To lay down rules for Bible study would be as preposterous as to lay down rules of locomotion for fish, flesh, and fowl. The first and fundamental principle is this: Let each man study the Bible in his own way. One man who is systematic will do it with regularity; another who is moody will do it according to his moods; one who is analytical will do it by collation and comparison of texts; another who is not will study its historical books and its biographies; still another will find most nutriment in its books of poetry. Let each bee go where he gets honey. Buzzing at a flower whose honey is beyond your reach is useless. Do not take another man's method unless it fits your mind. A shepherd's sling and a smooth stone are better for David than Saul's armor.

All that I shall attempt to do in this and a succeeding and a final letter will be to illustrate, from my own experience, three methods of Bible study.

1. Biographical. I began a few weeks ago reading the story of Joseph at family prayers. I found that it solved very satisfactorily the problem presented by a pastor's wife last week in her article, "Babies in prayer-time." The youngest sat in my lap, the next youngest sat in his chair by my side. I take it for granted that the older members of the family can read the Bible for themselves; I therefore conduct family prayers for the benefit of the youngest members. As I read I explained; substituted short words for long ones; stopped for questions, and answered them. The episode about Potiphar's wife I omitted. I read but little at a time. The Scripture reading served as a serial story. Both the "babies in prayer-time" wanted me to read more.

Two or three Sundays after we had completed the course I overheard them playing church. The youngest was preaching; and he told the whole story of Joseph with only now and then a blunder. Then the next older one corrected him. One is four years old, the other is five and a half. This is the biographical method in its simplest form. It is capable of indefinite expansion and variation.

The life of David affords admirable material for a course of study. "Townsend's Bible" or Harper's "Dictionary of Religious Knowledge" will give you the occasion of the composition of his various Psalms. Read the life; look up the geographical references in your Bible Dictionary; and read the Psalms in connection with the experiences from which they were evolved. Psalms xlii., xliii., which are really one, have a new meaning when you read the story of anguish and bitterness out of which they sprang, like a flower watered by the springs of Marah. There is no such song in the night as this Psalm. David's declaration in Psalm iii., "I laid me down and slept," is meaningless until you know when he slept. It only indicates that he was sleepy; men have even been known to go to sleep of a Sunday afternoon in church, and it was not imputed to them for righteousness. But consider the circumstances. He was fleeing from Jerusalem, his life threatened by his favorite son, his kingdom apparently wrested from him, some of his most trusted counsellors turned against him, desolate in the present and not knowing what was before him in the future, and then and there, on the edge of the wilderness, with only the sky above him for a roof, and but a few firm friends for companions, he was able to sleep in peace. Now see in this simple declaration one of the strongest illustrations of the power of faith and trust which the Bible contains. How often that text has sung me to sleep in times when but for it I must have passed an anxious, troubled and sleepless night! No man knows either David or his Psalms who has not read the story of his life through in chronological order, and in connection with the recorded experiences which his life produced. The life is God's hands striking the heartstrings; the Psalms are the music the heart gives forth.

The life of Paul is an admirable theme for a course of biographical study. And the autobiographical passages in his epistles should be studied in connection with Luke's history; e. g., Philipians iii., 4-10, with Acts ix., 1-18. Any good religious dictionary or commentary will give the references.

Best of all is the "Life of Christ." Mr. Beecher somewhere has given an account of the light borne in upon his own soul by reading through at a sitting one of the gospels, for the purpose of getting a clear and connected idea of the character of Christ. That his ministry has always been so peculiarly a Christly ministry is in no small measure attributable to that one experience. A more elaborate study may easily be made by taking either a Harmony of the Gospels or one of the many lives of Christ, and then studying in detail each incident, miracle and teaching in its appropriate place, and with a consideration of its relation to Christ's whole life-work. The story of the Syro-Phenician woman has been a perplexity to many minds, simply because they did not know that Christ was off on a vacation, and that to have performed the miracle asked of him would have defeated his purpose; did in fact defeat it, and drive him from the rest and retirement he was seeking in a heathen country.

It is somewhat more difficult, but not less profitable, to trace the growth of character by a comparison and collation of scattered passages; the development of Peter from the rude and profane fisherman to the eloquent revivalist, or the development of John from the fiery disciple who would have called divine destruction down upon the Samaritan village to the gentle and loving author of John's Gospel.

2. Topical. The topical method is one of endless variety; but the principle is always the same. The object of the student is to ascertain what is the teaching of the Bible on any given topic. The instruments are very simple. They are a reference Bible, a Bible Text-book, a Concordance; and common sense.

Last year at Chautauqua Dr. Vincent asked me to conduct an Eventide Conference on the "Peace of God." I borrowed a Bible Text Book and a Concordance; and I prepared four or five slips of paper, on which I wrote such questions as the following, a separate question on each slip:

In what does this peace consist?

What are its characteristics?

Who can attain it?

How can it be attained?

How is it lost?

Then I took my Bagster Bible and my wife took the Concordance, and together we looked for the Bible answers to these questions. She read to me from the Concordance every text that contained the word "peace;" I looked them up in the Bible and put the answers which they gave me in their appropriate places on my memoranda. Thus, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on thee" went down on two memoranda: under "characteristics of peace" I wrote perfect; under "how attained" I wrote by trust in God. The text, "The peace of God which passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus," three times. This is a guardian peace; it is too deep for intellectual analysis; and it is given through faith in Jesus Christ. So we went through the Concordance; then we went through the Bible Text Books, which gave us additional texts that did not contain the word peace; such as that promise in Isaiah, "When thou passest through the waters I will be with thee, and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee," and such as that invitation in Matthew, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." The result of three or four hours of such study was a series of answers something like the following ; I am writing from memory without my notes before me.

The peace of God is (1) God's own peace, the peace that belongs to the divine nature ; (2) it therefore belongs to the children of God just in the measure in which they become partakers of the divine nature. (3) It is deep, perfect, everlasting. (4) It is peace from the burden and curse of sin. (5) It is peace in all times of sorrow and trouble. (6) It is given by God through faith in Jesus Christ. (7) The conditions of receiving it are consecration to God and trust in God. (8) The lack of peace always indicates either imperfect consecration or imperfect trust.

This account may serve to illustrate what I mean by the topical study of the Bible. The varieties in method are endless, as the reader will at once perceive. It requires no great scholarship to pursue such a study. And I believe that if the ministry generally would search through the Bible in this way for its answers to their questions, instead of going to their Calvin's and their Watson's Institutes, their sermons on theological points—and theology is of all themes the one of the greatest popular interest—would be more original, more striking, more authoritative, and more potent in their direct practical and spiritual appeal to the hearts and consciences of hearers.

4. STUDYING THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL LESSON.—Paul has told us what the Bible is good for. It is profitable for doctrine—i. e., for religious instruction. And then he specifies the particulars : for reproof, for correction, and for instruction in righteousness ; that is, it is useful to convince men of their sins, to set them on the road to reform, and to instruct them on questions of right and wrong when they have started out on that road. The Bible is a tool, and this is the work that is to be done with it. Now, in using any tool, the first and instinctive question of a good workman is, What am I to do with this tool at this time ? The chisel in the hand of a carpenter is not one tool, but many ; and he always, though not always consciously, considers what he means to do with it before he begins his work ; and of all his various chisels he selects that particular one which is best fitted for his purpose. The first question you, as a Sunday-school teacher, are to ask yourself—the first question that your pastor ought to ask himself in preparing his sermon, is this : What am I going to do with this Scripture ? Am I going to use it to convince my scholars of their sins and their need of a Saviour, or to awaken in them a resolution of repentance and reformation, or to instruct them in the right way—assuming that they already want to walk in it ; or am I to use it in all these ways according to my scholars' characters and dispositions ?

And again : Am I to use it to convince generally of sin, or of some particular sin ; to lead generally to repentance and reformation, or to a resolution of reform in some particular ?

To get the answer to these questions, take first your Bible and the golden text, which you will generally find useful because it represents what some able Bible scholars think to be the use of the particular Scripture before you. Study these before you look at the "Lesson Helps." Fix firmly in your mind what you think to be the use of that lesson to you in your class, no matter what some one else could find in it for a different class of minds. For you, in a Bible class, are not to use it as your companion in Christ is to use it in the infant class. The answer to these questions is something that no one else can give to you. It must simply come from much and prayerful pondering of the text itself. Sometimes it will flash upon you on the first reading; sometimes it requires a long pondering to arrive at a result. But whenever this result is arrived at, half your work and the best half, is done.

Next, with this aim clearly before you, and I think that it is often an advantage to write it down to give clearness to your own mind, begin your study of the details. Study these as far as they will help you to accomplish your object. Your lesson is the folly of Rehoboam. It is small matter whether he got his name from his father prophetically or whether it was subsequently given to him in derision by the people. Do not waste much time over that. Your lesson is the conversion of Paul. You are going to use it in an endeavour to bring some of your hesitating, procrastinating pupils to a final decision. Do not waste time in deciding which of the three routes Paul probably took to Damascus. Your lesson is Elijah by the brook Cherith. You have a skeptic in your class, and you determine to use this lesson to show the reality of the miracles in the Old Testament. Then you need to know whether the ravens were really ravens, or were, as some scholars contend, merchants; but if you are going to use the lesson to confirm faith in the Providential care of God over all those who trust in him, it is a matter of small or no account whether he used merchants or ravens for this purpose. So your pre-determined use of the lesson will determine the nature of your subsequent studies.

When you have thus laid out your lesson in your own mind, considered the questions most likely to arise and most important to be answered, and perhaps put your thoughts down in a notebook, you may advantageously take up your lesson helps; but in general they should not be taken up before. They should be "helps" to an independent study of the Bible, not a substitute for it. Not till this preliminary work is done are you ready to get the full benefit of the thoughts of others, which you are otherwise liable to substitute for your own. They must become your own before you can make the best use of them; but for this purpose they must be engrafted on your own stock, filtered through your own brain. You must be a fruit-tree, not a barrel of plucked apples; a spring, not a cistern.

Finally, of all helps the Bible is the best. That is, in determining what is the meaning of any teaching or the use of any incident, find out if you can what use the sacred writers have made of it themselves, or what truth contained in it is elsewhere illustrated or enforced by other parallel teachings of Scripture.

Let me interpret and illustrate these principles by their use in the latest lesson that I have studied—the one in this week's paper.

I first turn to my Bible and read the passage, 1 Kings xvii. 1-16. Why was this story told? What lesson has it for me? For if I can apply it to myself I can, with power such as is only derived from personal experience, apply it to others. I see in it a threefold trial of courage: first, the courage of work; second, the courage of patience; third, the courage of charity. This lies on the surface. Are there other lessons? Yes, there are two that the Lord himself drew from this incident, one in Luke iv. 25-26; the other in Matt. x. 41, 42. The ground of courage, the Lord's provision for his own, is there also; a more beautiful illustration of the principle that Jesus taught in the Sermon on the Mount, Matt. vi. 26, I know not where you will find. This is the use I will make of it; to inculcate a stronger courage, a broader charity, a more hopeful trust. Then come the questions, Where was the brook Cherith? Why did God employ ravens? Where was Zarephath? What were the peculiarities of an Eastern famine, etc.? If the ascertainable answers to these questions aid in accomplishing my object I study them; if they do not I pass them by without an answer. Then follows the use of the work of previous writers in the same field—Stanley, Robinson, Taylor, Keil, Maurice, etc.—from whom I glean but do not reap.

These are the outlines; the varieties in method are endless. Sometimes the lesson calls for but little extra-Biblical study; sometimes it requires a great deal; ordinarily, study of the Bible comes first, "helps" afterwards; but sometimes the study of geography, or customs, or seemingly secondary questions, must precede the determination of the question, What use shall I make of this Scripture? Thus, in order to understand the meaning of the fire test between Elijah and the priests of Baal, it is necessary to know something more about Baal than is disclosed in the Bible, at least on a mere reading of it.

But however he may vary in his method—and he will never study two lessons exactly alike, and no two teachers will study the same lesson exactly in the same manner—he must always study it with the same object kept steadily in view; the moral and spiritual benefit, first, of himself, and, second, of his class. Not he who is the most learned, or the most polished, or the most eloquent, but he who is most "apt to teach" is the best teacher. And he who most constantly keeps in view the great fact that the lesson is but an instrument, that his real object is the development of Christian disposition and character in his scholars, that all Scripture is profitable for this purpose, is the one "most apt to teach."

HOW TO STUDY THE BIBLE.

SYNOPSIS OF AN ADDRESS BY W. J. ERDMAN, CHICAGO.

There are two books of God—Nature and the Bible. Creation and redemption are the two works of God, and the works are words, John xiv. 10. Both Creation and Redemption lead to faith in God, John iii. 12: iii. 31; Luke xii. 22-28; Psalm cxix. 64; Rom. x. 17-18. Both should be studied in the same way. If it seems surprising to discuss the methods of Bible study at so late a day after it has been in the hands of men for hundreds of years, let us remember the marvellous discoveries of natural science fall within the last two centuries, and are due to a change of the methods of investigation. Have we studied the Bible as scientists now investigate nature? Science creates no new facts, theology no truths; all is finished for man to search out. How shall he search out the work of Creation and the work of Redemption.

I. The spirit in which to study is that of a child. Lord Bacon said, "one must enter the kingdom of the natural sciences as one enters the kingdom of heaven, like a little child." A child is humble, trustful, docile, without prepossessions, theories or fixed opinions. The world before it is like to an Adam new and fresh. If a botanist finds a strange flower, he lets the flower tell him what it is; he has neither knowledge or name for it; what it is, becomes, or rather is its name; if a mineralogist meets a strange stone he asks it questions, and puts into a stone only what he first gets out; in like manner a Bible student must wait on a verse or text or epistle or any book or part thereof to tell him what it is. Many readers get out of a verse just what they first put in, and that may be all of man's wisdom and not at all the mind of God. We must go to the word of God therefore with the humility, simplicity, and receptivity of a little child.

But the question is also what kind of a child; and the answer is a child of God; and if a child of God, then must the Spirit of God be the Light in which to study the words and works of God. The written word is like the word made flesh, divine and human, and it must be studied with the light of the divine Spirit in the human. God alone can show God.

This is the axiom in the study of the two books, God is: Heb. xi. 6; but more needful to study truly is it to know not only that God is, but that He is the Father, and the student and reader His child. The "natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God," whether revealed in the Bible or in nature, for the flower and the Cross teach the same lesson, trust in God; but scientists rarely read the lessons from off the lily and the bird which Jesus full of the Spirit of God read, Luke xii. 22-28; 1 Cor. ix. 10; Ps. cxix. 18; Amos iv. 13; John i. 1-3; i. 14; i. 18; iii. 16-18.

God's word is thus written for His children and must be received humbly and reverently and eagerly, and in the absolute faith in which a child takes the word of his father. Always then take for granted that God is. Never try to prove it. It is Father's book. He wrote it Himself. He wrote it for us. Believe every word of it, or we shall never get the good of it. Men think prophecy is a dark subject, and the only use of it is to prove that God knew something beforehand, and that he has not lied to us. Prophecy is to teach God's children His purposes. A person may think he knows all about the Bible because he has read it through six or seven times. But this may be mere surface work. I may go through a country on an express train several times, and still know nothing of it. To walk through it and get acquainted with its stones and trees and flowers and dells and streams and to love it as all my own, is a very different matter. We must love the word and not only for our sake, but for His sake who is in it. Reading it through and through will do no good, unless we love it and see into it as a lover of nature sees into the woods and stones. In brief it must be searched in simplicity, with colorless desire to be taught; with earnest quest, as men seek for a knowledge of nature; in the receptive, humble, reverent faith of a child, with the attention and intentness that shall let nothing escape notice; with the love and appropriation with which a child reads his own father's letter for himself, and above all, with the dependence upon and illumination of the Spirit of God which leads one to unlock every Scripture with the key of filial expectant prayer. Such is the way in which we should study the word of God.

II. The method of study is the inductive. All the parts to jot and tittle must first be gathered together before a conclusion is stated or a name given. The stones of one kind must all be brought together however varied their forms, and the flowers classified though scattered through many parts and climes. Ecc. iii. 11; Ps. xl. 5; xix. 1-6.

Take a concordance and find a word—run it through the Bible. Take for instance, glory, glorified. You will find in it a wonderful line of thought. The cloud of glory is associated with it. In that cloud is wrapped both the blessing and the wrath of God.

Study by phrases. Separate them. See how they are used. Get their meaning in every context. Find out their exact force and colour.

Such study will bring to light resemblances and differences, types and antitypes, shadows and body, times and seasons, peoples and dispensations, the eternal purpose, the varied preparation, and the final fulfilment.

Such method is self-interpreting, light is seen in light, Ps. xxxvi. 9; cxix. 6; and the conclusions reached become in turn keys and openings to further knowledge. The Bible is a living growth. Its structure is mathematical like the universe, and its numbers are symbolic. It is photographic and so microscopic.

The thought is one like the mind; one yet manifold through ages of revelation. It is timeless as one thought from the beginning, and so can have no contradictions; and when finished and fulfilled all its seeming contradictions will be known as the parts of a vast, far-reaching harmony. The Old Testament is found in the New and the New in the Old, 1 Cor. x. 11; Rom. v. 12-19; Eph. v. 32; Gal. iv. 21-31; 1 Pet. iii. 21; Gen. i. 3; 2 Cor. iv. 6.

III. The instruments, means, and helps may be briefly stated in the order of their nearness to any one:

1. A reference Bible. 2. A Text-Book. 3. A Bible Dictionary. 4. A Concordance. 5. A Translation. 6. An Englishman's Greek Concordance. 7. A Commentary. Never consult a Commentary on any doctrine in cold blood; think, study, search first yourself.

IV. The result of such study is life, love, worship, likeness. One leads to the other, John xvii. 3; i. 1-4; 1 John iv. 7-8; Rom. ii. 32-36; xii. 1-2; John iv. 20-24; 2 Cor. iii. 18.—From The Truth.

HOW TO STUDY THE BIBLE.

First. There must be a profound conviction of the truth that "ALL scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof (or evidence, as the word is rendered in Heb. xi. 1), for correction, for instruction in righteousness," (2 Tim. iii. 16); "For the prophecy came not in old time (or, as the margin has it, at any time) by the will of man: but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost," (2 Pet. i. 21); "For this cause also thank we God without ceasing, because when ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it not as the word of man, but, as it is in truth, the word of God," (1 Thess. ii. 13.)

Similar testimony in a more or less direct and positive form might be cited from hundreds of passages, for the whole Bible proceeds upon the assumption, so apparent even to the casual reader, that it is the voice of God speaking through men unto men. It is obvious, therefore, that each little word, as of, the, in, from, to, which we are so apt to overlook in human writings, is worthy of particular and devout attention. It is true that unimportant errors may have crept into this and that version or translation, but when competent scholarship conducts us to the words the Holy Ghost really used, we are to consider every one of these as having its own definite place and meaning in the book of God. Hence it is never proper in quoting Scripture to give what we may suppose to be its sense, but we should see to it that the very language of revelation is presented to the minutest particle.

Second. All Scripture is designed to lead us to Christ. "Search the scriptures," He said to the Jews, and of course He referred to the Old Testament scriptures; "for in them ye think ye have eternal life : and they are they which testify of me," (John v. 39). He does not say that some of the Scriptures merely, but all of them, testify of Him. "Had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me : for he wrote of me," (John v. 46 ; "And beginning at Moses, and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself," (Luke xxiv. 27). He began at Moses, and not only at some, but all the prophets, and expounded unto them not simply in some, but in all the Scriptures the things concerning Himself. "These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets and in the psalms, concerning me," (Luke xxiv. 44). These were the three great divisions of the Old Testament, and our Lord declares that all were written concerning Him. It is not strange, therefore, that Paul could persuade his countrymen "concerning Jesus, both out of the law of Moses, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening," (Acts xxviii. 23).

From all this it is clear that if we read a chapter in the Old Testament, and do not see Christ there, we must go back and read it again, for we have not found the key to its true meaning. Out of the innumerable events that occurred during nearly four thousand years in the history of nations and families and individuals, it pleased the Holy Ghost to collect and record only those that bore in the way of type or illustration upon the person and work of God's promised Son. This must be admitted at once by those who will take the trouble to compare the quotations from the Old Testament applied to Christ in the New, that very often at least as they originally appear do not seem to have the slightest reference to our Saviour. If, therefore, some in the early Church, and in the days of the Reformation carried their search after types to a dangerous extreme, the modern Church exhibits a tendency to a far more dangerous extreme in the opposite direction, by failing to see that all the narratives, and offerings, and feasts, and predictions of the Old Testament centre about the cross and crown of Jesus.

Third. We must study the Bible with the full persuasion that we have to do personally with all it contains. "Whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the scriptures might have hope," (Rom. xv. 4). The inspired apostle, after enumerating a number of events that occurred in the history of the Israelites, says, "Now all these things happened unto them for ensamples, (or types, as it is in the margin); and they are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world are come," (1 Cor. x. 11). We can not, then, read the Old Testament as we read the history of some ancient nation, with a feeling that it is all past, and that it possesses no interest for ourselves ; but it has a present value, speaking not less earnestly to our souls than it did to those who lived and died thousands of years before we were born. The abiding presence of the Holy Ghost in the Scriptures secures for them all the authority and potency of an immediate revelation addressed directly to every reader.

Fourth. It is almost needless to add that the Bible must be studied with a deep sense of our entire dependence for light and guidance upon the Spirit of God. "The natural man," or the flesh, or the Adam nature in a believer, is just as ignorant and helpless and perverted as the same nature in an unbeliever, and it is as true of the natural man in the former as in the latter that he "receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned," (1 Cor. ii. 14). But it is comforting to hear our Lord saying concerning this Spirit to His followers, "He shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you," (John xiv. 26). Again He says in words we should never forget in connection with the work of the Spirit, "He shall testify of me," (John xv. 26.)

J. H. B.

BY D. L. MOODY.

"And all the people gathered themselves together as one man into the street that was before the water-gate; and they spake unto Ezra the scribe to bring the book of the law of Moses, which the Lord had commanded to Israel. And Ezra the priest brought the law before the congregation both of men and women, and all that could hear with understanding, upon the first day of the seventh month. And he read therein before the street that was before the water-gate from the morning until mid-day, before the men and the women, and those that could understand; and the ears of all the people were attentive unto the book of the law."—Nehemiah viii. 1-3.

The children of Israel had been in captivity for seventy years, and now they had come back into their own land; and the description given in these verses is what we should call a Bible-reading; just getting the people together and reading the Word of the Lord to them. And perhaps it would be a good thing if we could have more meetings where the Word of God is read and explained. It is better to hear God rather than man, and I believe we are living in a day when the Bible is neglected, although we are living in a land of Bibles.

The children of Israel had been in a strange land, and God wished them to understand His law. It says that they were attentive to the law; that is to say, they were just leaning forward and drinking in the words that were read to them. You have sometimes seen a nest of birds, and the mother comes with a little worm to feed them, and in an instant every mouth is wide open; and in like manner every one of us ought to have our ears wide open to catch the meaning of the Word of God when it is read to us, and if there is anything we don't understand we ought to go to the minister and have an enquiry meeting with him, and ask him to explain it to us.

We read in the ninth verse, "For all the people wept when they heard the words of the law. Then he said unto them, Go your way, eat the fat, and drink the sweet, and send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared: for this day is holy unto the Lord; neither be ye sorry; for the joy of the Lord is your strength." What we want, now-a-days, brethren, is a joyful church. If we are in Babylon, with our harps hanging on the willow trees and our heads bowed down, we are not likely to succeed in winning souls to Christ. No; it is when we are back again on the resurrection ground that we may hope to succeed in that. A backsliding church is a nuisance in the world. It is just a stumbling-block, and nothing more. In the seventeenth verse we read, "And all the congregation of them that were come again out of the captivity made booths, and sat under the booths; for since the days of Joshua the son of Nun unto that day had not the children done so. And there was very great gladness." And there always will be great gladness when a backsliding people come back to God.

THE WORD OF GOD IN THE HEART.—When the Israelites were going into Babylon, trodden down by their oppressors and led away into a foreign land, we read in Jeremiah xx. 9. "Then I said, I will not make mention of Him, nor speak any more in His name: but His word was in my heart as a burning fire shut up in my bones, and I was weary with forbearing, and I could not stay." Yes, it is a good thing to have the Word of God in our hearts, so that it just burns within us, and we cannot hold our peace. When the Psalmist said it was hidden in his heart, some one has remarked that it was a good thing in a good place, for a good purpose. We want the Word to burn right down into our souls; then a man cannot restrain himself, it begins to burn, so that it would actually burn him up if he held his peace and did not speak out. "Is not my Word like as a fire, saith the Lord, and like a hammer that breaketh a rock in pieces?" The Word of God is the sword of the Spirit, and if you young converts want to be used of God you must feed on His word. Your experience may be very good and very profitable at the outset, and you may help others by telling it to them; but if you keep on doing nothing else but telling your experience, it will soon become stale and unprofitable, and people will weary of hearing the same thing over and over again. But when you have told how you have been converted, the next thing is to feed on the Word. We are not fountains ourselves, but the Word of God is the fountain. And if we feed on the Word, it will be so easy then to speak to others; and not only that, but we shall be growing all the while in grace, and others will take notice of our walk and conversation.

Now, I never saw a useful Christian who was not a student of the Bible. If a man neglects his Bible, he may pray and ask God to use him in his work, but God cannot make use of him; for there is not much for the Holy Ghost to work upon. We must have the Word itself, which is sharper than any two-edged sword.

Now, if you read the sermon spoken by Moses before he left the children of Israel, you will find it was just a rehearsal of what God had done for them, and of their deliverance from the cruel hands of Pharaoh; of the destruction of their enemies in the Red Sea, and their safe conduct through the wilderness; and yet I do not suppose there was a boy in the camp who could not have told it ten times over. And you will find that Joshua did the same; and when Peter stood up on the day of Pentecost, the Spirit of the Lord was in him, and he went on quoting Scripture to the people, and that was the arrow that went down into their souls. Then, again, what did the devout and martyred Stephen do but just rehearse and expound the Scriptures from the time of Abraham downwards?

VICTORY BY THE WORD.—People are constantly saying, We want something new; some new doctrine, some new idea. Depend upon it, my friends, if you get tired of the Word of God, and it becomes wearisome to you—you are out of communion with Him. What you want is some one who will unfold and expound the Scriptures to you. We cannot overcome Satan with our feelings. The reason why some people have such bitter experience is, they try to overcome the devil by their feelings and experiences. Christ overcame Satan by the Word. He simply said: "It is written;" and a second time, "It is written;" and Satan came again and tried to misquote the Scripture, but Christ said again, "It is written," and that was the arrow that shot right into him, and drove him away. The devil does not care a bit about our feelings. He can play on our feelings just as a man can on a harp. He can make our feelings good or bad; he can take us up on the mountain, or down into the valley; and we can only vanquish him by the Word, which is the sword of the Spirit.

And then bear in mind there is no situation in life for which you cannot find some word of consolation in Scripture. If you are in affliction there is a promise for you; if you are in adversity and trial, there is a promise for you; in joy and sorrow, in health and in sickness, in poverty or in riches, in every condition of life, God has a promise stored up in His Word for you.

THREE BOOKS EVERY CHRISTIAN SHOULD HAVE.—I can imagine some persons asking, How can I get to be in love with the Bible? Well, if you will only rouse yourselves to the study of it, and ask God's assistance, He will assuredly help you. There are three books which I think every Christian ought to possess. The first, of course, is the Bible. I believe in getting a good Bible, with a good plain print. I have not much love for those little Bibles you have to hold up right under your nose to read the print; and if the church happens to be a little dark you cannot see the print; but it becomes a mere jumble of words. Yes, but some of you say you cannot carry a big Bible in your pocket. Very well, then carry it under your arm; and if you have to walk five miles you will just be preaching a sermon five miles long. I have known a man convicted by seeing another carrying his Bible under his arm.

You are not ashamed to carry hymn-books and prayer-books, and the Bible is worth all the hymn-books and prayer-books in the world put together. And if you get a good Bible you are likely to take better care of it. Suppose you pay thirty shillings for a good Bible, the older you grow the more precious it will become to you. But be sure you don't get one so good that you will be afraid to mark it. The next I would advise you to get Cruden's Concordance, and a "Scripture text-book," not a "Birthday text-book." These books will help you study the Word of God with profit. If you have not got them, get them to-morrow, for every Christian ought to have them.

STUDY TOPICALLY.—Then I find one of the best ways to study the Scriptures is to study them topically. I used at one time to read so many chapters a day, and if I did not, I thought I was getting cold and backsliding; but mind you, if a man had asked me two hours afterwards what I had read I could not tell him. I had forgotten it nearly all. When I was a boy I used, among other things, to hoe turnips on a farm, and I used to hoe them so badly, to get over so much ground, that at night I had to put down a stick in the ground so as to know next morning where I had left off. That was somewhat in the same fashion as running through so many chapters every day. A man will say: "Wife, did I read that chapter?" "Well," says she, "I don't remember," and neither of them can recollect, and perhaps he reads the same chapter over and over again; and they call that studying the Bible. I don't think there is a book in the world we neglect so much as the Bible. Merely reading the Bible is no use at all without we study it thoroughly, and hunt it through as it were for some great truth. If a friend were to see me searching about this building, and were to come up and say, "Moody, what are you looking for? have you lost something?" and I were to say, "No, I haven't lost anything, I'm not looking for anything particular," I fancy he would just let me go on by myself, and think me very foolish. But if I were to say, "Yes, I have lost a sovereign," why, then, I might expect him to help me to find it. Read the Bible, my friends, as if you were seeking for something of value. It is a good deal better to take a single chapter and spend a month on it, than to read the Bible at random for a month.

WORK OUT SUBJECTS.—I find some people now and then who boast that they have read the Bible through in so many months. Others read the Bible chapter by chapter, and get through it in a year; but I think it would be almost better to spend a year over one chapter. If I were going into a court of justice, and wanted to carry the jury with me, I would get every witness I could to testify to the one point on which I wanted to convince the jury. I would not get them to testify everything, but just on that one thing; and so it should be with the Scriptures. I took up that word "love," and I don't know how many weeks I spent in studying the passages in which it occurs, till at last I couldn't help loving people. I had been feeding so long on love that I was anxious to do everybody good that I came in contact with. Take up grace, take up faith, take up assurance. Some people say, I don't believe in assurance. I never knew anybody who read their Bible but believed in assurance. This book teaches nothing else. Paul says—"I know in whom I have believed." Job says—"I know that my Redeemer liveth." It is not, "I hope, I trust." The best book on assurance was written by one called "John," at the back part of the Bible. He wrote an epistle on assurance. Sometimes you just get a word that will be a sort of key to the epistle, and which unfolds it. Now, if you turn to John xx. 31, you will find it says—"These are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through His name." Then if you turn to 1 John v. 13 you will read thus: "These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God." That whole epistle is written on assurance. I have no doubt John had found some people who doubted about assurance, and doubted whether they were saved or not, and he takes up his pen and says, "I will settle that question;" and he writes that last verse in the twentieth chapter of his gospel. I have heard some people say it was not their privilege to know that they were saved; they had heard the minister say that no one could know whether they were saved or not, and they took what the minister said instead of what the Word of God said. Others read the Bible to make it fit in and prove their favourite creed or notions, and if it did not do so they would not read it. It has been well said, that they must not read the Bible by the blue light of Presbyterianism, nor the red light of Methodism, nor the violet light of Episcopalism, but by the light of the Spirit of God. Now, if you will just take up your Bible and study assurance for a week you will soon see it is your privilege to know that you are a child of God.

FEED ON THE PROMISES.—Then take another thing—the promises of God. Let a man feed for a month on the promises of God, and he will not be talking about how poor he is. You hear people say—"Oh, my leanness! how lean I am!" My friends, it is not their leanness, it is their laziness. If you would only go from Genesis to Revelation, and see all the promises made by God to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to the Jews and the Gentiles, and to all his people everywhere; if you were to spend a month feeding on the precious promises of God, you wouldn't be going about with your heads hanging down like bulrushes, complaining how poor you are: but you would lift up your heads with confidence, and proclaim the riches of His grace, because you couldn't help it. After the Chicago fire a man came up to me, and said in a sympathising tone, "I understand you lost everything, Moody, in the Chicago fire." "Well, then," said I, "some one has misinformed you." "Indeed! Why, I was certainly told you had lost all." "No; it's a mistake," I said, "quite a mistake."

"Have you got much left then?" asked my friend. "Yes," I replied, "I have got much more left than I lost, though I cannot tell how much I have lost." "Well, I am glad of it, Moody; I did not know you were that rich before the fire." "Yes," said I, "I am a good deal richer than you could conceive; and here is my title-deed—'He that overcometh shall inherit all things.'" They say the Rothschilds cannot tell how much they are worth, and that's just my case. All things in the world are mine; I am joint-heir with Jesus, the Son of God.

Then suppose you spend a month on "prayer," run through the Scriptures on prayer; why, then the Bible becomes a new book to you. And then take up hope, and faith, and grace, and feed on them. I remember the first time I studied grace I got so full of it that I stopped every man and woman I met, and told them how God loved them. When Christ came with His message of grace to the Jews the bottles would not hold; it burst the bottles, and began to flow on to the Gentiles all around. And then they got angry with Him, and sought to put him to death. You may pray for the blessing, but if you neglect your Bible you won't get it.

STUDY ONE BOOK AT A TIME.—Then another way is to study one book at a time. If you take Genesis, it is the seed-plant of the whole Bible; it tells us of life, death, resurrection; it involves all the rest of the Bible. Or take just one word that runs through a book. Some time ago I was wonderfully blessed by taking the seven blessings of the Revelation. If God did not wish us to understand the Revelation He would not have given it us at all. A good many say it is so dark and mysterious common readers cannot understand it. Let us only keep digging away at it, and it will unfold itself by-and-by. Some one says it is the only book in the Bible that tells about the devil being chained; and as the devil knows that, he goes up and down Christendom, and says, "It's no use your reading the Revelation; you cannot understand the book; it's too hard for you." The fact is he doesn't want you to understand about his own defeat. Just look at the blessings it contains. In chapter xxii. 14, "Blessed are they that do His commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city;" chapter xvi. 15, "Blessed is he that watcheth and keepeth His garments;" chapter xx. 7, "Blessed is he that keepeth the saying of the prophecy of this book."

Then there is a blessing on them that are kept from the world. We do not belong to the world, but belong to the new creation. God has taken us out of the old and put us in the new, and therefore we keep ourselves from the world. "Blessed are those that die in the Lord; for they shall rest from their labors." "Blessed are they that have part in the first resurrection; for on such the second death hath no power; and they shall live and reign with Christ a thousand years." "Blessed are they that are called to the marriage supper of the Lamb." Or you may take the eight "overcomes" of Revelation, and you will get wonderfully blessed with them. They take you right up to heaven; you climb by them right up to the throne of God.

ASSURANCE.—There is that word “know” I mentioned just now. It occurs six times in 1 John iii. In the fifth verse it says: “And ye know that He was manifest to take away our sins; and in Him is no sin.” The next is the nineteenth verse: “Hereby we know that we are of the truth.” Some people tell us that it doesn’t make any difference; that a lie is as good as the truth if we are only sincere. Why, no doubt those false prophets on mount Carmel were sincere; but John says, “Hereby we know that we are of the truth.” Then, in the fourteenth verse: “We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren.” There’s assurance for you. Then, in the fifteenth verse: “He that hateth his brother is a murderer; and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him.” The Christian is not full of jealousy, envy, hatred, and malice; but he is full of “love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance.” These are the fruits I shall bear if I have got Christ in me. Yes, that fifth chapter of Galatians will soon tell us if we have got the right kind of fruit. Make the tree right, and you will soon have the right fruit. Then, in the twenty-fourth verse: “He that keepeth His commandments dwelleth in Him, and He in him. And hereby we know that He abideth in us, by the spirit which He hath given us.” Then, in the second verse: “Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that when He shall appear we shall be like Him; for we shall see Him as He is.” There’s assurance for you again! In that one chapter six assurances. Every truth I get, my friends, seems to make me lighter and lighter, till I expect to fly away by-and-by. I heard Mr. Aitken one day, and he told us about a boy who had some gas-bags fastened round him, and they were so light that when he came to a hedge or a ditch he had only just to touch the bags and away they carried him right over. And it is just the same when we read the Bible, it makes us lighter and lighter, and we leap over the obstacles in our way. The truth makes us freer and freer. A brother in the Lord gave me some key-notes this week. He said Peter wrote about hope, “when the chief Shepherd shall appear;” the key-note of Paul’s writing appeared to be of faith, and of John’s love. “Faith, hope, and charity;” these were the three characteristics of the three men—the key-note to the whole of their teachings.

THE GOSPEL OF JOHN.—Then, again, I have been greatly blessed by going through the “believings” of John. As I said before, he wrote his gospel that we might believe. All through it is “believe, believe, believe.” If you want to persuade a man that Christ is the Son of God, John is the gospel for him. Take him right into and through the gospel of John. Matthew was a Jew, and he writes of Christ as a Jew—as the Son of David coming to take His throne. He commences with Abraham, and he treats of the kingdom all the way down to Christ. Mark begins with Malachi.

He takes it up where the Old Testament left off, and speaks of Christ as a servant coming to do the will of God. Luke begins with Zacharias. He takes up the human side and speaks of Him as a physician, healing the sick, making the lame to walk, and giving sight to the blind. But John brings Him out of the bosom of the Father. He goes beyond Malachi, beyond Abraham, beyond Adam—away beyond the morning stars, and brings Him out of the Father's bosom, and with one stroke of the pen settles the question of Unitarianism for ever. John was no Unitarian: every word he wrote was against it. He says the Son of God was manifest in the flesh. Go through John's Gospel, and study the "believes," the "verilys," the "I ams," and go through the Bible in that way, and it becomes a new book to you.

MAKE MARGINAL NOTES.—Another plan, and a good one, too, is when a preacher gives out a text just take and mark it, and as he goes on preaching, just put a few words in the margin, key-words that shall bring back the whole sermon again. By that plan of making a few marginal notes, I can remember sermons I heard years and years ago. Every man ought to take down some of the preacher's words and ideas, and go into some lane or alley and preach them out again to others. We ought to have four ears, two for ourselves and two for other people. Then, if you are in a new town, and have nothing else to say, jump up and say, "I heard some one say so-and-so," and they will always be glad to hear you if you give them heavenly food. The world is perishing for lack of it.

LITTLE AND WISE.—Some time ago, about eight years, I think, I heard an Englishman in Chicago preach from a curious text (Proverbs xxx. 24): "There be four things which are little upon the earth, but they are exceeding wise." "Well," said I to myself, "what will you make of these little things? I have seen them a good many times." Then he went on reading, "The ants are a people not strong, yet they prepare their meat in the summer." He said God's people were like the ant. "Well," I said, "I have seen a good many of them, but I never saw one like me." They were like the ants, he said, because they were laying up treasure in heaven, and preparing for the future; but the world rushed madly on, and forgot all about God's command to lay up for ourselves incorruptible treasures. "The conies are but a feeble folk, yet make they their houses in the rocks." He said the conies were very weak things; if you were to throw a stick at one of them you would kill it: but they were very wise, for they built their houses in the rocks, and where they are out of harm's way. And God's people are very wise, although very feeble, for they build on the Rock of Ages, and that Rock is Christ. "Well," I said, "I am certainly like the conies." Then came the next verse: "The locusts have no king, yet go they forth all of them in bands;" and I wondered what he was going to make of that. Now God's people, he said, had no king down here; the world said, "Cæsar is our king;" but he was not our king, our king was the Lord of hosts.

The locusts went out by bands, so did God's people; here was a Presbyterian band, here an Episcopalian band, here a Methodist band, and so on; but by-and-by the great King would come and catch up all those separate bands and they would all be one, one fold and one Shepherd. And when I heard that explanation I said, "I would like to be the locusts." I have got so sick, my friends, of this miserable denominationalism, I wish it could all be swept away. Well, he went on again. "The spider taketh hold with her hands, and is in king's palaces." Well, when he got to the spider, I said, "I don't like that at all, and don't like the idea of being compared to a spider." "But," he said, "if you went into a king's palace there was the spider hanging on his gossamer web, and looking down with scorn and contempt on the gilded saloon; he was laying hold of things above. And so every child of God ought to be like the spider, and lay hold of the unseen things of God." "And so," he said, "you see, my brethren, we who are God's people are like the ants, the conies, the locusts, and the spider, little things, but exceeding wise." I just put that down, my friends, and the recollection of it does me as much good this morning as when I first heard it.

Now, I have carried this Bible with me a good many years. It is worth more to me than all the Bibles in this place, and I will tell you why; because I have got so many passages marked in it, and if I am called upon to speak at any time I am ready. I have got these little words in the margin, and they are a sermon to me. Whether I speak about faith, hope, charity, assurance, or any subject whatever, it all comes back to me; and however unexpectedly I am called upon to preach, I am always ready. Every child of God ought to be like a soldier, and always hold himself in readiness. If the Queen's army were ordered to India to-morrow, the soldier is ready for the journey; but we can't be ready if we don't study the Bible. So whenever you hear a good thing just put it down, because if it's good for you it will be good for somebody else; and we should pass the coin of heaven round just as we do the sovereigns and other current coin of the realm.

JOB, THE KEY TO THE BIBLE.—In the year 1872 an Englishman remarked to me: "Mr. Moody, did you ever notice this, that the book of Job is the key to the whole Bible; if you understand Job you will understand the entire Bible?" "No," I said, "I don't understand that. Job the key to the whole Bible! How do you make that out?" He said, "I divide Job into seven heads. You know ministers generally have a great many heads to their sermons. The first head is: A perfect man untried. That's what God said about Job; that's Adam in Eden. He was perfect when God put him there. The second head is: Tried by adversity; and Job fell as Adam fell in Eden. The third head is: The wisdom of the world. The world tries to restore Job; the three wise men came to help Job. That was the wisdom of the world centered in those three men." "You cannot," said he, "find any such eloquent language or wisdom anywhere in any part of the world as these three men had; but they did not know anything about grace, and could not therefore help Job." And that's just what men are trying to do, and the result is they fail. Take the scientific men of our day who talk against the Bible. Have they made the world any better? The wisdom of man never made man any better. These three men did not help Job, but they made him worse. Some one has said the first man took him and gave him a good pull, and then the second and third did the same, and the three of them had three good pulls at Job, and then flat down they fell. Yes, my friends, and a good many men fall when they get into an argument. Very unprofitable things these arguments are. Job could stand anything better than those three men; he could even have stood a scolding wife better than his three friends. "Then in the fourth place," said he, "in comes the Daysman," that is Christ. Then in the fifth place, God speaks, and in the sixth, Job learns his lesson. "I have heard of Thee by the hearing of the ear: but now mine eye seeth Thee. Wherefore I abhor myself, and repent in dust and ashes." And then down came Job flat on the dunghill. "I abhor myself," and down he went in the dust; and had learnt his lesson. "And the seventh head is this, that God restores him." Thank God, my friends, it is so with us, and our last state is better than our first.

I would rather be a resurrected man with Christ than be Adam in Eden without Christ. Adam might have been in Eden ten thousand years, and the devil might have come in and he might have fallen. But now Satan cannot get at us, so that we are better than Adam was in Eden. God came down and gave man an earthly kingdom, and Satan came and said, "I will mar the work of God and destroy it." But God came down again and said, "I will lift up Adam and all his sons higher, even unto the heavens, and will break the power of Satan;" and God kept His promise, when He gave His Son to die for us. A friend of mine said to me, "Look here, Moody, God gave to Job double of everything." He would not admit that Job had lost his children, He had taken them to heaven, and He gave him ten more. So Job had ten in heaven and ten on earth—a goodly family. So when our children are taken from us they are not lost to us, but are merely gone before. I have not time to say more, but in conclusion I would advise all young converts to keep in the company as much as they can of more experienced Christians. I like to keep in the society of those who know more than I do, and I never lose a chance of getting all I can out of them. Study the Bible carefully and prayerfully, ask of others what this passage means and what that passage means, and when you have become practically acquainted with the great truths it contains, you will have less to fear from the world, the flesh, and the devil.

HOW TO READ THE BIBLE.

BY D. L. MOODY.

IN order to understand the Bible we have to study it carefully. If we will go to the Word of God and be willing to be taught by the Holy Ghost, God will teach us, and will unfold his blessed truths to us.

There are three books that every Christian ought to have if he cannot have but three. The first is a Bible—one with good plain print that you can easily read, not so good that you are afraid to mark it. I am sick of these little fine types. It is a good thing to get a good-sized Bible, because you will grow old by-and-by, and your sight may grow poor, and you wont want to give up the one you have been used to reading in after it has come to seem like a sort of life-long companion. The next book to get is "Cruden's Concordance." You cannot get on very well in Bible study without that. There is another book printed in this country by the AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY called the "Bible Text-Book." It was brought out first in London. These three books will be a wonderful help to you in studying the Word of God.

For a number of years I have made a rule not to read any book that does not help me to understand the Bible. I am a greater slave to that book than any man is to strong drink, and I am sure it does me a great deal more good. I think I have got the key to the study of the Bible. Take it topically! Take "Love," for instance, and spend a month in searching what the Bible says about love, from Genesis to Revelation. Thus you will learn to love everybody, whether they love you or not. In the same way take "Grace," "Faith," "Assurance," "Heaven," and so on. When you read your Bible, be sure you hunt for something. Read the same chapter over and over again till you understand it. I would add—make yourself thoroughly familiar with St. Paul's Epistles. They are the key to all the Holy Scriptures. Get a reference Bible, and you will find the best commentary in the margin.

Take up one word in a book, such as the "believes" in St. John. Every chapter but two, speaks of believing. Look up the nineteen personal interviews with Christ. Take the conversions of the Bible: the seven "blesseds" and "overcomes" of Revelation. See what 1 John 3 says about "assurance," and the six things worth knowing. Take up the five "precious" things of Peter, the "verilys" of John, the seven "walks" of Ephesians, the four "much mores" of Rom. 4, the two "receiveds" of John 1, the seven "hearts" in Prov. 23, and especially an eighth, the "lookings," the "lookings back," the "beholds" of the Bible.

Study the word in God's presence, with the help of the asked-for Spirit of God. If you have sin upon your conscience, it will hinder your understanding. Remember the blood. The light which shines from Calvary is the light that unfolds the Scriptures.

ADDITIONAL SUGGESTIONS.—1. Have for constant use a portable Reference Bible. 2. Carry a Bible or Testament with you. 3. Don't be afraid of marking it, or making notes on the margin: promises, exhortations, warnings to Christians, and invitations to the unsaved. 4. Do not be satisfied with simply reading a chapter, but study the meaning of at least one verse every day. 5. Study so as to ascertain the whole truth contained in a single incident or miracle: when and why written, how it applies to yourself, and how to use it for others. 6. Study to know for what, and to whom each book of the Bible was written. Study the Acts of the Apostles and the Epistles together, also Leviticus and Hebrews, etc. 7. Believe in the Bible as God's revelation to you, and act accordingly. 8. Learn at least one verse of Scripture each day. Verses from memory will be wonderfully useful in your daily life and work. See Josh. i: 8; Psa. cxix: 11. 9. Study how to use the Bible so as to "walk with God" and lead others to Christ. 10. Set apart at least fifteen minutes each day for studying it; this little will be grand in result, and never be regretted. 11. Read the Book as if it were written for yourself. 12. Always ask God to help you to understand it, and then EXPECT that He will. 13. Have Cruden's Concordance and a Bible Text-book at hand; also in all cases refer to parallel passages and margin notes, and take time to think.

HOW TO READ THE BIBLE.

BY REV. J. E. SAMPSON.

I have hope of the worst man, as long as he will read his Bible. I feel sure he will turn to God some day. I am full of fear for the best man, if he neglects his Bible. He is almost certain to fall before the enemy. Amid these last day perils, there is no safeguard but in the Word of God.

Two men of God have lately given good advice about studying the Bible. Mr. Moody says, "For a number of years, I have made it a rule not to read any book that does not help me to understand the Bible. I am a greater slave to that book than any man is to strong drink, and I am sure it does me a deal more good. Every Christian ought to have a good Bible—not so good that you are afraid to mark it—and a Concordance. I think I have got the key to the study of the Bible. Take it topically. Take Love, for instance, and spend a month in searching what the Bible says about love, from Genesis to Revelation. Then you will love everybody whether they love you or not. In the same way take Grace, Faith, Assurance, Heaven, and so on. When you read your Bible, be sure you hunt for something. Spend six months studying Genesis: it is the seed-plant of the Bible. Read the same chapter over and over again, till you understand it. I would add—make yourself thoroughly familiar with St. Paul's Epistles. They are the key to all the Holy Scripture. Do not think you would do better with a Commentary. They are useful to consult sometimes. But it is better for you to be without one, than that you should depend on one. Get a Reference Bible, and you will find the best commentary in the margin.

"Take up one word in a book, such as the believes in St. John. Every chapter but two speaks of believing. Look up the nineteen personal interviews with Christ. Take the conversions of the Bible: the seven blesseds and overcomes of Revelation. See what 1 John iii. says about Assurance, and the six things worth knowing. Take up the five precious things of Peter, the *verily*s of John, the seven walks of Ephesians, the five much mores of Rom. v., the two receivings of John i., the seven hearts in Prov. xxiii. and especially an eighth, "the lookings, the lookings back, the Beholds, of the Bible. If we know our Bibles, Satan will not have much power over us."

Mr. Muller, of Bristol, who has obtained a good report through faith, suggests this plan. "Begin the Old Testament and read a portion. The next time you read, begin the New in the same way. The next time, a portion of the Old beginning where you left off before; and next time again, a portion of the New. Thus you will soon get through the New; then begin it again; and so with the Old—the result will be, you will increasingly love the Word of God. I have tried this plan for forty-six years, and though I have read nearly one hundred times the whole of the Blessed Word of God, I never tire of it. The more I read it the more precious it becomes to my heart, the more delight still I take in reading it. It is always a new book to me, when I begin it again from the beginning. Bible reading is the great means of nourishing the soul. If you neglect this, you will never make much progress. Do not be discouraged if, on your first reading, you do not understand. By little and little you will learn more."

It is remarkable that two such mighty men of faith should have given such similar and striking testimony to the necessity and happiness of pondering in the Word of God.

I venture to suggest further the plan which for some years I have found very profitable. It is the adoption of two methods. First, continue reading straight on through the Bible from beginning to the end. About two pages a day, in an ordinary sized Bible, will bring you through in a year. But read more than this, if you have time; and as years roll by you will be tempted to read more and more. In this way you will get a general knowledge of the entire Scriptures. You will notice the scope and main object of each book. You will see that there is a Divine order in the arrangement of the books. Try as you go on, to see the chief predominating topic of each book; and observe how the "New Testament lies hid in the Old, and the Old Testament lies open in the New."

Then, at the same time, have in hand some one book for special study and searching. It may be well to take a book in the New Testament for this more particular study, while you are reading the Old Testament; take, for example, one of St. Paul's Epistles. Read it through several times, till you see the outline of it, and have got hold of the line of thought and the steps of argument, or the main divisions of the book. Do not begrudge time spent reading, in this way, over and over again. It is time well spent. Then, when you have grasped the general drift and subject of the book, begin at the first chapter, and take it verse by verse, and word by word, searching out parallel texts and words in the Old Testament and the New, and observing how the Bible in one part explains the Bible in another.

By pursuing these methods you will be surprised how your interest in the Scripture, and love for its pages will increase. You will make it the centre of all your reading, and nothing will be thought worthy of your study which does not in some way or other bear upon it.

It is well to have some fixed time in the day for Bible reading. What is left to be done at any time is usually never done at all. Keep to your time as regularly as you can, but if on any occasion you are not able to do so, do not condemn yourself as if you had sinned.

Always pray before you read. Ask God to be your teacher, to enlighten the eyes of your heart by his Holy Spirit. If Bezaleel needed to be "filled with the Spirit of God, in wisdom, and in understanding, and in knowledge," that he might know how to construct the material tabernacle, how much more do we need the fulness of the same Holy Spirit, that we may understand the "wondrous things" of the great temple of revealed truth.

Be sure you read your Bible with faith, believing every word. Have no thoughts or opinions of your own, but like a little child receive the Word of God in simple trust. Let no feeling of your own unworthiness make you stagger at the rich fulness and freeness of God's promises. Often ask yourself as you read, Am I believing this? Remember that "these are the true sayings of God." "The Scripture cannot be broken." Never doubt your heavenly Father's word. 1 John v. 10.

Let your object in knowing the Word of God be, that you may do the will of God. If you have sin upon your conscience it will hinder your understanding. Live out faithfully in your daily life all you learn. Think of the connection between the laying aside and the laying apart with the desiring and receiving in 1 Pet. ii. 1, 2, and Jam. i. 21. No one who allows sin in his life can know the truth in his heart.

It is good sometimes to sit or kneel before God, and meditate and ponder over some portion of the Word of Truth. Speak with God about it; praise him for it; ask him to fulfil it all in you. Remember that in prayer, you are speaking to God; that in reading the Bible, God is speaking to you. Let your listening heart say, Speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth. Pause, and think over some blessed text, and allow your soul to drink in all its rich and precious meaning. When the Psalmist speaks of the downward course of the wicked, the contrast he draws between them and the righteous man is very striking—"But," he says, "his delight is in the law of the Lord, and in his law doth he meditate day and night."

Study the Word in God's presence. Remember the blood. The light which shines from Calvary is the light which unfolds the Scriptures. A stain upon your conscience will be like a speck upon your eye. If you are indeed a child of God, it will not only be exquisite pain to you; it will almost blind you. Bring it to the blood to be cleansed. Then, walking in the truth, you will be able to understand the truth, and the truth will sanctify you.

I earnestly urge you to make Bible-reading your daily habit. Let it be a fixed principle with you that you need "the Words of his mouth" for your soul's nourishment and health, "more than your necessary food" for your body. I have seen many a young Christian fall away for lack of this. You have found forgiveness, young believer, through faith in the atoning blood of Christ; and you are happy, supremely happy. But forgiveness, blessed as it is, is not food. And if you have no food you will have no strength. You will hunger. And the hungry will eat anything. If you do not go on, applying yourself to the careful reading of your Bible, increasing in the knowledge of Christ, your famished soul, will readily eat of the world's dainties, and Satan will not be slow to spread them temptingly before you. But if you are nourished by the hidden manna; if, searching the Scriptures, your soul is filled with the knowledge and love of Christ Jesus your Lord, you will "never hunger," you will have no heart for the world's allurements. "A full soul loatheth even an honeycomb."

Christian, if you would stand before the enemy, if you would walk humbly and happily with your God, if you would be useful in the Lord's vineyard, search the Scriptures daily and diligently. "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable, for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

THE READING OF THE BIBLE.

BY PASTOR TH. MONOD.

The reading of the Bible should have the first place in our religious employments, for it is upon the Word of God that our faith is founded. We recognize this, but too often we only read it as a duty. We say to ourselves: "We must read a chapter every morning, and two chapters on Sunday, it is a positive duty; we must put aside the interesting book which we have begun, and open our Bible," and we do it.

We shall not make much progress thus. The other day in reading Psalm i. for the hundredth time, I was struck for the first time with what is there stated concerning the Word of God. David does not say in Psalm i. "Blessed is the man who reads this Word day and night." No, but he says, "Blessed is the man whose delight is in the law of the Lord, and in His law doth he meditate day and night." He takes pleasure in it, it interests him more than the daily paper, or the book which has just come out. It is more full of life and freshness to him; it is more real, he feels the beauties of it more. And if he meditates in it, it is because he takes pleasure in it. At our meetings in Paris, I heard a comparison which struck me. It was said: Suppose a young lady had read a book, of poetry if you like, or some other book. She had been interested in it, touched more or less by it, and she replaced it in her library. But not long after the author of this book came to her parent's house; he made her acquaintance, their relations became more intimate, and finally she was betrothed to this author. Now she takes up his book, the same book. Oh! in what a different spirit she reads it again. It is a completely new book. There are, however, the same sentences. Yes! but in each word she seeks to know something of the thought, character, and heart of him whom she loves, and who loves her. No, it will be no more the same book. Well, my dear friends, what we want is to take the Bible and say to ourselves, "This is the book of Him whom I love, and who loves me; the book which will teach me something more about His thoughts, His work, what He has done, and what he has promised to do. This is the book which is going to open to me the heart of my Saviour, God.

Believe me, it will be thus another book, and a book of which a few lines will do more good than whole pages and chapters, when we only read them as a matter of conscience, as a duty, and in fact to be able to say, "It is done, I have read my chapter."

Therefore let us ask God that He may grant us to take pleasure in His law. There is no other way to delight in God's law than to love Himself. And it is impossible to remain in the faith and love of God, if one is not employed in His service.

In short we must always return to the same point. We must give ourselves to God just as we are. And if that is indeed what we wish, by the goodness of God we may be sure he will grant it to us; and then we shall dwell in His love, and we also shall be among those who delight to meditate in His Word day and night.

THE BOOKS OF THE BIBLE.

First Genesis, and Exodus, Leviticus, and Numbers,
Deuteronomy, and Joshua, and Judges too, and Ruth;
Then Samuel, Kings, and Chronicles, and Ezra, Nehemiah,
And Esther, Job, and David's Psalms are in God's Book of Truth.

The wise king's Proverbs follow next, and then Ecclesiastes ;
 The song of Solomon precedes Isaiah's glorious strain ;
 Then Jeremiah, prophet sad, weeps forth his lamentations ;
 Ezekiel and Daniel foretell Messiah's reign,

Hosea, Joel, Amos next, the book of Obadiah,
 And Jonah, Micah, Nahum too, then Habakkuk appears ;
 And Zephaniah, Haggai, the prophet Zechariah ;
 And Malachi completes the roll, ere Christ, four hundred years.

The Gospels—Matthew, Mark, Luke, John,—the Acts of the Apostles ;
 Then Romans, and Corinthians, Galatians next we note ;
 Ephesians, and Philippians, Colossians, Thessalonians :
 St. Paul these nine Epistles to the early churches wrote.

Next Timothy and Titus come, Philemon and the Hebrews ;
 Then James ; and Peter's letters tell of "precious" things above :
 John's three Epistles ; Jude ; and last, John's wondrous Revelation,
 The "Volume of the Book" complete, God's blessed Book of Love !

BY DR. STUART ROBINSON, OF LOUISVILLE, KY.

This question refers not to any external methods of scriptural study, but to the proper conception of such study as a means of that Christian self-culture which is becoming prominent among the aims of Young Men's Christian Associations. It is natural for Christian young men, who have already some spiritual insight into the Scriptures, to inquire how shall we most successfully derive from them spiritual culture and meetness for the great work of bringing souls to Christ. Just this question has sprung from and represents that grand new conception of the Young Men's Christian Association known as the "Bible Reading." In answering this inquiry I offer a few suggestions or a series of what you may consider clues to the spiritual significance of the Bible. And these are taken from the Scriptures themselves, for in them the Holy Ghost gives the instruction we need on this subject : (1) To obtain this spiritual improvement we must treat these sacred pages as the word of God. The Holy Spirit declares "All scripture is given by inspiration of God." It is not primarily the words of Moses, prophets, evangelists and apostles. For hundreds of times these writers declare it is not their word, but "the word of the Lord came unto me,"—"thus saith the Lord." Yes, "all scripture is by inspiration," Old Testament and New alike. Not only the evangelists record the words of Jesus Incarnate, but to the apostles Jesus declared "the Holy Ghost shall teach you what you ought to say." "He shall bring all things to your remembrance." "He shall take of mine and shall show it unto you." Both Jesus and his apostles declared that "holy men of old spake as they were moved of the Holy Ghost." Nay, an apostle was inspired of the Holy Ghost to say that it was "the spirit of Christ" in these prophets that did prophesy. So that in every page it is "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, to-day and forever," that is speaking. Not only that He once spoke these things, but is now speaking them to every soul that comes asking at the holy oracle.

True, to the eye of sense there is little of glory in this homely and solitary book with its divisions of authors, chapters and verses. But faith recognizes the fact that to make this holy record, the chariot of heaven made many a visit to earth; that the Almighty made bare his arm to do many a wonder, compelling men to heed these utterances; that the gleaming finger of Omnipotence beckoned many a signal to arrest men's attention—yea, that Nature herself often arose from her throne in reverent awe at the voice of her glorious Lord, and dropped her sceptre as He worked his signs and wonders to attest His word.

The soul that by faith apprehends something of its transcendent dignity and majesty in origin and aim, will feel the need of careful preparation of heart. Such an one will hear a voice commanding, "put off the shoes from thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground." When the study of the scriptures becomes thus a reverent act of worship, there is realized that for which the Psalmist prayed "open thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law." The study of scripture then affords something more than a mere intellectual exercise; the spiritual man is strengthened and refreshed.

(2.) But while thus conceived of in their divine majesty, the scriptures are to be interpreted in their obvious sense. For it is the teaching of the Holy Spirit in the scriptures that they are the utterances of God to men. While the Bible is a divine book, it is yet the most human of books. It is God speaking, but speaking to our finite minds. While its topics of thought are lofty beyond all the topics of human learning and science, the reverent student of the Word, though unlearned, may master that which "makes wise unto salvation." It deals not in terms of scientific theology, but uses language current among the people, and is found to change its fashion of thought and expression with the changes of the fashions of thought and expression in successive civilizations for 4,000 years.

(3.) The Bible is the most human of books in revealing man to himself. Its grand idea is, that we need not merely a revelation of God but of man's nature as well. Hence this revelation connected itself with the history of man for five thousand years, and developed itself through the ever-varying phases of humanity. It records not simply utterances of God speaking from Heaven to man, but the utterances also of the human soul answering back to the voice of God; now in cries of mysterious terror; now in shouts of defiant impenitency; now in penitential wailing for sin; now in the joyous cries of child-like faith and trust. This book is no divine monologue, but an amazing dialogue of the ages between earth and heaven. It records both how God spoke and how man responded, or rather how God is ever speaking and how man is ever answering. And thus while it reveals God in His infinite mysteries that we may understand Him, it no less fully reveals man in the dreadful mysteries of his nature that he may understand himself. Where, in classic tragedy, ancient or modern, is there any painting of human nature comparable to that in the Scripture? With a few touches Pharaoh stands before us far more distinctly than the Dido of Virgil, the Medea of Euripides, or the Lady Macbeth of Shakespeare.

As you study the human side of this book, are you not ready to say, like the woman at Jacob's Well, "Come, see a man who told me all things that ever I did." While, therefore, we come reverently to study the awful mystery of God the Saviour, we come humbly to learn also the deceitfulness and depravity of our souls—our guilt, helplessness, hopelessness, and godlessness, till infinite love interposes for us. The study of the Scriptures is a failure if it does not produce penitence for sin and faith in the Sin-bearer. Such study the Holy Ghost uses for awakening the soul to penitence and inspiring faith that is "unto salvation." Indeed, such study can be inspired only by the Holy Ghost. Hence meditation should be accompanied by the earnest supplication, "open thou mine eyes that I may behold wondrous things out of thy law;" "sanctify me through thy truth—thy word is truth."

(4.) With all its variety of era, civilization and authorship, the Bible is a book of one idea. The apostle who did not shun to declare the whole counsel of God, sums up that whole counsel in two words: "Christ crucified." A most fruitful source of error is in not distinguishing between the religion of nature gathered from reason and the works of God, and the religion of Christ revealed in this book. The former, combining with the conscious instincts of man, demonstrates him a sinner doomed to death. The latter shows the sinner how he may stand guiltless before God by means of an infinite substitute, Christ crucified. To expound the relation of the substitute to God on the one hand, and to man, the sinner, on the other, is the one idea of the book. I am told simply to take that substitution made by Him for me, and put it between me and the Judge, and He cannot see my sin. But men get their ideas from natural religion, and teach that you must be good. To the question: "What must I do to be saved?" all false gospels say: "Do something," "go and perform the ritual," "go into the true church," "go through the ordinances of baptism and extreme unction," "go and be baptized." But Christ answered, "there is nothing to do. 'This is the work of God, that ye believe in him whom he hath sent.'" As I sometimes tell my Unitarian friends, your religion is very good in itself, if you would only not call it Christianity or the gospel and thereby impose upon the people a mere religion of nature for the religion of Christ the Saviour. Your religion tells me that if I behave myself God will be good to me. That is no "good news," for I knew it before. Nature taught me that, as one of the primary instincts of my moral nature. But the trouble is, I have not behaved myself, and I want now to know how such a sinner can stand acceptably before God. This is what the gospel comes to tell me. You steal the gospel brand and trade-mark and affix it to your natural religion, manufacturing therefrom a spurious imitation of the waters of life. And the structure of this revealed system of theology is not such as ours, who construct our system as we do a house, laying beam upon beam. God constructs His system of theology as he does the living oak of the forest. He plants the germinal acorn among the clods of a wasted Eden, and it grows and expands parallel with the germ of the race till the fulness of time, when under its mighty boughs all nations may have shelter. Each successive revelation is an expansion of the revelation before it, till all is closed up with that great seal, written all over with curses against him who shall add or take away a syllable from what has been said in all the foregoing books of the revelation. That it means to cover all the foregoing books is evident from the fact that each of the foregoing revelations from the Pentateuch onward calls for something to follow. But this last book closes up all with a great seal.

If you examine the gospel germ in the Eden revelation "I will put enmity between thee and the woman and between thy seed and her seed. It shall bruise thy head and thou shalt bruise his heel," you will find in it the elements of all the great doctrines of salvation subsequently revealed. Thus:

1. The promised Redeemer and Restorer of the race is to be man, since He is to be the seed of the woman.

2. He is to be more than man and greater than Satan, for He is to be the conqueror of man's conqueror. He must therefore be Divine.

3. Man's redemption shall involve a new nature, for it shall be at enmity with the Satan nature to which man has now become subject.

4. This new nature is to be a regeneration by Divine power, for the declaration is "I (Jehovah) will put enmity," etc.

5. This redemption is to be accomplished by vicarious suffering—since the Redeemer is to suffer the excruciating torture of the bruising of his heel in the work of recovery.

6. This redemption is to involve the ultimate triumph of the woman's seed, and therefore involves a triumph over death, and a resurrection and restoration of humanity to its original estate—the union of a spiritual nature with a physical in complete blessedness as before the fall.

This is the germinal gospel, and the purpose of all the succeeding revelations recorded in the book is the fuller expression and development of this Eden gospel. Hence it is just as much the gospel according to Moses, the gospel according to David and Isaiah, as it is the gospel according to Matthew or Mark or Luke or John or Peter or Paul. It is all alike gospel. And no one who fails to see this can ever have a clear comprehension of the Scripture.

(5.) Bible truth must, in the nature of the case, be at least two-sided, and often many sided. As it is the utterance of the divine mind to a human mind, every proposition must have its divine and its human side. On its divine side it may involve secret things which belong to the Lord, but on its human side are the things which concern us. Thus, it tells you in one place that "Pharoah hardened his heart." Again that "the Lord hardened his heart," and in another place, that "Pharoah's heart is hardened." "All that the Father giveth me shall come to me." Here is redemption viewed on its divine side. "And him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out." Here in the same proposition is redemption viewed on its human side. So again, "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling." Here is the process of salvation viewed on its human side. "For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure." Here is the process of saving a soul viewed on its divine side. So again, Paul declares to the centurion: "Be of good cheer, for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, but of the ship; for there stood by me this night the angel of God, saying, God hath given thee all that sail with thee." Here is the ground of implicit confidence, viewing it from the divine side. Yet a little after, as the ship is going to pieces, and the sailors, pretending to fix it, are getting away in their boats, the same Paul says to the same centurion: "Except these abide in the ship ye cannot be saved." Here is the proposition of their safety viewed from the human side. "Why," the centurion might have said, "did not you tell me that not a man would perish? Now you say, unless I keep the sailors on board they are going to be lost; that is a contradiction." Yes, you will find the Bible full of such contradictions; and if you want to show off your superior intellect, you will have a life work with them.

Again, propositions relating to practical duty are two-sided or many-sided. "He that is not with me is against me," is the rule by which to judge your own heart. "He that is not against us is for us," is the rule by which to judge your neighbor, whose heart you cannot see. One man coming to Jesus, in answer to His summons "Follow Me," says "Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father." Jesus says: "Let the dead bury their dead." Another, a wild man, living in the tombs, whom Jesus heals, is so full of gratitude, that he wants to follow Him. But Jesus answers; "Go home to thy friends and tell how great things the Lord hath done for you." In the first case, the endearments of the family had got too fast a hold of the man; he was not ready yet to forsake all. But this wild man had never known anything of such endearments. He must be fitted by them for Christ's service. The truth seems contradictory but it is the nature of the truth.

And here is the secret of much religious controversy between Evangelical Christians. One takes his stand on the divine side of a great proposition of scripture, and will not go around and look at the human side; while the other, taking his stand on the human side, will not go around to the divine side. Each stands on his side rattling the dry bones of his metaphysics and devising theories of interpretation, instead of simply comparing scripture with scripture, and looking at all sides of the great truths of inspiration. If you would get at the mind of the Spirit, you must bear in mind this many-sidedness of the truths revealed. The caviler who is searching for contradictions may have as much room for displaying his subtlety as he pleases. The Bible has nothing to say to such—has nothing to say to any other than earnest souls.

(6.) Though we have the scriptures translated out of the Hebrew and Greek into the language of the people, still, being ancient books given in different ages, it is needful also that they be translated out of the forms of thought belonging to ancient civilizations into those belonging to our civilization. Hence the importance of acquainting ourselves with the peculiarities of the ancient peoples to whom the oracles of God were originally given. The teacher skilful in this art may always rely upon an attentive and interested hearing.

I have been at this thirty years. Beginning at Genesis I went through book after book and chapter after chapter to Revelation. The first time it took me seven years. The next time at the rate I went, it would have taken twelve years; the third time fifteen years. After the war, I went home and took up the part before omitted, and it will take me twenty years to get through.

(7.) I have said nothing as to how we may know that the scriptures are the Word of God. The best of people sometimes have doubts. David Brainerd said, the morning before he died, "that his mind was full of dark, atheistic doubts." Satan is not going to let you alone. He will give you doubts.

But to the class of minds contemplated in these remarks the scriptures have a self-evidencing power more convincing than all external proof; indeed, to them elaborate demonstration seems impertinent. In our variable climate you have sometimes seen how spring, as if impatient, obtrudes into the domain of winter its mists and warm showers; and winter, that has seemingly abdicated, suddenly returns on the wings of the north wind, and as if to punish the intrusion, steals upon the rain drop in the darkness of night as it is gathering upon the twig, and the moisture upon the dripping walls, and the mist as it is floating over hill and dale, and, with one blast of his cold breath, transmutes all into solid crystal. And of the return of the day, behold, all nature sparkles in jeweled robes. As if under the fascinations of the magic lamp of Aladdin, each withered blade is decked in a glittering robe, surpassing that of "Solomon in all his glory." The trees of the field smile in a gorgeous foliage that weighs down every twig as with a load of burnished silver; the walls of hedges gleam in beauty as the jasper walls of heaven; the hills, the craggy cliffs, the lofty mountains, far as the eye can reach, seem floating in a sea of light, which dazzles the vision with its effulgent brightness. Suppose, now, as you gaze entranced upon a scene, some platitudinal philosopher should propose to demonstrate to you by the principles of optics the self-evidencing truth that it is the sun in heaven yonder that gives this scene all the light and beauty! Yet it would be hardly less absurd to obtrude external and internal evidences of the scriptures upon the spiritually-minded student to whose eye, that the source of its light and beauty is the glorious Sun of Righteousness.

There is little to be gained by arguments on evidences with these half-earnest, or unearnest, unspiritual cavilers and sceptics, who want to be demonstrated into the Kingdom of Heaven. "If any man will (i.e., is willing to) do His will," saith Jesus, "he shall know of the doctrine whether it be of God." It is want of will rather than want of argument that leads men to doubt and cavil at the gospel. And upon such argument and proof are labor lost, and more than lost.

(8.) The best model in guiding and directing sinners is the example of Jesus. Notice his instructions to them, and you have the very primer of the whole science.

(a.) He spoke with great simplicity, so as to be understood by all. He rejoices that the things of His kingdom "are revealed unto babes." In his inaugural sermon He declares that he is "anointed to preach the gospel to the poor." To John the Baptist he sends, as part of the evidence of His Messiahship, the announcement, "To the poor the gospel is preached." All His teaching is couched in simplest language, level to the understanding of all, and "the common people heard gladly."

(b.) He spoke with authority. He used no learned arguments. He tells them "I know this is true, for I came down from Father to declare it," and "no man knoweth the Father but the Son." So Christians, like Him, should speak with authority, not reasoning on the high points of theology, but giving simply the testimony of God's word.

(c.) He spake by parables. As a mother, in reply to her child's questions, labors to build up the idea, piece by piece, by a sort of parable, so Jesus would say to his disciples: "You want to know whether my gospel is to go on by the power of God? Did you ever see a man sowing wheat in a field? Some fell on the wayside, and was eaten up by the birds. Some fell on the rock, and came up very quickly; but was soon burnt up. Some fell among thorns, and started off well; but the thorns and weeds choked it. And some fell on good ground, and brought forth much fruit. That is the way my kingdom is to grow." And that is a perfect description of every audience which from that day to this has assembled to hear the gospel. And again Jesus said: "Did you ever notice a woman making bread? She puts the yeast in the centre of the pile, but she doesn't stir it, and soon it leavens the whole lump. That is the way my kingdom is to leaven the world." It is to plant in a community, in the very heart of it, a Y. M. C. A., like yeast in the meal, and let them work away, and soon you will see the whole community leavened.

(d.) A fourth method of our Lord's teaching, the meaning of which has been surprisingly overlooked, was by miracles. Why are so many miracles recorded? One would have been sufficient simply to attest the divine power of Christ. It is to illustrate in things of an external nature that transcendent spiritual work which goes on in the soul. Notice that at one time a blind man sees as soon as Christ speaks. At another time the healed man says: "I see men as trees walking," two miracles are required, all objects are like shadows moving over a picture. So Christ performs another miracle, He rectifies his judgment as well as his sight. So in your spiritual darkness you get discouraged, but go on toward Christ and as He has done one miracle for you He will do the other. The cure of the deaf mute is a miracle to encourage the most ignorant. This man sees and wonders who Jesus is. Perhaps he thought He was a learned rabbi. Jesus takes him aside from the multitude, one evangelist says "out of the town,"—just as when a mother wants a little child to learn its Sunday school lesson, she takes it into a room away from the play-ground. Then He touches his tongue with His spittle and puts His fingers in his ears. He was talking to him by signs. After He wakes up the desire and the hope that leads to faith, the poor deaf mute thinks a great man is dealing with him. Then, with His fingers in his ears He looks up to Heaven and sighs, as if saying "see deaf mute, no power but that which comes down from Heaven can cure you." After this He says: "Ephphatha," be opened. Christ never wrought a miracle until the blessing was wanted. Often he awakened the desire as in the cripple at the Pool of Bethesda. He had become a cynic, his whole nature was soured. "Wilt thou be made whole?" "This is a curious question. I would not have lain here thirty-eight years if I did not want to be made whole." But what he asked it for was this: The man thinks, "This man is unlike others, for He even comes here and speaks to me." Jesus awakes hope in the frozen soul. He listens as he tells him how they get ahead of him, and then come the words: "Rise, take up thy bed and walk." His miracles are so many diagrams of His work of grace on souls in darkness, under a sense of moral impotency or of utter ignorance.

The first thing, the first step, is to come to Him. The sum and substance of all scripture is that Jesus Christ wants to be the Saviour of every one who wants Him to be his Saviour. Look at the gospel figures; they all form a single picture. The gospel tells the sinner to "fly to the stronghold." "But," he says, "I have not strength to fly." Then "come unto me and I will give you rest." "Him that cometh to me," viz., him that is coming or is making a motion to come, whether he feels I could help or not. Him that is coming "I will in no wise cast out." But if you cannot come, then reach out your hand like that man in the synagogue. If you say "I cannot reach it out," then "look to Jesus" as the children of Israel looked at the serpent which Moses lifted up in the wilderness. Will you say "still there is a spiritual veil over my eye; I can see nothing distinctly;" then says the gospel "Lie still where you are and I will throw my robe of righteousness around you." This is the gospel. And the last word that Jesus Christ sent back after being on the throne fifty years—the last word before the curse is pronounced against any that shall add to or take from the sacred oracles—against the Koran's and Joe Smith's revelations—was "Close the Record." No; there is something else to come. Malachi closes up the Old Testament calling for something afterwards. Jesus goes away and calls for the spirit; and just before that seal is put on, the love of Jesus from the Throne yonder crowds down before the seal of the last gospel. The Spirit saith "Come," in those whisperings of conscience that are heard in every man. The Bride, the Church I have planted upon earth, say to every man "come," "come." That is what the Church is on earth for. But some poor sinner, where there is no church, may not hear the invitation. Then, "let him that heareth say come." The private member of the church, man, woman or child, can say "Hear my voice." To whoever has the love of God in his heart, God says, "I will make you a missionary." There is the authority for Young Men's Christian Associations. If any one asks your authority for preaching the gospel just take that text, "Let him that heareth say come." Is not that wide enough? No! Some poor sinner may say: No Christian invited me to 'come.'" Shall, therefore, that poor soul be lost? No. Write, "let him that is athirst come,"—come to the waters of life. Now the door is wide enough. No! not yet. Some simple soul says: "I am thirsty enough, but it don't say me." Therefore, says the love of Jesus, in the last of the gospel that ever came from God and from Heaven: "Strike out 'athirst,' and put it in the widest language the thought of man can conceive—'Whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely,'" and that means any sinner that will come.

For the critical study of God's word, and we have a conversational Bible class for young men. The Association will prosper in proportion as its members are brought together over God's Word. In studying this, we should in the first instance shut ourselves up exclusively to it. The Bible is its own best commentator. Then use other helps within reach. I believe with Geo. Muller, of Ashley Downs, that man who has been living a life of faith for fifty years, and whose mind is saturated with Bible truth, that it is best to commence with Genesis and go through to Revelation, because otherwise we are apt to go over repeatedly the parts of Scripture that more particularly attract us, to the neglect of other parts that are important for us to know. Let us determine to know more about this precious truth, looking at it for ourselves, that our souls may rest in the Lord. Always have a Bible with marginal references. Let us familiarize ourselves with chapter and verse, that we may the more easily refer to, and apply the Word.

READ GOD'S WORD ORDERLY.

E. C. CHENERY.

From an old book by Elnathan Parr, in my library, given me by a mother in Israel now eighty-eight years old, printed in London in 1632, or twelve years after the landing of the Pilgrims, and six years before the founding of Harvard College, and formerly the property of one of the first graduates of that College, I transcribe the following in both the spelling and punctuation, doubting not that it will interest your readers, while its instruction may be safe for us to follow :—

“The second thing required in reading of the Word, is Order and Method; which is a great furtherance of knowledge, and a singular helpe of memory. An army disranked and out of battell aray, never getteth the victory; so neither doth disorderly and confusedly reading get any great measure of grounded knowledge.

“As St. Luke wrote the Gospel in an orderly manner from poynt to poynt: so we are to reade the Word in an orderly manner, going forward from poynt to poynt. Memorable is the example of our Alphonsus a King of Spayne; who, notwithstanding the affairs of his Kingdom, read over the Bible fourtene times in order, with certayne Commentaries upon the same. As his diligence is here very commendable, and for our imitation; so also this He reade in order.

“If therefore I were worthy to give directions this way, I would thus advise: First, What booke soever we take to read, to begin at the beginning, and so continue reading till wee come to the end of it. And thus shall wee carry the summe and the drift of the History and argument before us: of which in a great part, they which read now a chapter in one booke, now a leaf in another, must needs be ignorant. Such simple Readers I may liken to those simple women, which are alwayes reading, but are never able to come to any sound knowledge of the truth. For as hee that goeth but an easie pace in the right way, speedeth his journey faster than hee that maketh more haste in a wrong way. Even so a little read in a good order, advantageth the knowledge more than greater paines, if it be confused.

“Second, I would advise, that in our reading we begin first with easiest and plainest Books, as the History of Christ, set downe by the evangelists, and the Booke of Genesis; then to reade the Epistles, first the shortest, as the Epistles to the Philippians, Colossians, the first and second to the Theslaonians: then the Epistles to the Galatians, and to the Romans, which last Epistle is called of some, the Key of the Bible. And when we have tryed ourselves in these, then to begin the Bible, and to read it through ; For even as in Trades there are some things more easie, to the which the apprentice is applyed ; and afterwards as he groweth in capacity, hee is taught the harder and more secret things of his mystery ; so in the Scriptures, there are some things easie and familiar for learners, and beginners, as milke for babes ; and there are other things, hard and obscure, which is not safe to meddle withall, till we have our senses well exercised in the Word.

"Theodosius the second Emperor of that name, is reported to have written out the Bookes of the New Testament with his own hand, accounting it a speciall Jewell ; and out of it hee read every day, praying with his Wife and Sisters, and singing of Psalms. And it was a famous Eunuches practice, as we may gather out of the eyghth Chapter of the Acts. I reade of another Emperour of Rome, who was wont to account that day lost, in the which he had not bestowed a benefit upon some of his subjects : So we may well reckon that day among our losses, in the which we reade not, or meditate not of something in the Word. . . . Hath the body neede of nourishment, and hath not the soule much more ? Now the bread of the soule is the Word of God. O Lord, give us evermore of this bread. Amen.

"The third thing that is to be done is Application ; to make use of that we attayne unto in our reading, in the reforming of our lives. Many esteeme highly of the tree of knowledge, with Eve ; but they regard not the tree of life ; when as the very life of our knowledge consisteth in the practice of that which we know.

"As it is sayd of Hearers, so it is sayd of Readers. Not the readers of the Word, but the doers shall be justified. . . . Some read onely to this end, that they may know more than they did ; and this is vanity : Some, that they may be knowne to know more ; and this is pride : Some to make a gaine of their knowledge ; and this is filthily lucre : Some, to edifie others ; and this is charity : Some to edifie themselves ; and this is Christian prudence ; such like words hath one of the Ancients. Another sayth thus : " Ther is our reading to be commended, when we turne the words into works. The Scriptures are God's Epistie, written to men, to the end they should live well. . . . Now to God onely wise, be honour and prayse for evermore. Amen ! Amen ! "

METHODS OF BIBLE STUDY.

BY THE REV. HENRY S. DE FOREST.

The International Lesson Series, of necessity, has to hop, skip and jump through the Bible. The three hundred and fifty lessons allowed by the seven years only suffice to look at a small part of what God has written. And while no undue thought is given to the selected paragraphs, there is great risk that the Bible as a whole may be neglected. It is well to keep in mind methods of e study other and in addition to the preparation of the Sunday-school lesson.

For one thing, the Bible should be read in course, over and over again, till we are well familiarized with the whole. Revelation was progressive. Like the rising of the sun, the light is dimmer at first than at high noon. The promise that the seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head is the dawn. We find midday when in the fulness of time Christ came and brought life and immortality to light. The Old Testament leads the way to the New, as a porch stands before a more stately temple. The Gospel according to John gives us views of Christ which we do not find in the synoptical Gospels. The Acts give us the growth and development of the church, whose foundation only is recorded by the evangelists; and the great doctrines, as that of justification by faith, are presented in their fulness only in the Epistles. Then since revelation has been a progressive work, to understand it well we need to begin at the beginning and advance to the end.

Another reason for this systematic study of the Bible is, that without it we shall lose much of the rarest worth. For God's word is a deep mine; its treasures are found where we do not expect; nuggets of the purest gold are hidden in the deepest depths; gems and sparkling jewels are found where we thought was nothing but sand and gravel,—mere debris. Now to get it all, we must explore the whole, and nothing that God has made in nature or written in his word is beneath our attention. Then early in life, while the memory is yet tenacious, let God's word be read in its entirety, and till it has become familiar.

After mastering the Bible as a whole, we may well turn to those parts which are best suited to our present needs, and read them again and again with ever-increasing delight. The Bible speaks to all classes of men, and is adapted to the varying moods of each. It has been called a stream in which the lamb may wade, the elephant find depths to swim. To the wayfaring man it is a plain directory, while the philosopher may test his strength in its inscrutable mysteries. So it is suited to our different moods and changing emotions. David speaks to the soul cast down and disquieted within; he also gives the imprecatory Psalms for the man fighting the enemies of God and of his country. Does the reader seek poetry? Job gives him Oriental imagery, and Isaiah Hebrew majesty, which the uninspired page has never equaled. Is he sententious and epigrammatic? Let him read the Proverbs of Solomon and he will find apothegms to his mind. Is his heart breaking over a new-made grave? Let him read in John of one who came from heaven, yet, standing with the sisters at Bethany, "wept." Is he going through the dark valley and shadow of death? He may find the Twenty-third Psalm a rod and staff.

But the death-bed suggests another method of Bible study, now-a-days too much neglected. Scripture should be committed to memory. This is an age of reading; it is not an age of retaining. The memory once did stereotyping, now it is all done in the printing-office, and very little that we read is really our own. The Bible should be with us in the dark and when the eyes are closed; when we cannot read, when we cannot hear, when from sickness or the approach of death we are too weak to think, then, unbidden and unsought, promises and consolations from God's word should come floating into the darkened chambers of thought, and, like angels of light, they should minister to the sick and to the dying. They will not come then, unless we entertain them now. We must invite them till they are wonted with us and at home; then they will not fail to minister to us when our hand forgets its cunning and the tongue cleaves to the roof of our mouth.

This memorizing some portion of God's work should be a daily duty. Three hundred and sixty-five promises will in a year make a bundle of wealth. Pursue this course from early life, when the memory is especially active, till old age, and a man may not only come down to his grave like a shock of corn fully ripe, but he may carry with him a harvest of wealth, sheaf piled on sheaf in more than autumnal luxuriance. If the selection be made a pillow verse, and taken to bed with us, our couch will be softer, and our rising will be with a brighter light.

BIBLE STUDY.

A WORD TO YOUNG WORKERS. BY C. P.

In these days of busy working, when God is calling so many labourers into His great harvest-field, we are hearing inquiries on all sides for improved plans and new methods of work, for the best schemes and the most successful organizations. We would not for a moment discourage this eager energy, or undervalue the importance of framework and machinery. But we confess to being a little jealous on behalf of our younger workers, lest, while sweeping on in the express train of modern activity, they should forget that the character of the worker weighs more heavily in the scale of real success than the whole aggregate of improved plans or novel expedients; and that what we are, will tell more upon the men and women around us, than any amount of work we may do. It is possible to astonish people by our marvellous energy of action, or to call forth their applause while we spent with the "tongues of men and of angels," and yet leave no impression of abiding blessing, no mark engraven for Eternity.

It is with this conviction that we venture to put forth a few suggestive thoughts upon the principles which must be embodied in all true work for the Master, and the deep heart-discipline which must underlie all that will be owned as success in the great day of revelation.

Shall we place at the very outset of our education for service, an habitual and child-like study of the Word of God?—child-like in this sense,—that we come to it with no theories, no party views, no

"school of thought," to throw a coloring on its pages; but, with God's pure white light shining on the Book, we look up and say, "Speak Lord, for thy servant heareth." Such a student of Scripture will reject no assistance, and despise no contributions of help. He is like a man looking for precious stones, and every tool will come to hand in turn—whether spade or shovel, pick-axe or trowel, it matters not, if only he may find his jewels. So with our Bible Study; let science and history, travel and research, all be pressed into the service, while we dig deep for the treasured wealth which we shall surely find. We often hear it said that the "Christian is a man of one Book." This is quite true; but he honors that one, not by ignoring all beside, but by laying all others under contribution, for the discovery and elucidation of its wondrous teaching. Shall we love its blessed promises the less because we have searched into its chronology or studied its geography? Shall we tremble to look into the works of God around us, lest their lessons should be at variance with the written revelations of the same Divine Author? Surely the great Master Teacher made no mistake when he threw open the pages of Creation's book before His servant Job, and led him, as it were, through its picture galleries till he could exclaim: "I know that Thou canst do everything; I have heard of Thee by the hearing of the ear; but now mine eye seeth Thee, wherefore I abhor myself and repent in dust and ashes."

Again; we read that "God gave Solomon wisdom and understanding exceeding much and largeness of heart even as the sand that is on the sea-shore." If this largeness of heart came so directly from God Himself, it was undoubtedly for His own glory; and can we suppose that ignorance and narrow mindedness should honor him now? "With Him is no variableness neither shadow of turning." While we claim for the Word of God its place of unrivalled pre-eminence, we also claim for it all the supplemental results of investigation, and all the tributary streams of knowledge, bringing, if we may use the expression, "their glory and their honor into it."

But to pass on to our more immediate subject—the study of the book itself. The question is so continually coming before us, "How shall I most profitably read the Scriptures?" that perhaps the simplest hints, and the most ordinary experience, may be permitted to help some one among the many inquirers. Let us not fall into the mistake of supposing that one mode is to be adopted to the exclusion of all others, or one scheme, strongly recommended by some Christian friend, to be necessarily more useful than any other. Let us realize our object, rather than be engrossed with our plans. There is treasure to be found, and we want to dig it out; there is honey in the rock, and we want to taste it; there is bread to be eaten, and we want to feed upon it. Let us see to it, in the first place, that we are in the right attitude, and in the place of blessing; where is it? Down, low down, on our knees, at the feet of the Teacher, with the fixed eye, the listening ear, the child's heart; and, as surely as God is true, we shall come away exclaiming, "I rejoice in Thy Word as one that findeth great spoil!" But, again, we seem to hear the question, "What plan of study are we to adopt?" Of course, there must be, in the first place, an accurate knowledge of the letter of Scripture, an intelligent reading of its histories and acquaintance with its biography. We cannot expect to understand typical teaching while we know very little of the circumstantial of the types themselves, or to derive spiritual lessons from facts of which we are very imperfectly informed. Spiritual apprehension is not based on mental ignorance, nor have we any warrant to plead that our eyes may be opened "to behold wondrous things out of God's law," while we are ourselves closing them in a sleepy indolence. I believe we are verily guilty in this matter. Many are wearily saying, "We ask and have not," as though "God were slack concerning His promise," when there has been no putting "the wood in order," no furnishing the chambers," no "rolling away the stone." Shall the "strength of Israel" be expected to contravene His own laws, or to reverse the Word which He hath spoken, "The soul of the sluggard desireth and hath nothing?"

We are deeply convinced that much of the doubtful teaching and unstable profession of the present day is consequent upon a superficial, and in many cases, a second-hand acquaintance with the Book of God; and this, again, is often to be traced to an unsuspected indolence which has crept in upon the heart and mind, at the very time when outward activities were largely on the increase. It is easier to receive a doctrine than to examine it, to accept an induction than to inquire into the steps by which it has been reached; and the carelessness and inaccuracy resulting from undue haste or idle credulity, is banefully telling on much of our Christian life and work.

But while we raise a note of warning, our purpose is rather to encourage earnest and willing hearts, who are desiring the "sincere milk of the Word that they may grow thereby." We will suppose, then, that you are fairly acquainted with the letter of Scripture, but are anxious to go deeper, to learn how to profit by it yourself, and how to use it for the profit of others. The fact that we pay to this Book a homage which can be yielded to no other, and deal with its inspired pages as the recorded messages from God to man, should surely increase rather than diminish the spirit of reverent but searching inquiry with which we bring every faculty to bear upon the study of it.

Let us endeavour to ascertain the scope and bearing of each several book, before we take up its separate chapters—gathering up all attainable information respecting the writer or writers of it. If a prophetic book, for instance, let us remind ourselves of the time and circumstances under which the Prophet wrote; the character of the reigning monarch; the special sins or afflictions of the people primarily addressed; and all such preliminary information as may clear our way to an intelligent understanding of the teaching before us. This may be done with more or less assistance from other sources, but even where extraneous help is at hand, we shall find that such subsidiary knowledge will be more fixed in the memory when gathered from the Bible itself. How much light is thrown on the Epistles of St. Paul by tracing his different journeys from place to place, gathering up every mention of the Church to which he wrote, and then finding out, as we generally may, the special condition of things to which he addresses himself in the letter we are studying. There is often a key-note, which can be traced through endless variations, a stratum of thought or vein of teaching which crops up again and again, and helps us to comprehend the whole. A careful examination into the general bearing of a book, or the structure of a passage, would save us from many of those ignorant deductions which might provoke a smile were it not that the place whereon we tread is holy ground. We might say much more on this point, but our readers will follow out the suggestion for themselves, and there is no lack of valuable help from able pens—only let these come after rather than before their own diligent investigations. There is no doubt that some of our best Bible-teachers are those who in their earliest studies, have been thrown mainly on the blessed Book itself, and planted their foot deep in its virgin soil before they brought in the added stores that may be gathered in many fields.

Having, as it were, become acquainted with the growth of the tree and its general character, take Luther's advice, and "shake every bough," examine every leaf, that nothing may pass unheeded. And when the book (be it history, prophecy, poem, gospel, or epistle) has been grasped as a whole, return to it in its several chapters and paragraphs, verse and clauses, gathering up their more specific lessons as you pass along.

Shall we take another line of thought? There are certain chapters or passages in the Bible which seem, so to speak, like great trunk-roads, from which a variety of paths branch out in every direction, and these should be carefully studied and kept in remembrance. Take, for example, Genesis iii., with its brief and comprehensive outlines of ruin and redemption, of death and resurrection. We have temptation, disobedience, shame, fear, following one another in sorrowful sequence; then the cursed ground, with its thorns and thistles, the toil-worn man and the sentence of the tomb; the subject woman, with her suffering mother-life,—and we have never once lost sight of these things from that day to the present. Agriculture, history, family-life, have all borne witness to the inspired record, and successive centuries have "set to their seal that God is true." But along with the dark shadows, we have the bright gleam of love and promise, starting from the same point, and carrying its wondrous line of light through all the darkness of intervening ages, till a golden star stands over the manger of Bethlehem.

Or, again, take Genesis x., beginning from chapter ix. 25, and read it with a map of ancient geography before you, bearing in mind Deuteronomy xxxii. 8, as an inspired comment upon all its geographical allotments. We might refer to the blessings of the tribes in Genesis xlix. and Deuteronomy xxxiii., with their mysterious and far-reaching significations; but we pass to another suggestion. Let us begin again at Genesis iii., and take up the line of the "holy seed," now no longer indigenous in earth's soil, but become, as it were, a stranger in a "strange land." Observe from the time of Abel onward that God leaves not Himself without a witness, and watch the light touching on the lives of Seth, Enoch, and Noah, till it rests more broadly on the head of Abraham, the progenitor of Israel, the Father of the Faithful in all generations, and the friend of God, following it on in all its after development till we pause at the Apostle's conclusion: "He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy seed, which is Christ." (Gal. iii. 16.) Or, again, let us take the thought of THE KINGDOM, so prominent throughout the whole course of Scripture teaching. We go back to Gen. iii., and see Adam—God's appointed vicegerent on earth—descending at the instance of the tempter from his high position, and voluntarily allowing his government to pass into the hands of the usurper; but inasmuch as the Almighty word has gone forth that humanity should "have dominion," the faithless act must be retrieved, the abdicated throne must find its occupant, the bartered inheritance must be purchased back again, even though the redemption shall cost the life of the conquering Redeemer. There are years of darkness and of waiting to come between, there are depths of mysterious agony, which none but the God-man could fathom, but "He shall not fail nor be discouraged." We may trace through the law of Moses, the Prophets and the Psalms, all things that were to be fulfilled concerning Him, and following Him through the dark passage of the tomb and the open gate of His glorious Resurrection, the eye of faith sees Him now crowned with glory and honour (Heb. ii. 9). We shall see Him ere long wearing His many crowns—the "last Adam, the Lord from heaven," as reigning Monarch of the universe (Psalms viii., Heb. ii.), the once rejected but now triumphant Messiah of Israel (Psalms cx. Luke i. 32, 33), the risen Head and Bridegroom King of His blood-bought Church (Cant. iii. 11, Rev. xix). Then, and not till then, shall the God of Heaven vindicate His insulted honour, and "the kingdoms of this world shall become the kingdom of our Lord and of His Christ."

All this is very cursory. It is merely thrown out as suggestive, and such suggestions might be multiplied indefinitely. There are the successive dispensations, each with its own peculiar teaching. There is the elect nation, involving and foreshadowing the great truth of an elect Church, to be hereafter manifested to the praise of the glory of His grace. But enough, if we may only be permitted to put the latch on the door for a few yearning hearts, into some of the chambers of God's great treasure-house. Shall we not all realize, as we launch out on the ocean of His revealed love, that "there are shallows in which the lamb may wade, and depths in which the elephant must swim?"

Let us come now to some very simple and practical hints. The right use of the Concordance is a more important subject than may appear at first sight. When legitimately employed, it is invaluable; but as commonly resorted to in these hasty and superficial days, it may become a positive evil. Let us make every effort to discover a verse, and recollect its context, before we fall back on such help. We believe no one will ever become a good textuary who opens a Concordance without any feeling of regret or shame at the necessity of applying to it. The practice should certainly not become habitual with our young Bible-students, however much it may be needed in after years of pressure and failing memory. But a mode of study which the Concordance will be found most helpful, is the selection of some subject in which the leading word may be traced through all the pages where it occurs, and afterwards worked out in the variety of its bearings. Take, for example, REDEMPTION, HOLINESS, CHARITY, any central word embodying the thought you wish to investigate, and follow it out through the length and breadth of the Scripture field, till it becomes in-wrought into the tissue of your memory and mind. It will be food for your own soul, and subject-matter for your teaching. Again, take the life of some child of God, as recorded by the inspired writers—gathered out, as it often needs to be, with much care and diligence from various sources;—sometimes an allusion in one place, or a quotation in another, adding to our material where we least expect it (for instance, we go to Psalm xcix. to find that Moses was called a priest: to Acts vii. to be told that he was "learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians;" and to Heb. xi. to learn that he refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter;) and, having sketched the biography with as much accuracy as possible, go through it again, with special reference to its typical meaning.

And this brings us to a subject where we must tread softly, and speak very humbly—the allegorical and figurative teaching of Scripture history. While we see, on the one hand, the marvellous depth and fulness of the Book of God, promise within promise "infolding itself," prophecies reaching on into the "ages of the ages," stories wrapping up within their simple outline lessons of undeveloped mysteries; yet must we be very jealous, on the other hand, lest human wisdom usurp the office of the Holy Ghost, or human fancy play with the typical and the mystical, and bring its own flowers into the hallowed garden of the Lord. Wherever we have Scripture interpretation of symbolic language, or Scripture light falling on typical actions and persons, let us apply it to the utmost extent, but beware at the same time that we never speak dogmatically where God has not spoken, lest we be found to "darken counsel by words without knowledge." How many books of so-called Bible-teaching are calculated to bewilder rather than enlighten the student.

Perhaps one check upon the fanciful inventions which so dishonor the Word of God might be found in a more earnest desire and faithful purpose to discover its practical bearing on our daily life. It needs be that we maintain an exact proportion between increase in knowledge and growth in holiness, a corresponding development of the enlightened understanding and the "enlarged heart," lest we be found among those whose crushing sentence will be that they "knew their Lord's will and did it not." An intellectual apprehension of Scripture truth which leaves the affections untouched and the life unsanctified, will prove a powerless thing when we are called to witness for our absent Master, in daily conflict with the world, the flesh, and the devil. The Bible loved and the Bible lived, will be the only true sequel to the Bible studied.

CONSECUTIVE READING OF THE BIBLE.

The Bible is one book. It is human history by a Divine Historian. No other book would yield any such result as the Bible, if it were read piecemeal and spasmodically, as the Bible is read. For just as the Church is built of living stones, so the Bible is composed of truths, every one of which is full of life. But as the fulness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ is exhibited in the church, which is his body, the fulness of Him who filleth all in all, so if we want to know the full blessedness of the Word of God, we must receive it in its entirety, and read it as the Holy Ghost has given it to us. Perhaps no chapter is more familiar than Luke xv.; but how few have observed that chapters xv. and xvi. are but portions of one discourse, and that the five parables must be consecutively read, if we would see how the Lord not only justifies Himself in receiving and eating with publicans and sinners, but rebukes the accusing Pharisees and Scribes, and, as the elder son, the unjust steward, and the rich man, shows their self-righteousness, their unrighteousness, and their doom.

Mr. George Muller, of Bristol, says:—Though in my earlier life I was engaged in 'the ministry of the Word in my own country, I neglected for four years the consecutive reading of the Bible. The consequence was, I was a babe in knowledge and in grace. I made no progress, because I neglected God's own appointed means for nourishing the divine life. But it pleased God to lead me to love His Word. I was led to see that the Holy Ghost is the only instructor of the soul, and that the Word is the medium by which He teaches. Spending three hours on my knees, I made such progress that I learned more in those three hours than in years before. From that time I became a lover of the Word of God; and in this way I have been going on ever since. In July, 1829, I began this plan of reading from the beginning the Old and the New Testaments. Before I had been treating the Bible as a lottery, reading it just where I opened. Of course after a time it opened just in the same place, and I got accustomed to read only certain portions. Consequently I knew nothing even of the letter of much of the Word of God. But under my new plan, little by little, I made more and more progress; and thus it came to this, that when I was asked where any text was to be found I could give chapter and verse—became, in fact, a living concordance. A few years after I began this method I was in a large drawing-room in a nobleman's house. Most there had known the Lord longer than I, but they referred to me, and I could tell where passages they wanted were to be found. This came by habitually reading the Scriptures through.

At one time I came to 1 Chronicles. I thought "The first ten chapters consist almost entirely of names. I have read them recently; I may pass them over now." But I reflected that it was the Word of God, and read the whole. At the fourth chapter I came to Jabez's prayer, "Oh, that Thou wouldest bless me indeed," &c., and God gave me a rich blessing in my soul in reading that God gave him that which he requested. I now read 1 Chron. with the same delight as the Gospels, the Psalms, or the Epistles.

I would recommend you not to read always the Old or the New Testament, but alternately, e. g., the Old in the morning, and the New in the evening. One especial blessing that will come to the soul is this: God furnishes a variety of food, and this He gives in His whole revelation. This is deeply important. We are thus kept from partial and favourite views, which are poison to the soul. There seem apparent contradictions in the Word, but by patiently and calmly going on reading and meditating, these are removed. I have read through the Bible more than a hundred times, and I find no stumbling-block at all. This is because I am satisfied with God. The first, the greatest thing in the divine life is to know God—not according to notions of Him current in the Church, but as He is revealed in the Word. You will find Him such a lovable Being, of infinite wisdom and power; and He exercises these on behalf of His people. How kind, how gracious, how gentle He is! The great point is to become acquainted with Him as He is revealed in his Word, not according to men's notions of Him. Have we not thought of Him as an austere Being? but he that has become acquainted with God says with the Psalmist (ix.) "They that know Thy name will put their trust in Thee."

By thus regularly reading, the love of the Scriptures is kept up. When I have read them through I am as delighted to begin again as I was forty-six years ago. Of course this is by the grace of God, but instrumentally it is through this habit of consecutive reading.

Mr. Muller closed with two illustrations of the value of consecutive reading, one showing the connexion between Exodus iii. 5 and Joshua v. 15; the other between John vii. 53 and viii. 1; both of which would probably be unperceived if the Bible were not consecutively read.

READING AND MARKING THE BIBLE.

Some useful hints have been freely taken from Mr. Moody and other sources, but the chief features of this view of the subject are the result of several years' experience of the writer and various friends who have adopted his system.

We assume that the reader has opportunity and inclination to read the precious Word of God at least two or three times a day. We earnestly recommend him to observe these occasions regularly, and to follow a systematic course of reading, or two or three courses. For instance, there are few who cannot by means of early rising procure twenty minutes, or even an hour, for Bible-reading in the morning; if this is his longest opportunity, it might be best employed in getting a connected view of an historical period, without entering deeply into the subject, (see No. 1 below). In the evening he may employ the same length of time in reading a shorter portion from some one writer (as No. 2 below). Each of these exercises must be entered upon with earnest prayer; but the study of a single passage (as No. 3) is perhaps of the most devotional character, though the effects of the former modes upon the heart and mind cannot be less evident. We would recommend the latter for noonday reading, if available, or it may be blended with the others. On all these occasions the reader may carefully mark anything which strikes him.

The reader should have a good, portable reference Bible—either Bagster's Polyglot edition, or the Oxford S. S. Teacher's with concordance, index, &c., Frowd's Margin or Bagster's wide margin Bible, is recommended. The first is in extensive use, and is published in three sizes, fac simile of each other; the second is well suited for tabulating and marking, the last has the advantage of wide margins for notes. The following works are more or less indispensable, and the price of the first two is very little:—"Cruden's Concordance"; "The Scripture Text-Book and Treasury," recommended by Mr. Moody; "Inglis' Bible-Text Cyclopædia"; "Townsend's Chronological Harmony of the Bible"; and the "Englishman's Greek Concordance," in which the Greek parallelisms are exhibited for English readers in the words of our English version.

1. The simplest course of reading should be chronological—i. e., in the order of the narrative, without regarding the ordinary arrangement of the books, nor of their several contents. Thus, one book must sometimes be inserted in another, and the different parts of a book transposed. It will give a great additional interest to the historical portions of the Sacred Word to have them thus naturally interspersed with the poetical or prophetic writings, while it will also show the progress of revelation. The reader who has not access to a good "Harmony" can generally find indications of date in the references, or in the inspired inscriptions of some of the chapters, as, for instance, Psalm li.: "A Psalm of David, when Nathan the prophet came to him": so with Psalms lii. and liv., Isaiah vi. and vii., and many others.

The following rough sketch of the historical order of the Old Testament may be acceptable to some of our readers:—Genesis i. to x., Job (date uncertain), Genesis xi. to the end; Exodus i. and ii., Psalm lxxxviii., Exodus iii. to end; Leviticus; Numbers i. to xiv., Psalm xc., Numbers xv. to the end; Deuteronomy; Joshua; Judges i., ii., xvii. to xxi., and iii. to xvi.; Ruth; 1 Samuel i. to xxx., with about twenty of the Davidic Psalms (1 Chronicles i. to ix. is a genealogy of the preceding history); 1 Chronicles x. to the end, parallel with 1 Samuel xxxi. to the end of 2 Samuel, and the remainder of the Davidic Psalms; 1 Kings i. to iv., 2 Chronicles i.; Song of Solomon; Proverbs; 1 Kings v. to xi., 2 Chronicles ii. to ix.; Ecclesiastes; 1 Kings xii. to the end of 2 Kings xiv., and 2 Chronicles xxv., 2 Kings xv. to the end, 2 Chronicles xxvi. to the end, parallel with the prophets (see inscriptions, &c), as follows: Jonah, Joel, Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Micah, Nahum, Zephaniah, Jeremiah, Lamentations, Habakkuk; Daniel; Obadiah; Ezekiel; Haggai; Zechariah; Esther; Ezra; Nehemiah; Malachi.

2. Simultaneously with this he may STUDY one book separately; noticing, firstly, its external circumstances—who wrote it? when? where? &c.; then its natural structure and scope; discover and analyse its natural divisions; and thus, if he wishes, draw up his own table of contents. Take an illustration of this:—

The last twenty-seven chapters of Isaiah form one single great prophecy, the subject of which is Jehovah's Servant, Christ. The prophecy is subdivided into three books; the first and second both end with the solemn words: "There is no peace, saith the Lord, unto the wicked"; and at the end of the third the lot of the wicked is more fully described: "Their worm shall not die, neither shall their fire be quenched, and they shall be an abhorring unto all flesh." Each of these books consists of three sections of three chapters each, corresponding pretty closely with the divisions in our English Bibles, though not exactly. The following table exhibits this division to the eye:—

Chapter.	Chapter.	Chapter.
XL.	XLIX.	LVIII.
XLI.	L.	LIX.
XLII.-XLIII. 13.	LI.	LX.
XLIII. 14-XLIV. 5.	LII. 1-12.	LXI.
XLIV. 6-23.	LIII.	LXII.
XLIV. 24-XLV. end.	LIV.	LXIII. 1-6.
XLVI.	LV.	LXIII. 7-LXIV. end.
XLVII.	LVI. 1-8.	LXV.
XLVIII.	LVI. 9-LVII. 21.	LXVI.

Thus the fifty-third is the middle chapter of the middle book of this great prophecy, as it is indeed the heart of the prophetic writings of the Old Testament; and the central verse of this central chapter contains the central truth of the Gospel,—the truth that both among Jews, and Greeks, and heathen of every name and nation is the power of God unto salvation:—"He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities, the chastisement of our peace was upon Him, and with his stripes we are healed."

Similarly, Psalm xxii. occupies the centre of the first book of Psalms (Psalm i. and ii. being introductory), and the sentence, "They pierced my hands and my feet," is in the middle.

[The above instances were suggested by Dr. Kay's excellent work on the Psalms.]

It does not seem generally known that the Psalms are composed of five books, naturally divided thus:—(Psalms i. and ii. introduction to the whole Psalter, or included in) Book I., Psalms i. to xli.; Book II., Psalms xlii. to lxxii.; Book III., Psalms lxxiii. to lxxxix.; Book IV., Psalms xc. to cvi.; Book V., Psalms cvi. to cl.

3. But perhaps the most delightful and profitable spiritual exercise is to carefully and prayerfully study a single passage. Proceed thus: consider the external circumstances, both as to the writer and the subject-matter itself; consider the scope of the paragraph or chapter containing the passage; remark the structure; compare it with its connexion, and with marginal references; ponder the words; endeavour to grasp the idea of the words; and make the required application.

USE OF BIBLE IN INQUIRY ROOM.

BY D. W. WHITTLE.

1st. Unconditional submission to the authority of the Word. Enter into no argument upon the authenticity of the Scriptures. Lessen the power of no part of the Bible by any admission as to any part not being of God, given by inspiration; with rare exceptions, those who desire such arguments are not honest, they are not seeking light, but fortifying themselves in darkness. You cannot help them. Should you meet with one who has an honest desire for information as to the history of the composition and compilation of the Scriptures, you can place him in the way of obtaining it; but do not occupy the time in the Inquiry Room upon the subject. If two men were to meet to engage in conflict with swords, and one were to say to the other: "Now before beginning the battle, I desire to know the history of your sword, and to have proof of the authenticity of its claims as a sword," a proper reply would be, "That question can be easily settled by our at once commencing the conflict. I will show you by my use of my weapon, the reality of its being a sword."

So we ought to so use the Word as "the sword of the Spirit," in the application of its truths to the conscience of the sinner, that he will not want any historical proof as to the message being from God. Infidelity concerning parts of the Bible is very prevalent. Many professed Christians are not ashamed to say that they do not believe all the Bible, and, as a rule the unconverted man reserves the right of rejecting whatever he pleases. To one who has been but a surface student of the Word, and has not seen the place, in gradual unfolding, in typical teaching, in prophetic symbolism, that every chapter and verse of the Bible has in the revelation of God's scheme of redemption for ruined man and sin cursed earth, it seems an unimportant matter to answer the doubts of the unbeliever by saying, "Well, perhaps that ought not to be in the Bible," or, "It is probably a mistranslation. It would have been better to have had several books of the Old Testament left out," or, "It isn't necessary that you should believe that," or some similar admission that yield the point to the devil and makes God a liar. Such do not realize their sin in dishonouring God, nor the evil consequences of their infidelity to the inquirer. If the Word is impeached in one part, discredit is thrown upon every part. And whatever profession a man may be led to make that he trusts Christ as his Saviour, if he has admitted doubt into his mind as to any part of the Scripture, he has no assurance as to his own acceptance, and no peace in believing.

Every worker in the Inquiry Room will frequently meet with the question: "Now do you really believe all the Bible? Must we believe that Jonah was swallowed by a whale, and about the flood, and so on?" The answer should be given with the same seriousness, and in a manner calculated to make the same impression, that the reply of a wife, who justly revered her husband, would produce if she were asked if she really believed her husband always spoke the truth.

Let the answer of every child of God ever be: "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God. Every part of the Bible is literally true. I believe the Word just as God has spoken it, how dare you suggest that I doubt it!"

Much might be said upon this subject, and, perhaps, not too much if it led us into a deeper sense of the reality of the Bible as the word of the living God, and a more profound reverence for it as the book of truth. Certainly the Holy Ghost cannot use an infidel to bring souls to Christ, and if infidelity is in our hearts, our labor will count for naught. We must go to God and confess it as a sin, and look to Christ for deliverance from it. And, as we should treat it as a sin in ourselves, so we should treat it as a sin in others. It is not for us to sympathise, in a false sense, with those who say they can't believe the word of God, but to tell them plainly that unbelief is the vilest sin the soul of man is capable of committing against a Holy God, and that it must be repented of and forgiveness through the blood of Christ received, or it will inevitably land the soul in eternal perdition.

A dear minister, in St. Louis, was met in the Inquiry Room one evening by an intelligent man who answered his appeal to him to accept Christ, by saying, that he couldn't believe the Bible. His reply was, "Well, sir, whether you believe it or not the Bible is true, and if you don't believe it you will be lost." The gentleman looked at him for a moment and knew from the expression of my friend that he had replied from the profound convictions of his own soul. His next objection was, "I can't believe that Jesus Christ was the Son of God;" the answer was, "Well, the Bible says He was the Son of God, and whether you believe it or not, He is the Son of God, and if you do not believe it you will be damned."

The minister turned away with the impression that the gentleman would be angry, but believing he had been guided aright. A friend of the inquirer remonstrated with him, that he had not argued the question, but he left it in the hands of God. Within a few minutes, the gentleman came to him with the question: "What must I do about this matter? How can I be saved?" Was pointed to the cross, and knelt with tears of thanksgiving and praise to Christ as his Saviour. God admits of no excuse, no palliation for unbelief; and surely God cannot be beseeching sinners by us, while we are in a mock condition of sympathy with the unbeliever, and smoothing over and palliating his sin, rather than showing him its heinousness and awful condemnation.

Our power in the use of the Word depends upon unanswering faith in its infallibility, "Thus saith the Lord," must be to us all sufficient, for ourselves and for others. With the firm belief of the truth of Christ's declaration "That the Scriptures cannot be broken," we will handle our weapon with confidence, we will wield it with all our strength. With these words of introduction as to the Word let us pass on to specific suggestions as to its use in bringing souls to Christ.

In the army, the ammunition for the soldiers starts from the arsenal. In a general sense all the ammunition for the army is prepared there from same material and for same purpose. When sent out, it is sorted, and each command receives that fitted to the calibre of their weapons. Each soldier receives all he has capacity to carry, and for which he is expected to have immediate use. So with the Bible. It is God's arsenal. All of its truths are from Him. All for the purpose of glorifying Christ, and overcoming the power of sin. But when these truths are to be put in action, they are sorted. We are to select as led of the Holy Spirit, passages adapted to our calibre. We should never put before others a message from God's word, that doesn't come hot from our own hearts, or use truth that we have not ourselves digested. So we are made able ministers, as in 2 Cor. iii. 6. We should gather from the Bible, for use according to our capacity. We should not attempt to teach beyond our apprehension; and of the passages that have fed us, and that we can carry, we should always have at hand, as the individual soldier the forty rounds in his cartridge box, supply for immediate use. Classify in your mind, or, what is better, upon a sheet of paper, the truth needed for presentation to the sinner, then under each head of the classification note your passages, and make yourself familiar with them, and with their position in your Bible. Always use your Bible in referring to them. Do not use a slip, printed or otherwise, and do not quote from memory. Your own classifications, and your own selections of passages, will be better for your own use than any would be that is provided for you. But it is wise to compare with others, and to receive suggestions from others. And, as a suggestion, I offer the following classification, which you can note down, and fill out with your own Scripture references.

- 1st. Requirements of God's law.
- 2nd. Failure of man to keep the law.
- 3rd. Condition of man condemned by the law.
- 4th. Man's rejection of God's Son.
- 5th. Christ as the substitute under the law.
- 6th. Forgiveness through Christ.
- 7th. Illustrations of faith.
- 8th. Illustrations of salvation.

With the general line of truth here set forth, in mind, other classifications will suggest themselves. In sitting down with an inquirer do not expect that you must use all your ammunition upon him. Be natural, kind, and courteous in your approach to those who may be strangers to you; win their confidence by your sympathy and genuine interest in their welfare, and ascertain their condition; ask them to tell you frankly just how much they are interested, and how much concern they feel as to their personal salvation.

My first question usually to an inquirer is, "Do you believe that you are a sinner before God, and lost without a Saviour?" And the answer to this determines the direction of the instruction. If you find that conviction has been produced by the sermon, and that an anxious sinner is before you, do not seek to reproduce what has been already done by the Holy Spirit, but, if he admits his lost condition, show to him the testimony of God's word as to the full and complete satisfaction made by the death of Christ for his sins, that forgiveness is offered to faith, and, that faith is to take God at His word and believe the record. Urge his immediate surrender to God, and acceptance of the Gospel. On the other hand, if the inquirer is only awakened, to a sort of half-way desire to become a Christian, and has no deep convictions as to his present lost condition, and of the nature of sin, present the truth to him under the first four heads. If conviction is produced present Christ, and urge immediate acceptance. If the inquirer denies the testimony of the Word as applied to himself, and tries to justify himself, and make out a good character, and clings to his self-righteousness, he is not in a condition to be urged to say that he will trust in Christ. Show him what Christ has done, in connection with the truth as to his own utterly lost condition, and leave such truth with him as will sweep away his false views of himself and lead him to Christ. Great harm is done in pressing a sinner to a decision before the Spirit of God has prepared the way. Our one anxiety in dealing with souls should be, to be faithful, as in Christ's stead, and not go beyond the Spirit's leadings.

The large majority of those we shall meet in the Inquiry Room, during Mr. Moody's meetings, if we can judge by reports of his work, and by our personal knowledge of the Holy Spirit's power that he has received, will be those prepared by faithful presentation of the truth, accompanied by the Spirit's power to their souls, to be told in the simplest possible way how to believe; they will see that they are lost, they will see that Christ is a Saviour, they will see the plan of redemption, the one absorbing thought will be, "Is there salvation for me? Can I be saved? How can I get hold of Christ?" Here is the blessedness of this personal work. God seems to have so ordered it that right here there must be personal contact between the Spirit of God through a believer, and in the word of God, by the mouth of a believer, and the sinner, and the result is life.

The passages most used by the Holy Spirit in this way, in meetings in this country, and as I have seen by the reports, and have heard from Mr. Moody himself in meetings in England, have been those that most plainly set forth Christ as the sinner's substitute. John iii. 16, and its use will illustrate this. Also Isa. liii. 6. Rom. iii. 25. Gal. iii. 13. 1 Peter ii. 24. We can have great confidence in magnifying God's grace, and preaching an unconditional salvation.

Our part is to make known the Gospel—both sides of it. (2 Cor. ii. 16.) God will take care of the result if we use his Word in dependence upon the Holy Spirit.

To get the sinner to look away from self to Christ is our work. The sinner under conviction is kept in darkness by looking at and into himself. He has a conception of what a religious experience ought to be, and waits for it to come to him. He tries to work up his feelings by thinking of his sins, and by thinking of the sufferings of Christ, with the idea that when he has produced feeling enough that will be a religious experience, that will be conversion, while he has not really laid hold of Christ at all by a saving faith. By the use of the Word, we present Christ to the sinner as the object of faith, and the Scriptures revealing Christ as the ground of faith. God's promises in the Gospel are like so many hands held out to the sinner to draw him to Jesus. We read of Jesus many times when on earth "He put forth his hand and touched him," "He laid his hand on every one of them and healed them." So his hands are still put forth in the Gospel invitations.

A dear old lady came once to a meeting where Christians were having much joy in the apprehension of Christ, and trembling, and with tears, arose and said: "I want you should pray for me. I have been forty years a member of a Church, but am not a Christian. I have never had any assurance that my sins were forgiven. I was convicted of sin when young, and earnestly sought acceptance with God. I was told to join the Church and the experience I desired would come. I did so and have struggled on for forty years, doing every duty, so far as in my power—doing everything that Christians do—but I am not saved.” She sat down weeping, and many wept with her for sympathy, at the recital of her long, weary, fruitless forty years in the wilderness. She was pointed to the record, as in Rom. iv. 24, 25, and v. 1, and saw by the Word that her justification was an accomplished fact in Christ, and that the way to appropriate it and to realize it was, not by feeling, not by struggling for an experience, not by joining the Church, not by doing, but by simply believing what God said about it.

Her joy was like the joy of a little child. This Scripture had revealed Christ to her, and enabled her by faith to receive Him into her heart.

It is of the enemy of souls to lead the convicted sinner to look for the experience of feeling and the results of believing before he believes. He is told, and truly so, that all the steps of his conversion must be the work of the Holy Spirit; that he must be drawn by the Spirit, quickened by the Spirit, and that when he is born again that “the Spirit will bear witness with his spirit that he is a child of God,”—all of which is most blessedly true—but all of which the anxious soul will invariably misapply. We are to show him that the Holy Spirit does all this through the Word, as presenting Christ. That he is drawn by the Gospel invitations, Matt. xi. 28; that he is quickened when he believes; that “Christ was delivered for his sins, and was raised again for his justification,” Rom. iv. 25, and his attention should be specially directed to the testimony that the sinner can know nothing of the indwelling and the witness of the Holy Spirit until after he believes. See John i. 12; vii. 38, 39; 1 John v. 10-13, Eph. i. 13; and Rom. viii. 16, in connection with Rom. v. 1 and viii. 1 * * *

In all these Scriptures, and in every Scripture that refers to the testimony of the Holy Spirit in the soul, it is stated or implied that the soul has first believed, and that the witness of the Spirit accompanies the faith that is exercised in the message of salvation, and never comes until such faith is exercised.

We must lift up Jesus—Jesus only, as revealed in the Word, with the message of a finished and complete salvation, before the sinner, and insist—without reference to his excuses, his plea of inability, or his desire for delay—upon his immediate duty being the surrender of his will to God in the believing on the Lord Jesus Christ. Insist that the will, on his part, to be saved is all he wants. Show him that he is permitted to take salvation, and to take it free, Rev. xxii. 17; that he is invited to take it, Matt. xi. 28. Show him that he is entreated to take it, 2 Cor. v. 20; that he is commanded to take it, 1 John iii. 23; and finally, that your warrant for urging him is that your Lord has said: "Compel them to come in," Luke xiv. 23; and that Christ has said they are lost because they will not come. John v. 40.

Always leave the inquirer with his finger upon the chapter and verse that has been used by the Spirit to give him light. Tell him to make much of that Word; to rest upon that and not upon his feelings as to the fact of his salvation.

Never consider your work as done until you have evidence that the sinner fully accepts Christ, and he can say that he fully and joyfully believes, John v. 24, and testify on the authority of the Word that he is saved.

Be faithful in presenting to the new born child of God his position as a follower of Christ in this world. Show to him that his growth and usefulness as a Christian, and his communion with God, will depend upon his being dead unto sin, and living in the spirit of entire consecration to God and separation from the world, and that this result is attained, not by any power in himself, but by looking constantly unto Jesus. Urge upon him his responsibility for the souls of others, and his immediate duty to labor for their salvation. If we can lead converts to convert others, we have a double joy, a double crown.

HOW I USE THE BIBLE WITH CHRISTIAN WORKERS.

BY REV. DR. JAMES H. BROOKES, OF ST. LOUIS, MO.

1.—Acquaint yourself with the Bible.

To use the Bible efficiently in your work, you must first be acquainted with it. Jesus says (John v. 39) "Search the Scriptures," implying that you must go down beneath the surface to discover the depths of the riches of the wisdom of God. In Acts xvii. 11 it is written, "These were more noble than those in Thessalonica." Notice the stamp of nobility which God recognizes. Is it nobility of birth? social station? wealth? learning? No! These were noble men and women, "in that they received the Word with all readiness of mind, and searched the Scriptures daily whether these things were so." That is the title to nobility in God's estimation. Last winter in St. Louis, when the snow was deep, a gentleman on leaving a house one night to enter his sleigh dropped a diamond ring. It sank in the snow. No casual search for it would answer. He at once placed near the spot a large box, hired the policeman to keep watch during the night, and at the early dawn made persistent search until he found it. He did this because it was something precious in his estimation. But what is a diamond compared with the riches of grace and glory which will be found in this blessed book? Seek this acquaintance because, (1) By it we are born again: James i. 18; 1 Peter i. 23. (2) It makes clean: John xv. 3. (3) It builds up. Paul says to the elders at Ephesus,

"The Word is able to build you up and to give you an inheritance among them which are sanctified." Also, 1 Peter ii. 2. (4) It sanctifies and saves. Jesus says (John xvii. 17), "Sanctify them through thy truth; thy Word is truth." So Paul, 2 Thes. ii. 13. (5) It accomplishes God's will: Isaiah v. 10-11; Jer. xxiii. 29. (6) It is all powerful. 2 Cor. x. 4. In Ephesians vi. 17, the one weapon given for attack upon the foe is the "Sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God." (7) It is all sufficient, as Jesus declares. Luke vi. 31, and in John xv. 10-13, we are told "He that believeth not God hath made him a liar." Why? Simply "because he believeth not the record which God gave of his Son."

2.—All Scripture is of God: 2 Tim. iii. 16. From the first word of Genesis to the last word of Revelation, all is inspired: 2 Peter i. 19-21. "We have a more sure word." More sure in one sense than the brightest flashes of glory that were ever seen upon the Mount of Transfiguration. A great many people think prophecy is a dark place. God says here, it is "a light which shines in a dark place." They "spake as they were moved," not as they thought, not as they imagined, but as they were "moved by the Holy Ghost." Hence Jesus in His charge to His disciples, Matt. x. 19-20, said: "It is not ye that speak but the Spirit of your Father which speaketh in you." See also Acts iii. 21; iv. 25; 2 Samuel xxiii. 2.

Moreover the Scripture is called: (1) The oracles of God: Rom. iii. 1-2. (2) The word of God: Mark vii. 13. (3) The word of the Lord: Acts viii. 25. (4) The word of Truth: 2 Cor. vi. 7. (5) The word of Life: John vi. 68. (6) The word of Christ: Col. iii. 16. (7) The word of Faith: Rom. x. 8-9.

I want to press this text home upon any unsaved friends. The Word is nigh you to night; nearer than when St. Paul wrote these verses. An insane woman had shut herself in a room with a little child till both were nearly dead. When we burst into the room we found the child lying on the bed able only to whisper, "water, water." When her little trembling hands pressed the goblet to her lips she was scarcely able to hold it; but, as it refreshed her, she seized it with a strong, nervous grasp. When your perishing, thirsty soul receives the word of faith, and not the strength of your grasp on it, ~~but~~ the divine power of refreshing Word will give consolation and strength.

3.—All Scripture is about Christ; John v. 39-46. He does not say, Search part of them. Again read Luke iv. 21; also Luke xxiv. 25-27. Now observe, that beginning at Moses and all the prophets he expounded concerning Himself; Luke xxiv. 32. I do not wonder that their hearts burned within them. Many of the hearts of God's people have burned within them when they have found Christ in the Old Testament, where they never thought of discovering him before. In Luke xxiv. 44-45 he says, "All things are written there about Me," in those three great divisions of the Old Testament. Look at what is said in Matt. i. 22-23. Now turn to Isaiah vii. 14. A still more emphatic proof is found in Matt. ii. 13-15, in the light of which read Hosea xi. 1; Acts xvii. 2-3. He did not reason with them out of human science, human logic, or human learning, but out of the Old Testament Scriptures. Remember this when you are attacked as Christian workers by fallible science; and never study the Bible in the light of science, but study science in the light of the Bible. If you want to make efficient workers, build not on a metaphysical basis, but on the divine interpretation of God's blessed word. Apollos was mighty here; Acts xviii. 28. In the last chapter of Acts, 23d verse, we see Paul occupied all day with the Old Testament Scriptures. How many of us find enough in the Old Testament to occupy us all day? Mr. Whittle told me last summer of an unlettered man who had studied the Bible until he had become convinced, without any outside suggestions, that the last clause of Romans viii. 1, did not belong there. I believe that man was taught that by the Holy Spirit.

4.—All Scripture is for ourselves: Rom. xv. 4; 1 Cor. iv. 2. Believe and act as if you believed that the word of God is for you; become acquainted with its precious words, and gently lead the lost into the palace of God: 1 Thess. ii. 13. The poor Empress Carlotta had escaped from her palace. Her physician knew that a rude shock would dethrone forever her tottering reason. Knowing her fondness for flowers, he scattered them in her pathway, and she, charmed like a child, was safely led back again. If you want to become efficient workers for the Master, seek for and strew the beautiful flowers of Scripture in the paths of those who have wandered, and lure them back to God.

5.—Cherish as Christian workers a feeling of dependence on the Holy Spirit. In John vii. 38, 39, and Acts i. 8, Jesus inculcates this dependence upon his disciples. In Acts vi. 5, Stephen is "full of the Holy Ghost," and in 8th verse, we find him "full of power." We also receive the spirit of adoption: Rom. viii. 15, and Gal. iv. 6. Until with child-like confidence we know God as our Father, we cannot be efficient workers. Little May Newton, three years old, in her father's arms, fired the explosion which opened Hell Gate to commerce. And the child of God who is filled with His spirit finds nothing impossible to him: 2 Tim. i. 7.

6.—To become efficient workers, make use of prayer in connection with the Word: Matt. xxi. 21; Luke xi. 9; John xiv. 13, and xvi. 24. What hath God wrought in answer to prayer: Jas. v. 17, 18.

7.—In your work think of the value of the soul: Matt. xvi. 26; xviii. 10, 11, 14; and of the Lord's approval: 2 Cor. v. 9.

A HELP TO READ THE ENGLISH BIBLE.

It is not generally known that in the Bibles of the American and British Bible Societies, and also in those of some publishing houses, at least three different names of God in the Old Testament are indicated by a difference of type.

Let any one read the Bible with a knowledge of the meaning of these names, and of the hint given in the kind of type, and many passages will shed forth more light. Especially will this be found true of many psalms and prophecies wherein different persons are heard either as speaking or as spoken to, as in Ps. ii. and cx., and in Is. vi. The full force of certain quotations or allusions in the New Testament will then be felt; and the identity of Christ with the God of the Old Testament will be clearly proven.

Elohim is the general name of God as God. By it He is related to Creation and Providence. It is the plural of El which radically signifies force or strength. El as a name of God is often used in poetry, and elsewhere usually with an adjective or epithet. The plural form suggests a fulness of powers, though scholars differ as to its origin and import. Kindred to these two names are two more Eloah and Elah, the latter being Chaldee, and all these are translated by the one name God.

The name Jehovah is explained in Ex. iii. 13-15, vi. 1-8, Rev. i. 4. Jehovah is God as the eternal unchanging One. His special relations under this name are to grace and redemption. He is the God who promises and covenants. Being the everlasting God He will keep the everlasting covenant, no matter how many centuries of seeming forgetfulness and delay, or apparent impossibilities come between the promise and the fulfilment.

As Jehovah He is the God of Israel.

"Jehovah is thy Elohim."—

Jah is a contraction of Jehovah.—

The name Adonai or Adon signifies Lord, Master, Owner. Adon is rarely used for God and is applied generally to men. Under the name Adonai, God is related to His people as one who owns and disposes, judges and delivers, rebukes and helps, and all, it might be said, because they are His possession through redemption.

This name is peculiarly illustrated by what Jesus has done for and is to the Church as His Body, His Bride, His Servants, His House, His Own. He has all power and is Head over all things to the Church, and He is the Saviour of the body. In brief, He is "our Lord Jesus Christ." On comparing Ps. cx. 1 with Rev. iii. 21; and Isa. vi. 1 with John xii. 41, and on reading what follows in that psalm and in that prophecy, it is evident that Jesus is the Adonai, and as the Adonai He is addressed by the name Jehovah, and Jehovah is the Elohim. Exod. xxxiv. 23. Amos v. 16.

The following is the help to recognize each name:

LORD=Jehovah. Lord=Adonai or Adon.

GOD=Jehovah. God=Elohim, Eloah, El, &c.

Lord GOD=Adonai Jehovah.

Lord GOD the God of Israel=

The Adon, Jehovah Elohim of Israel. Ex. xxxiv. 23.

"Trust ye in Jehovah forever, for in Jah Jehovah is a rock of ages." Is. xxvi. 4.

A HOUSE OF MANY MANSIONS.

REV. A. N. SOMERVILLE.

The Bible may be compared to a magnificent edifice that took sixteen centuries to build. Its architect and builder is God. Like the beautiful world, the work of the same author, it bears on it everywhere the impress of a hand divine. This majestic temple contains sixty-six chambers, capacious, yet in size unequal,—the sixty-six books of the Old and New Testaments. Each of its thirty-one thousand one hundred and seventy-three verses is a stone, a beam, a panel of the building, which is a temple more glorious far than that of Solomon or of Zerubbabel, with their hewn stones from Lebanon, their pillars of cedar, their doors of olive, their floors, walls and ceiling overlaid with fine gold of Parodim, their holy places, their courts, their porticos, and gates. No portion of this wonderful structure will the Lord suffer to be mutilated or defiled.

Within the sacred enclosure dwells the whole family of God on earth. The Bible is the home of the redeemed below. When the Lord Jesus was departing from the world, He said, "In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told ye. I go to prepare a place for you." That house is the temple in heaven above, whence the entrant shall go no more out, and where Christ's friends abide as priests to God for evermore. But the Bible is the "house of many mansions" prepared for Jesus' disciples on earth. Here they have their residence; here they are fed; here they are strengthened, comforted and blessed; here they are nurtured for immortality.

The Bible is not merely the dwelling-place of God's people, it is the chosen abode of God Himself. Would you have fellowship with the Father? you will be sure to find Him within the precincts of this holy house. Shall we take advantage of the King's permission and step inside? We approach by the beautiful garden of Eden, with its innocent flowers, its groves and lucid streams. The first part of the building, that of highest antiquity, bears the name of the Chambers of Law and Justice. These are five in number, the books of Moses. One of these, is a sort of vestibule to the others, and resembles a long gallery hung with portraits and pictorial scenes of surpassing interest, mementos of persons and events that had place before a stone of the building was laid—such figures as those of Abel and Enoch, Noah, Abraham, Hagar, Sarah, Jacob, Esau and Joseph, and such scenes as Paradise and the Flood, the Departure from Ur of the Chaldees, the Tent-door at Mamre, the Flaming Cities of the plain, the Offering of Isaac, Rebecca at the Well, and the Governor of Egypt weeping on the neck of his Brethren. Thence we pass through an extensive range of imposing apartments, the Chambers of Historic Record. These comprise the library of the edifice, and in them are laid up the Church's archives for more than a thousand years. These rooms are twelve in number, and stretch from Joshua to Esther. Then we come to a wide space called the gymnasium of the building, or the saints' exercising ground, the Book of Job. Entering right of this, we find ourselves in the Music Gallery of the Psalms, the orchestra of the house, where dwell all the sons and daughters of song, with cymbal, trumpet, psaltery and harp. Issuing thence we pass at once into the Chamber of Commerce, the Book of Proverbs; not far from which is the Penitentiary of the place, where sorrowful bankrupts and other defaulters may remain for a time with profit—the Book of Ecclesiastes. A little further on, we open into a tiny parlour in the midst of larger rooms—the chamber of sympathy with mourners—the Book of Lamentations. Interspersed among all these, the eye is regaled with such delightful conservatories of flowers as the books of Ruth and of the Song of Solomon. And next, we come to a noble suit of lofty apartments, some of which are of great capacity and are laid out with extraordinary splendour, no less than seventeen in number. These are the Halls of Ancient Prophecy, and follow in grand succession from Isaiah to Malachi.

Thence we pass to the portion of the edifice of more modern construction, and we enter four spacious chambers of peculiar beauty. These are of marble fairer far than e'er was taken from the quarries of Paros, Pentelicus, or Carara; chambers, of which one does not know to admire more the simplicity or exquisite finish. At once the walls arrest us. On them we see not golden reliefs of palm trees, lilies, pomegranates, and cherubim; but four full-length portraits of the Lord of the building Himself, drawn by the Holy Spirit's inimitable hand. These are the Books of the Four Evangelists. Stepping onward, our ears are saluted by the loud sounds of machinery in motion; and entering a long apartment, we find ourselves face to face with wheels and shafts and cranks and pinions, whose motive power is above and out of sight, and which will bring on changes all the world over. This is the Chamber of Celestial Mechanics—the great workroom of the building—the Book of Acts. Leaving it we are conducted into the stately Halls of the Apostolic Epistles, no fewer than twenty-one in range. The golden doors of fourteen of these are inscribed with the honorable name of the Apostle to the Gentiles, those of the seven others with the names of James and Peter and John and Jude. Within these halls the choicest treasures of the Lord are stored.

And last of all we arrive at that mysterious gallery where brilliant lights and dark shadows so curiously interchange, and where, in sublime emblems, the history of the Church of Jesus is unveiled till the Bridegroom come—the grand Apocalypse. And now we have reached the utmost extremity of the building. Let us step out on the projecting balcony and look abroad.

Yonder, beneath us, is a fair meadow, through which the pure River of the Water of Life is winding its way; on either side of which stands the Tree of Life, with its twelve manner of fruits and its beautiful leaves for the healing of the nations. And in the distance, high on the summit of the everlasting hills, the city, all of gold, bathed in light and quivering with glory—the new Jerusalem; its walls of jasper, its foundations of precious stones, its angel-guarded gates of pearl; the city that needs no sun, no moon, “for the glory of the Lord doth lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof!”

Oh! let us make this beloved house our home. Let us make haste, with our little children in either hand and with all our kindred at our back, to enter its portal. But of one thing make sure; see that you ask and obtain the great Interpreter, who waits at the gate, Himself to lead you in and take you all over the building. Say to Him whose name is the Comforter, the Spirit of Truth, reverently and with faith, “Lord, open Thou mine eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of Thy law;” and, oh! let it be yours also to seek that the millions of India, China, of dark Africa, and all America, parents and little children alike, and every islander of the sea, may enjoy the advantages that you possess; that they may have their home with you in this “house of many mansions,” provided for the faint and weary here till they have a place with you hereafter in the Father’s house above.

BIBLE READING.

BY REV. J. H. VINCENT, D.D.,

BIBLE READING IN PUBLIC.—1. The Church should place a higher estimate upon the public reading of God’s word. It should be considered a part of divine worship. Well trained and respectful people never enter church during the “prayer.” Why should they have less reverence for the reading of God’s word?

2. The pews should always be supplied with Bibles, that the people may follow the minister when he reads or join with him in responsive reading.

3. The minister should read with great distinctness and impressiveness, that the whole congregation may understand and be interested.

4. A brief invocation at the opening of the Bible might produce a salutary impression upon the congregation.

5. In responsive reading it is not necessary that the congregation should read in perfect harmony. Let each individual read aloud for himself and fix his mind on what he reads. Exact harmony is not a necessity, and there is danger of losing the sentiment in one's solicitude to "keep with the rest."

TRUE METHODS OF ASSOCIATED BIBLE READING.—1. Read the Bible in the family. Hold "family worship." Have a large Bible. Read consecutively, or topically, or in connection with the current Sunday-school lesson. Read responsively. Give every member of the family a Bible to use at this service.

2. Study the Bible in the family. Hold a little home school every Sabbath. The mother and the little ones with a good series of Bible pictures, the father and the larger children with some special theme to be examined—these form beautiful domestic pictures, and the work accomplished is immortal.

3. Let those members of the household upon whom responsibility rests the most heavily unite in searching the Bible as a means of special grace. A husband and his wife spent an hour in collecting from a single book in the New Testament—one of the epistles—every phrase or statement which indicated the possibilities of religious experience. The time passed by swiftly, and when they kneeled together to ask of God the blessing of which they had been reading there came upon them a baptism of power. What a saving of "wear and tear" in every day life, what conciliatory temper, what patience, what forbearance, what domestic love and peace might thus be won from the Spirit by means of the word of God.

4. Use the Bible in the prayer-meeting and in the class-meeting. Look less at self and more at Christ as he is revealed in his word. Forget self and remember Him. Forget the past and look at the glorious promises and possibilities which shine out of the Scriptures. Thus, as the people of God muse on the truth, the fire will burn. The open Bible is to-day one of the great needs of the social meetings of the Church.

5. A concerted scheme for Bible reading in a whole Church may be prepared and urged by the pastor. The pulpit, the prayer-meeting, the family altar, the closet, the Sunday-school, and the special Bible reading meetings, may be united in a plan for reading certain portions of the great book during the year. This co-operation will inspire many to enter upon the service and to continue in it.

6. As frequently as possible turn the tide of casual conversation into scriptural currents. Where "two or three are gathered together" by circumstances, easily and without violence lead them toward the word, and let the meeting be "in His name." Thus let our "speech be with grace, seasoned with salt," and our "conversion," in the accepted use of that term, be "in heaven."

7. Introduce Bible readings, as widely as possible :—

1.) Parlor Bible readings, where friends meet by special invitation to spend an hour or two in the study of some special Bible chapter, book, or topic.

2.) Church Bible readings where in large numbers believers come together to look at Christ in his own word. The Chautauqua "Eventide Conferences" are of this character.

The Bible classes of the Sunday school may frequently resolve themselves into meetings for Bible readings in the line of the day's lesson, thus promoting spiritual results, and substituting edification for discussion and controversy.

BIBLE READINGS.—There are many forms which this delightful service of the modern Church may take. Let me indicate a few of them :—

1. Expository Bible readings. The minister often gives these in his reading of the regular Bible "lesson" for the morning. The same plan may be followed at the "Bible reading" on a week evening, whether conducted by minister or layman. The gift of exposition should be cultivated by all the people. These expository readings may take the form of a conversation, a verse being read, and opportunity given to all to make remarks upon it.

2. Elliptical or mutual readings. Let all sit down with open Bibles. One of the company asks a question, to which the rest give answer by simply reading the verse or a portion of the verse. This resolves itself into an elliptical reading, and not by any means a drill or recitation.

For example, we take up Paul's letter to the Philippians at the first chapter. All have Testaments open, and the reading goes on much in the following way :—

Leader. Two persons are here named—

Class. Paul and Timotheus.

Leader. They are called—

Class. The servants of Jesus Christ.

Leader. Paul and Timotheus address this letter—

Class. To saints.

Leader. To what saints ?

Class. All the saints in Christ Jesus which are at Philippi.

Leader. What officers among the saints are here mentioned ?

Class. Bishops and Deacons.

Leader. What two things does Paul invoke upon them ?

Class. Grace be unto you, and peace.

Leader. From whom come grace and peace ?

Class. From God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

Now, without degenerating into discussion, and without any speeches at all, definitions may be given of the words "servants," "saints," "bishops," "deacons," "Philippi" may be located, and all this will require but a little time, and it is little more than an elliptical or interrogative reading ; but the attention of every body is held, and a whole book may be read in this manner to the profit of all. This is the simplest form of Bible reading.

3. Random readings. Gather texts. Read at random. Pick up a verse here and a verse there in the Bible and a third farther on, as you wander through these wide fields of history, and poetry, and doctrine. Gather flowers of instruction and promise, until you will form a bouquet such as you collect in the fields on a morning's walk—fresh and fragrant. This plan is very simple, and never fails to gratify and profit.

4. Topical readings. Select a theme—a word, a doctrine, and bring everything to be found in Scripture to bear upon it. Use the "Concordance" freely. Use a good "Bible Index." Study the marginal references. Consult the texts employed in a good "Cyclopedia"—such, for example, as M'Clintock and Strong's. Explore particular chapters and books of the Bible for yourself upon it. Have these passages classified according to a good analysis of the subject, which you may make for yourself; (1.) The topic defined in Scripture; (2.) The topic proved in Scripture; (3.) The topic commended or insisted upon; (4.) The topic illustrated; (5.) The topic harmonized with other themes. Let the various texts be indicated on slips of paper, to be distributed among those who will read distinctly and loud enough to be heard by every body. Having written such text-slips, verify them to see that no blunders occur when they come to be read.

I have spoken above of the personal exploration of the Bible for proof texts. This is better than to depend upon Concordances and Indexes. A Sunday-school class or a company of friends may agree to divide the books of the Bible among themselves and explore them for passages upon specified topics. A complete analysis of every book in the Bible is thus possible.

5. Comparative Bible readings. Take the account of a miracle, for example. Dividing the meeting into sections, let each section open one of the evangelists, and as the successive unfoldings of the miracle are named see what statement the several writers make concerning it. Do the same with parables. In the same way compare Daniel and Paul, Paul and James, Moses and David, etc., in reference to great doctrinal and practical teachings.

6. Memory Bible readings. The word should be hidden in the heart. It is a wholesome exercise to recall texts which have been already committed to memory. "Promise meetings" are common. A promise is quoted, then another, and another. This plan may be carried further. We may apply it to Bible topics—the "work of the Spirit," the "pardon of sin," the "fruits of faith," etc., etc. It is desirable in all such memory readings to be accurate, therefore any mistakes in quotation should be at once corrected, kindly but faithfully. Many so called "familiar texts" are usually misquoted. We should seek accuracy in using the words of God. "Promise meetings" should be held for collecting promises under special heads, that is, promises of God to the penitent; to the tempted; to the poor; to the faithful; to the self-sacrificing; to those who win souls, etc., etc.

7. Polyglot Bible readings. Language is the medium of thought.

Human language is the medium of divine thought. God adapts himself to our infirmities, and has put his great thoughts into the frail medium of human speech, and adapting these thoughts to many nations, he has employed different languages, and made it possible for men, as they need it, to translate from tongue to tongue this precious revelation. The Bible was given in Hebrew, in Chaldee, in Greek. It has since been translated into more than one hundred and fifty languages and dialects. In this effort to convey divine thought to the human understanding, all languages have been carefully and critically studied. We know that in one language shades of meaning are detected which others fail to give, and it is not only curious, but profitable to trace the varying interpretation in several translations, which, without affecting the radical sense, give most beautiful and valuable shades of thought. Therefore, for a profitable Bible reading, let as many versions be brought together as possible, and let them be carefully examined. Take five verses for example, and collect several English versions. Then read the same in Spanish, the French, the Italian, the Modern Syriac, etc., etc. Thus the linguistic ability of a community may be utilized in the study of God's word.

8. Bible Experience Meetings. Personal experience may furnish some illustration or exposition of a passage. Every life has its own interpretations of the divine word. Every soul has had some experience in which a text of Scripture has found a solvent. Some verse has come with peculiar power at a particular time in a human life. A lady told me that on one occasion when crossing the plains—long before the railroad was built—the whole company was in danger from hostile Indians; when night came the emigrants were forbidden to have any light in the encampment. In her waggon tent, (as it always had been her custom to read a verse of Scripture before retiring,) after having opened her Bible, she hurriedly lighted a match, and her eye rested upon this text: "The angel of the Lord encampeth round about them that fear Him, and delivereth them." She said, "This text always meant more to me after that, for I read it, and lay down without fear or danger, and slept as sweetly as a child throughout the night." Let these readings of the word in the light of the soul's experience find a place in the social circle. By this means the Church class-meeting becomes a source of instruction. Said good Father Reeves, "the model class-leader" of England: "Give your experience in Bible language."

In Bible readings it may be well, occasionally, to use the black-board, or to prepare a scheme by means of the Papyrograph process for distribution. On this scheme, appropriate verses of hymns may be distributed to be sung during the service.

BIBLE STUDY.

As much attention has lately been drawn to the subject of Bible reading and marking, may I submit to your readers one or two thoughts on the matter? I used to pick and choose what I thought were nice bits, but somehow I did not seem to profit much, and then there was the danger of attaining one-sided views of truth. I was, thank God, led to see this, and have for some time in reading tried to grasp the scope and purpose of the various books of the Bible; and in reading the Epistles, to watch and keep in mind the line of argument adopted by the writers.

It is only lately that I have finished reading the Epistles of Paul to the Ephesians and Hebrews. I read them consecutively, and they seemed under God to open up in a manner I never realized before. Permit me to give you a skeleton of each:—

EPHESIANS.—Keyword, "In."

Our position, "in Christ"=Safety. (i., ii.)

Our possession, "Christ in us"=Power (for) (iii.)

"Walking," and "Standing." (iv.-vi.)

Paul knew it was no use to tell the poor weak one to walk without showing him first the full meaning of "Abide in Me, and I in you," and "He that abideth in Me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit." It is no use to tell the poor trembling one to quench all the fiery darts without showing him in whom he has to be strong, and what armour he was to be clothed in.

HEBREWS.—Keyword, "Better."

The Person of Christ. (i.-vii.)

Christ as Son of God, and much better than angels. (i.)

Christ, although better, yet made for a little while lower, than they, as Son of Man. (ii.)

Christ better than Moses, as a son is than a servant. (iii.)

Christ better than Joshua. (iv.)

Christ's Priesthood shown as better than the Levitical. (v.)

Christ better than Aaron. (vii.)

New covenant better than the old. (viii.)

Christ's work better than that done under the old covenant. (ix., x.)

Faith and its fruits. (xi.)

Exhortation. (xii.)

Note the twelve "Let us" and the seven "once" (ix., x.) in this glorious epistle. May God bless his own Word; and He will when we read it as He gives it. F. G., 20th Hussars.

BIBLE STUDY.

The man who first seeks Divine guidance will not undervalue subsequent careful and critical study. The Holy Spirit blesses the industrious, not the slothful man. He guides in study, not in the neglect of study. But the guidance should be asked for at the start, not expected as a matter of course by him who fails to request it. The assurance is that our Heavenly Father will "give the Holy Spirit to them that ask Him." "For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened." Not until a man has asked and received the guidance of the Holy Ghost is he ready to begin the study of a passage of Scripture which he is set to teach. Then he may examine the Word itself. Afterwards he may safely consult the best human helps to its understanding and applications. God best understands His own Word. He is first to be looked to to make it clear to him who would teach it to others.—S.S. Times.

THE TRUE SPIRIT OF BIBLE STUDY.

1. The spirit of implicit faith, recognizing it as the word of God, who is himself the truth.
2. The spirit of self-appropriation, accepting it as the word of God to ME. He speaks to each soul in the Bible as though that soul were alone in the universe.
3. The spirit of cordial assent to all that it teaches, whether the truth be clear or obscure to the understanding, palatable or unpalatable to the moral taste.
4. The spirit of profound reverence for the book and its contents, because of him who is its author, substance and inspiration. The holy oil in the Jewish tabernacle was never put to a profane use under pain of death. Exodus xxx. 32, 33. The old Jews in their private houses never placed another book upon the Bible. They washed their hands before touching it. They refused to sit on the bench where it lay, and they kissed it as they opened and closed it. Shall the Christian revere less his larger and fuller Bible, with its wealth of Gospel truth?

5. The spirit of prompt and perfect obedience to all that it commands; the obedient spirit is the receptive spirit. Matt. v. 8.

6. The spirit of fervent believing prayer, inspired by a sense of need. As we open the word we should open the heart. We should pray before we study. We should turn the very Scripture we read into a prayer. Moses prayed when the ark was taken up or set down. Paul prayed when he opened, and when he closed his epistles. Since the Spirit of God alone knoweth the deep things of God, we should call upon God for his light when we look into his word.

7. The spirit of patient waiting for the divine spiritual interpretation. The Spirit of God moves in Scripture. Words which mean little to the carnal mind are weighty with significance to him who is spiritually enlightened. Lines which are dull to the superficial and worldly student, are brilliant to the persistent, diligent, and devout student, who, on bended knee, looks into the mysteries of the word under the illumination of the Spirit. We never know what unfolding of truth is to be made by the divine Spirit. Therefore we should ponder long and patiently, reading as the eunuch read, waiting for some Philip to come by the divine order for our assistance.

8. The spirit of delight in it, as the divine revelation of wisdom, love, and power—the delight which comes from a thirst, a taste, a genius for it. An old writer says: "As a bar of iron by long lying in the fire waxeth red hot, so that soul which daily employeth itself in reading and meditating on the word of God, groweth to be spiritual and divine, and is kindled in a fire of holy devotion and love by the word of God." Let the word be precious to thy soul.

The Word of God.

FURNISHED FOR WORK.

Text : 1 Tim. iv. 12 to 16.

1. CHARACTER BEFORE WORK.—12th verse : "Example of believers in Word, Life, Love, Spirit, Truth, Purity." Titus i. 7 to 9 ; ii. 11 to 15 ; 1 Thes. iv. 1 ; 2 Cor. vi. 3-4.

2. READING, as in 13th verse 2 Tim. iii. 15 to 17 ; Rom. xv. 4 ; John v. 39.

3. FOLLOWING READING (i. e. study drawing from the Scriptures for ourselves, the truth) THEN EXHORTATION ; the application of the truth ; Titus i. 9 ; Heb. iii. 13 ; 2 Thess. iii. 12.

4. DOCTRINE.—Intelligent exhortation, based upon a proper reading, will recognize doctrine, and no relation of experience is profitable that is not in accord with sound doctrine ; Rom. vi. 17 ; 2 Tim. iv. 3 ; Titus ii. 7 ; 2 John 9 ; Acts ii. 42.

5. DILIGENCE.—14th verse : "Neglect not." 2 Tim. iv. 2 and 5 ; 1 Thes. i. 8 ; 2 Cor. xi. 26 ; Eccl. xi. 6.

6. HONOR THE HOLY GHOST.—14th verse : "The gift that is in thee," "which was given thee." 1 Cor. xii. 3 ; Acts. xix. 2 and 6 ; John xiv. 16 and 17.

7. CONSECRATION. — 15th verse : "Give thyself wholly to them." Rom. xii. 1. 1 Cor. vi. 19 and 20.

8. WATCHFULNESS.—16th verse : "Take heed" Luke xxi. 36 ; Mark xiii. 33 to 37.

9. PERSEVERANCE.—"Continue in them." John xv. 4, Heb. vi. 11 and 12, x. 35 to 37.

The last references bringing us back to the introduction of the text, as enforcing every admonition :

"TILL I COME."

4. SPIRITUALITY ESSENTIAL TO THE RIGHT UNDERSTANDING OF GOD'S WORD.—John iii, 20, 21; Ps. xcvi, 11; 1 Cor. xii, 8; John v, 44; Ps. xxv, 9; Matt. vi, 22; John viii, 43, 47; John viii, 31, 32; Eph. i, 17; 2 Cor. iv, 3, 4; 1 John ii, 20, 27; John vi, 17; 1 Cor. ii, 12-15; Ps. cxii, 4; 2 Pet. iii, 18.

—REV. J. H. VINCENT, D.D.

"THE WORD OF GOD," HOW USED BY THE HOLY SPIRIT IN EFFECTING SALVATION.

1. IN REGENERATION.—Life springs from a seed. Of the new life, "the seed is the Word of God." This seed must fall into the understanding, Matt. 13: 23. 2. By it is the new life begotten. James i: 18. 3. Of it is the new life born. 1 Pet. i: 23.

Thus it converts the soul. Ps. 19: 7. And makes wise unto salvation. 2 Tim. 3: 13-17.

2. IN THE PRODUCTION OF REPENTANCE.—The impenitent heart is hard as a rock. Would you break it? Jer. xxiii, 29. It is insensible. Would you pierce it? Use the sword of the Spirit. Eph. vi, 17; Heb. iv, 12. How Peter used it on the day of Pentecost. Acts ii, 22-36. See the result in verse 37.

3. IN THE PRODUCTION OF SAVING FAITH.—How is faith imparted? Rom. x: 17. See the whole chap. Instances, Acts viii, 35-38; xvi: 32-34; xvii, 11-12. See also, Jno. xx, 31; 1 Cor. ii, 5.

4. IN THE SANCTIFICATION OF THE BELIEVER.—For this Christ prayed. Jno. xvii, 17-19. It was Paul's doctrine. Eph. v: 25-27. And Peter's. 1 Pet. i, 22.

Do we desire the conversion of men, and their subsequent development of spiritual character? How safely, then, may we rely on the Word of God? Is. lv, 10-11.

—REV. J. H. CASTLE, D.D.

THE WORD OF GOD.

1. IS OF DIVINE ORIGIN.—It was God who spoke through all the Prophets. Heb. i, 1. It was God who by His Spirit inspired the writers of the Scriptures, they were not its authors, it was God's Word. 2 Pet. i, 21.

At last God spoke Himself. Heb. i, 2. The Divine mind became incarnate. John i, 1.

2. HENCE THE AUTHORITY OF THE WORD OF GOD.—When God speaks, men should hear and obey. We nowhere read "hear ye the word of Moses, of Samuel, of David," but "hear ye the Word of the Lord," Jer. xxii, 29. The Bible is not a Book of opinions; it is not simply true, it is TRUTH divine, absolute, final. John xvii, 17.

3. THE UNSPEAKABLE VALUE OF THIS WORD.—"Words" are the medium of communication between mind and mind, the "Word of God" is the mind of God. If there be a God it is of the utmost importance that we communicated to man should know what His mind is concerning us. It is essential to man's true life that he should have this mind of God. Men may exist, but they cannot live without it. Luke iv, 4.

4. SOME CHARACTERISTICS OF THE WORD OF GOD.—It is Divine power to a divine end—salvation. Rom. i. 16.

It illumines, Ps. cxix. 130.

It quickens, Ps. cxix. 25.

It cleanses, John xv. 3.

It emancipates, John xiii. 32.

It is a lamp for stumbling feet, and a light for dark paths. Ps. cxix. 105.

It is as gentle as the dew or the rain. Deut. xxxi. 2.

It is a "hammer" for the stubborn. Jer. xxiii. 29.

Its precepts, supply laws for life.

Its examples, stimulate to holiness.

Its promises, comfort when all else fails.

Happy the man who loves the Word of God. Ps. cxix. 127.

Woe to him who scorns this word, for it will be his fall. Matt. vii. 24, 29.

—THOMAS W. HANDFORD.

THE WORD OF GOD.

FOR CONVERSION.—James i. 18, 21; 1 Pet. i. 23, 25; 1 Jno. iii. 5; Titus iii. 5.

FOR CLEANSING.—John xv. 3; Eph. v. 26; Ps. cvii. 20; Ps. cxix. 9.

FOR GROWTH.—1 Pet. ii. 2.

What it is.

It is the sword of the Spirit.—Eph. vi. 17; Rev. ii. 16.

It is the word of life.—Rev. xix. 15; Phil. ii. 16; Deut. viii. 3.

It is like as a fire and as a hammer which breaketh the rock in pieces.—Jer. xxiii. 29.

It is a two edged sword.—Heb. iv. 12.

It is the only, but sufficient, ground of confidence for time or eternity.—John x. 28; Num. xxiii. 19.

"Thou hast magnified thy word above all thy name."

—COL. BURTON.

Obey the Bible. 1 Peter iv. 17. For it is God's law. Psa. xix. 7.

Love the Bible. Deut. vi. 4-9. For it is God's gift. Ezek. xx. 11.

Trust the Bible. Isa. xxvi. 4. For it is God's promise. Heb. vi. 13-20.

You are in darkness. Eph. v. 8. It is your lantern. Psa. cxix. 105-130.

You are in the enemy's land. 2 Cor. iv. 4. It is your sword. Eph. vi. 17.

You are in the midst of sin. John iii. 19.

It is your safeguard. Psa. cxix. 9-11.

You are exposed to falsehood. John viii. 44.

It is truth. John xvii. 17.

It tells the sinner of a Saviour. Matt. i. 21.

It promises the slave Freedom. John viii. 32.

It proclaims to the rebel pardon. Isa. lv. 6, 7.

It assures the weak of strength. Isa. xxv. 4.

It guides the lost to heaven. John xiv. 6.

It tells the dead of life. Prov. viii. 35, Eph. ii. 1-8.

It points the exile to a home. 2 Sam. xiv. 14.

It offers the weary rest. Matt. xi. 28, 30.

Gal. ii. 16-21; Rom. viii. 1-4.

OUR SALVATION IS—

Not of works. Eph. ii. 9. It is by grace through faith. Eph. ii. 8. And flows to us through ordinances appointed by Christ himself. Rom. i. 16; Mark xvi. 16. 1 Cor. xi. 23-26; Ps. cxlv. 18, 19.

GOOD WORKS—

Are the evidence and fruits of faith. James ii. 17-20. They do not precede justification. Rom. iv. 3-8. They are not "the meritorious or procuring cause" of justification. Rom. iii. 20; Acts xiii. 39. But they follow justification. Rom. vi. 18-22.

REGENERATION—

Is the new birth—the second birth. It imparts a new nature. Without it none can see the kingdom of God. John iii. 3-5. It is the work of the Holy Spirit. John i. 13; iii. 5-6. By means of the Word of God. James i. 18; 1 Pet. i. 23. It changes the will, the affections, and the conduct: causes us to hate sin, and produces likeness to God. Eph. iv. 20-24. The evidences of the new birth are—A belief that Jesus is the Christ. 1 John v. 1-10. And living only for God's glory. 2 Cor. v. 14, 15.

ADOPTION—

Is God's receiving us into his family. 1 John iii. 1; Rom. viii. 15, 16. Making us His. John i. 12; 2 Cor. vi. 17, 18. Making us co-heirs with Christ. Rom. viii. 17. It produces in us—Filial love. 1 John iv. 19. Filial obedience. 1 John v. 1-3.

SANCTIFICATION—

Follows justification. It is not, like it, perfect, i.e., at once complete and equal in degree in all believers—but it is a progressive work. 1 Thess. iv. 1-3. Justification is attained through a righteousness eternal to us, viz., the perfect righteousness of Christ imputed to us. 1 Cor. i. 30. Sanctification is a work within us—a righteousness imparted to and wrought in us by the Spirit of God. 1 Cor. vi. 11. Justification gives us our title to heaven; Sanctification makes us meet for heaven. Eph. v. 25-27; 1 Thess. v. 23.

THE BLESSEDNESS OF BELIEVERS IS BEGUN ON EARTH, AND THEIR GLORIFICATION PERFECTED IN HEAVEN.

IN THIS LIFE—They are blessed with all spiritual blessings. Eph. i. 3. They experience God's presence, favour, and love. John xiv. 23; Rom. v. 5. They are already fellow-citizens with the saints. Eph. ii. 19. Their joy is full of glory. 1 Pet. i. 8. Angels minister unto them. Heb. i. 14. They are sealed unto the day of redemption. Eph. iv. 30. And are changed from glory to glory. 2 Cor. iii. 18; Prov. iv. 18. AT DEATH—They feel secure. Ps. xxiii. 4; 1 Cor. xv. 55-57. They are more than conquerors. Rom. viii. 37-39; 2 Pet. i. 11. They die in the Lord, and are blessed. Rev. xiv. 13. They go to be with Christ which is far better. Philip. i. 23. The soul becomes perfect in holiness. Heb. xii. 23. And enters into glory. 2 Cor. v. 6-8. The body (united to Christ) rests in the grave. Isa. lvii. 1, 2; 1 Thess. iv. 14. Awaiting its redemption. Rom. viii. 23. IN THE RESURRECTION.—The body sown in dishonour shall be raised in glory. Philip. iii. 21; 1 Cor. xv. 43. The soul and body shall be re-united. 1 Thess. iv. 15-17; 1 Cor. xv. 51-53. The dead in Christ rise first. 1 Thess. iv. 16. The redeemed shall appear with him in glory. Col. iii. 4. They shall be like Him. 1 John iii. 2; Ps. xvii. 15. They shall be glorified with Him. Rom. viii. 16-18; 2 Tim. ii. 11, 12. They shall see Him face to face. 1 Cor. xiii. 12. Experience fulness of joy. Ps. xvi. 11. Serve Him day and night. Rev. vii. 15. And shall be for ever with the Lord. 1 Thess. iv. 17.

THE SONG OF THE REDEEMED.

Salvation to our God, which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb, Rev. vii. 10. Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood, and hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen. Rev. i. 5, 6. J. B. A.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Our State by Nature.—For I know that in me (that is, in my flesh,) dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me; but how to perform that which is good I find not. Rom. vii. 18.

The Purpose for which Christ was manifested.—And ye know that he was manifested to take away our sins; and in him is no sin. 1 John iii. 5.

Christ Himself.—And we believe and are sure [know] that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God, John vi. 69. I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine, John x. 14. For the which cause I also suffer these things: nevertheless I am not ashamed: for I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day. 2 Tim. i. 12.

The Holy Spirit.—Even the Spirit of truth; whom the world can not receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you. John xiv. 17.

God the Father.—And this is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent, John xvii. 3. I write unto you, fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I write unto you, young men, because ye have overcome the wicked one. I write unto you, little children, because ye have known the Father, 1 John ii. 13.

The Grace of Christ.—For ye know the Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though He was rich, yet for your sakes He became poor, that ye through His poverty might be rich. 2 Cor. viii. 9.

The Love of Christ.—And to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge that ye might be filled with all the fulness of God. Eph. iii. 19.

Christ Risen.—Jesus saith unto them, come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask Him, who art thou? knowing that it was the Lord, John xxi. 12. Knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over Him, Rom. vi. 9. Knowing that He which raised up the Lord Jesus shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you. 2 Cor. iv. 14.

The Way of Justification.—Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ and not by the works of the law: for by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified. Gal. ii. 16.

That we have Passed from Death unto Life.—We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother, abideth in death. 1 John iii. 14.

Our Election of God.—Knowing, brethren beloved, your election of God, 1. Thess. i. 4. According as He hath chosen us in Him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blame before Him in love. Eph. i. 4.

That we have Eternal Life.—These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God: that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God. 1 John v. 13.

That all Things work Together for our Good.—And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose. Rom. viii. 28.

That our Old Man was Crucified with Christ.—Knowing this that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin. For he that is dead is freed from sin. Now if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with Him. Rom. vi. 6, 7, 8

That Tribulation leads to Patience and Experience and Hope.—And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also; knowing that tribulation worketh patience; and patience, experience; and experience, hope: and hope maketh not ashamed; because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost, which is given unto us. Rom. v. 3, 4, 5.

That Resurrection Awaits Us.—Martha saith unto Him, I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day. Jesus saith unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever believeth in Me shall never die. Believest thou this? John xi. 24-26.

That in the last days Perilous Times shall Come.—This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, without natural affection, trucebreakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good, traitors, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away. 2 Tim. iii. 1-5.

That if Death comes we have a House in Heaven.—For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. For in this we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our house which is from Heaven: if so be that being clothed we shall not be found naked. For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life. Now he that hath wrought us for the self same thing is God, who also hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit. Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord: (for we walk by faith not by sight). 2 Cor. v. 1-7.

That the day of the Lord cometh as a Thief in the Night.—For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night. For when they shall say, peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape. 1 Thess. v. 2, 3.

That Christ our Life shall Appear.—Beloved now are we the sons of God and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that when He shall appear, we shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is. 1 John iii. 2.

That in Heaven we have a better Substance than on Earth.—For ye had compassion of me in my bonds, and took joyfully the spoiling of your goods knowing in yourselves that ye have in Heaven a better and an enduring substance. Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompense of reward. Heb. x. 34, 35.

THINGS WORTH HAVING.

Faith in God.—And Jesus answering saith unto them, have faith in God. Mark xi. 22.

Everlasting Life.—He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him. John iii. 36.

The Joy of Jesus.—And now come I to thee; and these things I speak in the world, that they might have My joy fulfilled in themselves. John xvii. 13.

The Light of Life.—Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. John viii. 12.

The Commandments of Jesus.—He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth Me: and he that loveth Me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest Myself to him. John xiv. 21.

Hope toward God.—And have hope toward God, which they themselves also allow, that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both the just and the unjust. Acts xxiv. 15.

A Conscience Void of Offence.—And herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offence toward God, and toward men. Acts xxiv. 16.

Peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ.—Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, Rom. v. 1.

Access by Faith, into this Grace wherein we Stand.—By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God. Rom. v. 2.

Fruit unto Holiness.—But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life. Rom. vi. 22.

The First Fruits of the Spirit.—And not only they, but ourselves also, which have the first fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, to-wit, the redemption of our body. Rom. viii. 23.

The Holy Ghost which is in us.—What! know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not your own? 1 Cor. vi. 19.

A Building of God.—For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands eternal in the heavens. 2 Cor. v. 1.

All Sufficiency.—And God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work. 2 Cor. ix. 8.

God's Promises.—Having therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God. 2 Cor. vii. 1.

Redemption through the Blood of Christ.—In whom we have redemption through His blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of His grace Eph. i. 7.

Access by one Spirit unto the Father.—For through Him we both have access by one Spirit unto the Father. Eph. ii. 18.

A desire to Depart and to be with Christ.—For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ; which is far better. Phil. i. 23.

The same Love.—Fulfil ye my joy, that ye be like-minded, having the same love being of one accord, of one mind. Phil. ii. 2.

Promise of the Life that now is, and of that which is to come.—For bodily exercise profiteth little: but godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come. 1 Tim. iv. 8.

A Great High Priest.—Seeing then that we have a great high priest, that is passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us hold fast our profession. Heb. iv. 14.

Hope as an Anchor of the Soul.—Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast, and which entereth into that within the veil. Heb. vi. 19.

A Strong Consolation.—That by two immutable things, in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us. Heb. vi. 18.

Boldness to Enter into the Holiest.—

Having therefore, brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus. Heb. x. 19.

Fellowship with Him.—If we say that we have fellowship with Him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth. 1 John i. 6.

Fellowship one with Another.—But if we walk in the light, as He is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin. 1 John i. 7.

An Advocate with the Father.—My little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous. 1 John ii. 1.

Boldness in the day of Judgment.—Herein is our love made perfect, that we may have boldness in the day of judgment: because as He is, so are we in this world. 1 John iv. 17.

The Petitions that we desire of God.—And if we know that he hears us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of Him. 1 John v. 15.

ASSURANCE OF SALVATION.

1 Cor. i. 18; Heb. x. 39; 2 Tim. i. 9; Titus iii. 5; Gal. iii. 13; 1 John v. 11, 13; John iii. 18, 36; John vi. 47; Isa. xliii. 1; Ps. cvii. 2; John v. 24.

HAPPINESS OF THE SAVED.

Rev. ii. 17, 26; Rev. iii. 5, 12, 21.

SUDDENLY!

Thoughtful and observant men and women must have noticed the events of life that have come upon us suddenly.

We find as early as Miriam the Lord spake to her, and she became leprous "suddenly." Num. xii. 4, 10.

At the battle of Gibeon Joshua came upon the people "suddenly." Josh. x. 9; xi. 7.

The temple was sanctified "suddenly." 2 Chron. xxix. 36.

The wicked are cursed "suddenly" (without remedy). Ps. lxiv. 7; Prov. vi. 15.

Young men are entrapped "suddenly." Prov. vii. 22; Eccles. ix. 12.

The visitation of the Lord with thunder, earthquake, noise, storm, tempest, flame, was, and is to be in an instant "suddenly." Isaiah xxix. 5.

The daughter of Babylon was made a widow and childless—desolate "suddenly." Isaiah xlvii. 11; xlviii. 3.

Jerusalem was destroyed "suddenly." Jer. iv. 20; vi. 26; xv. 8.

The war-cry was heard "suddenly." Jer. xviii. 22; xlix. 19.

Babylon fell "suddenly." Jer. li. 8.

The spoiler of nations—the proud, covetous, blood-thirsty, and violent, are to be destroyed "suddenly;" Hab. ii. 7.

The Refiner and Purifier of the Gold and the Silver shall come "suddenly," and who shall abide the day of His coming? Mal. iii. 1.

Angels ministered to the babe Jesus "suddenly." Luke ii. 13.

Jesus was transfigured "suddenly." Mark ix. 8.

Demons possessed, and possess, "suddenly." Luke viii. 28, 33; ix. 39.

The Holy Ghost came "suddenly." Acts ii. 2.

Saul of Tarsus was smitten "suddenly." Acts ix. 3.

Paul and Silas in prison were liberated "suddenly," and the prison gaoler converted "suddenly." Acts xvi. 26.

This mortal is to put on immortality, and we are to be changed "suddenly;" "in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye." 1 Cor. xv. 52, 53.

The Master Himself cometh "suddenly;" watch therefore. Mark xiii. 36.

He who testifieth these things saith, "I come quickly. Even so, come, Lord Jesus."

May the Spirit bless this retrospect, and day by day enable us all more devotedly to work in His strength and more calmly to prepare to meet our God—for every death-roll tells us that old and young die "suddenly."

BLINDNESS.

TYPICAL—Lev. xxi. 18, 21; xxii. 22; Deut. xv. 21; Mal. i. 8.

SPIRITUAL—Jer. v. 21; Isaiah xliv. 18; xxix. 10, 11; vi. 9, 10; Judges xvi. 20; Is. i. 3; Rom. xi. 25; 2 Cor. ii. 3, 14, 15.

OF THE NATURAL MAN—1 Cor. ii. 14; 2 Cor. iv. 3, 4; John xiv. 17; Acts xxvi. 17, 18; Eph. iv. 17, 18.

EXHORTATION—Eph. v. 8; 2 Peter i. 9, 10; 1 John i. 5, 6; ii. 9, 11; Rev. iii. 17, 18.

SIN—GOD'S TESTIMONY ABOUT IT.

Its Nature.—Sin is the transgression of the law, or lawlessness. 1 John iii. 4. All unrighteousness is sin. 1 John v. 17.

Its Origin.—The devil sinneth from the beginning. 1 John iii. 8.

How it came into this World.—By one man sin entered into the world. Rom. v. 12. And the Lord God commanded the man saying, Of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it. Gen. iii. 16, 17. And he did eat. Gen. iii. 6.

Its Extent—To all Men.—The Scriptures hath concluded all under sin. Gal. iii. 22. Both Jews and Gentiles, they are all under sin, as it is written, there is none righteous, no not one. Rom. iii. 9, 10. There is no difference for all have sinned. Rom. iii. 22, 23. There is not a just man upon earth that doeth good and sinneth not. Ecc. vii. 20. If we say we have no sin we deceive ourselves and the truth is not in us. 1 John i. 8. We are all as an unclean thing and all our righteousness are as filthy rags. Isa. lxiv. 6.

How it is Revealed.—By the law is the knowledge of sin. Rom. iii. 20. I had not known sin but by the law; for I had not known lust, except the law had said, Thou shalt not covet. I was alive without the law once; but when the commandment came, sin revived and I died. Rom. vii. 7, 9. Wherefore the law was our schoolmaster, to bring us to Christ that we might be justified by faith. Gal. iii. 24.

Its End.—The soul that sinneth it shall die. Ez. xviii. 4. The wages of sin is death. Rom. vi. 23. Sin when it is finished bringeth forth death. James i. 18. Then Jesus said again unto them—if ye believe not that I am he ye shall die in your sins. John viii. 21, 24.

God Knows Them All.—O God thou knowest my foolishness; my sins are not hid from thee. Psalm lxix. 5. Thou hast set our iniquities before thee, our secret sins in the light of thy countenance. Psalm xc. 8.

Will Certainly Find the Sinner.—Be sure your sin will find you out. Num. xxxii. 23. Fools make a mock at sin. Prov. xiv. 9. Reader, do you think lightly of sin? Do you regard it as a little thing? Are you unconcerned and careless about your sin? Do you make a mock at it? God says that such a man is a fool. And viewed in the light of the solemn declarations of Jehovah, no wonder God so regards the man who will trifle with sin.

How we are Freed from it.—Without shedding of blood is no remission, Heb. ix. 22. The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him and saith, Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world. John i. 29. God commendeth his love toward us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us. Rom. v. 8. Now once in the end of the world hath he [Christ] appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself. So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many. Heb. ix. 26, 28. His own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree. 1 Peter ii. 24. And the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin. 1 John i. 7. Be it known unto you, therefore, men and brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins, and by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which they could not be justified by the law of Moses. Acts xiii. 38, 39.

What Becomes of the Believer's Sins? They are—FORGIVEN—Goç, for Christ's sake, hath [not will] forgive you. Eph. iv. 32. I write unto you little children because your sins are [not shall be] forgiven you for his name's sake. 1 John ii. 12.

BLOTTED OUT—I have blotted out as a thick cloud thy transgressions, and, as a cloud thy sins. Isa. xlv. 22.

COVERED—Thou hast covered all their sin. Psalm lxxv. 2. Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered. Psalm xxxii. 1.

REMOVED—As far as the east is from the west so far hath he removed our transgressions from us. Psalm ciii. 12.

CAST INTO THE SEA—Thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea. Micah vii. 19.

HID—The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up; his sin is hid. Hos. xiii. 12.

BEHIND GOD'S BACK—Thou hast cast all my sins behind thy back. Isaiah xxxviii. 17.

FORGOTTEN—I even I, am he that blotteth out thy transgressions for mine own sake, and will not remember thy sins. Isa. xliii. 25. And their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more. Heb. x. 17.

NOT TO BE EVEN MENTIONED UNTO HIM—None of his sins that he hath committed shall be mentioned unto him. Ez. xxxiii. 16.

Believer, ponder these precious figures—forgiven, blotted out, covered, removed, cast into the sea, hid, behind God's back, forgotten, not to be even mentioned. If these figures do not teach full, perfect, complete, and present salvation, what language can teach it.

Conclusion.—Come now and let us reason together, saith the Lord; though your sins be as scarlet they shall be white as snow; though they be red like crimson they shall be as wool. Isa. i. 18.

OUR WARRANT FOR COMING TO CHRIST.

1. We are permitted to come. "Whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely," Rev. xxii. 17; Rev. xxi. 6; Isaiah lv. 1.

2. We are invited to come. "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Matt. xi. 28.

3. We are entreated to come. "Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech by us: we pray in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God." 2 Cor. v. 20.

4. We are commanded to come. "This is His commandment, that we should believe on the name of His Son Jesus Christ," 1 John iii. 23; Heb. xi. 6.

5. We are compelled to come. "Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled." Luke xiv. 23.

6. We are assured of a present and certain salvation if we come. "God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." John iii. 16; John vi. 37; John vi. 47; Acts xvi. 31; Rom. iv. 5.

7. The sinner will be lost forever, if he does not come. "He that believeth not shall be damned." Mark xvi. 16; John iii. 18; John v. 40; 2 Thess. i. 7, 8; Heb. ii. 3; John iii. 36. J.H.B.

WHY MEN DO NOT BELIEVE IN CHRIST.

Men often say that they would be glad to become Christians, but they can not believe the Bible. Belief, they affirm, is a matter of simple reason and not subject to the will. A man is no more responsible for his belief than he is for his complexion.

Now, Christ asserts the opposite of this. He affirms that the reason why men do not accept Him, is, that they will not, (John v. 40); and that any man who is willing to serve God, or to know the truth, will infallibly come to believe in Christ, (John vii. 17; xviii. 37).

If now, we examine the New Testament more widely, we shall see that, in every instance, where men are represented as failing to believe in Christ, it is never merely because their intellect is unconvinced: there is something sinful either in heart or will.

The reasons why men do not believe in Christ are these:—

Pride, which may be national, Matt. iii. 9; John viii. 33; Acts xiii. 45; xvii. 5; xxii. 21, 22; intellectual, Matt. xi. 25; John ix. 39-41; Rom. i. 21, 22; 1 Cor. i. 19-21; or social, John vii. 48.

Self-righteousness, Mark ii. 16; Luke vii. 39; xviii. 10, 14; Rom. x. 3.

Love of praise, John v. 44; xii. 43.

Love of the world, 2 Tim. iv. 10; James iv. 4; 1 John ii. 15.

Love of money, Mark x. 17-24; Luke xvi. 13, 14; 1 Tim. vi. 9, 10.

Cares of the world, Matt. xiii. 7, 22; Luke x. 40.

Fear of man, John vii. 13; ix. 22; xii. 42.

Worldly self-interest, Mark v. 16, 17; John xi. 48.

Unwillingness to separate from impenitent friends, Luke ix. 59-62.

Unwillingness to believe what they can not understand, John iii. 9; vi. 52, 60; Acts xvii. 32; 1 Cor. ii. 14.

Unwillingness to have their sins exposed, John iii. 19, 20.

Unwillingness to submit to God's authority, Luke xix. 14; xi. 9-18.

Prejudice against the messenger, Matt. xii. 24; xiii. 57; John i. 46; vi. 42; vii. 52; ix. 29.

Spiritual blindness, Matt. xiii. 15; 1 Cor. ii. 14.

Unfaithfulness to the light which they had, John xii. 36.

Waiting for a convenient season, Acts xxiv. 25.

Frivolous excuses, Luke xiv. 18.

Lack of deep convictions, Matt. xiii. 5; xxii. 5.

Lack of earnestness, Luke xiii. 24.

Neglect of the Bible, Luke xxiv. 25; John v. 39; vii. 27; Acts xvii. 11, 12.

Neglect of religious meetings, John xx. 24.

Blindness to special opportunities, Luke xix. 44.

Desire for special signs, Matt. xii. 38, 39; xvi. 1-4; John vi. 30; 1 Cor. i. 22.

Regard for human traditions, Matt. xv. 9; Mark ii. 23-28.

Insincerity, Matt. xv. 7, 8; xxi. 25-31; Acts xxiv. 26.

A controversial spirit, Matt. xxii. 15-40.

A murmuring spirit, Matt. xxv. 24.

Having no desire for God, John v. 42; Rom. i. 28.

Hatred of God and of Christ, John xv. 22-25.

Hatred of the truth, Acts vii. 51-54; 2 Thess. ii. 10-12; 2 Tim. iv. 3.

The power of the devil, Matt. xiii. 4, 19; John viii. 44; 2 Cor. iv. 3, 4.

These passages embrace nearly the entire teaching of the word of God on this subject. That word, which is "a discernor of the thoughts and intents of the heart," (Heb. iv. 12), as truly interprets human nature to-day as it did in the days of Christ and the apostles. It is not intellectual doubt which keeps men from believing in Christ: it is sin in the heart. They are responsible for rejecting the Saviour. The sentence pronounced in John iii. 36, is just. We are not arguing with sincere honest doubters, but with men who at heart are opposed to Christ and to God. We need in our arguments to be possessed by the spirit of 1 Cor. iv. 2-5; 2 Tim. i. 23-26.

A hundred stripes will not enter into him, Prov. xvii. 10.

HIS END.

He dies for want of wisdom, Prov. x. 21.

Thou fool this night thy soul shall be required of thee, Luke xii. 20.

The great God shall reward him, Prov. xxvi. 10.

PRESENT SALVATION FOR YOU.

1. All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God. Rom. iii. 23. The Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all. Isaiah liii. 6.

2. If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. 1 John i. 8. He hath made Him to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him. 2 Cor. v. 21.

3. When we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly. Rom. v. 6. God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Rom. v. 8. Who his own self bare our sins in His own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness; by whose stripes ye were healed. 1 Peter ii. 24. He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon Him; and with His stripes we are healed. Isaiah liii. 5. Jesus said, "It is finished." John xix. 30.

4. As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up: That whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have eternal life. For God so loved the world, that He gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John iii. 14—16. And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the Name of the Lord shall be saved. Acts ii. 21. Whosoever believeth in Him shall receive remission of sins. Acts x. 43. If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. Rom. x. 9.

5. This is his commandment that we should believe on the Name of his Son Jesus Christ. 1 John iii. 23. He that believeth not God hath made Him a liar; because he believeth not the record that God gave of his Son. 1 John v. 10. He that believeth on Him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the Name of the only begotten Son of God. John iii. 18. There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. Rom. viii. 1. As many as received Him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his Name. John i. 12. Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. Rom. v. 1.

6. The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Rom. vi. 23. I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand. John x. 28. He that believeth on Me hath everlasting life. John vi. 47. These things have I written unto you that believe on the Name of the Son of God, that ye may know that ye have eternal life. 1 John v. 13.

7. If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. 1 John i. 9. I have blotted out, as a thick cloud, thy transgressions, and, as a cloud, thy sins: return unto Me; for

I have redeemed thee. Isaiah xlv. 22. Thou hast cast all my sins behind thy back. Isaiah xxxviii. 17. Thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea. Micah vii. 19. As far as the east is from the west, so far hath He removed our transgressions from us. Psalm ciii. 12. Their sins and iniquities will I remember no more. Heb. x. 17.

8. I write unto you, little children, because your sins are forgiven you for His Name's sake. 1 John ii. 12. I love them that love Me; and those that seek Me early shall find Me. Proverbs viii. 17. And ye shall seek Me, and find Me, when ye shall search for Me with all your heart. Jer. xxix. 13. Ask, and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you. Matt. vii. 7.

9. Come unto Me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Matt. xi. 28. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely. Rev. xxii. 17. Jesus said, Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God. Luke xviii. 16. Him that cometh to Me, I will in no wise cast out. John vi. 37. He is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by Him, seeing He ever liveth to make intercession for them. Heb. vii. 25.

10. Fear not: for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine. Isaiah xlii. 1. Peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you. John xiv. 27. He hath said, "I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee." Heb. xiii. 5. God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it. 1 Cor. x. 13. I will heal their backsliding, I will love them freely. Hosea xiv. 4.

11. Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool. Isaiah i. 18. Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation. 2 Cor. vi. 2. Choose you this day whom ye will serve. Joshua xxiv. 15.

THE BLOOD MAKETH AN ATONEMENT FOR THE SOUL.

Leviticus xvii. 11; Exodus xii. 13; Hebrews ix. 7, 14, 22; 1 John i. 9; Col. i. 14; Ephesians ii. 13; 1 Peter i. 18, 19; Revelation v. 9; Revelation vii. 14; Revelation i. 5.

THREE GREAT FACTS.

MAN'S STATE BY NATURE.

God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually. Gen. vi. 5.

Behold, I was shapen in iniquity, and in sin did my mother conceive me. Psalms li. 5.

The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked; who can know it? Jer. xvii. 9.

From within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders, thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness. Mark vii. 21, 22.

That which is born of the flesh is flesh. John iii. 6.

The carnal mind [or rather, the mind of the flesh], is enmity against God; for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be. Rom. viii. 7.

And you hath he quickened who were dead in trespasses and sins—and were by nature the children of wrath even as others. Eph. ii. 1, 2.

MAN'S STATE BY PRACTICE.

They are, all gone aside, they are altogether become filthy; there is none that doeth good, no, not one. Psalms xiv. 3.

There is not a just man upon earth, that doeth good, and sinneth not. Ecc. vii. 20.

We are all as an unclean thing, and all our righteousness are as filthy rags; and we all do fade as a leaf; and our iniquities, like the wind, have taken us away. Isaiah lxiv. 6.

There is none righteous, no, not one. Rom. iii. 10.

There is no difference; for all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God. Rom. iii. 22, 23.

By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned. Rom. v. 12.

If we say that we have no sin we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us;—if we say that we have not sinned, we make Him a liar. 1 John i. 8, 10.

THERE MUST BE A CHANGE.

Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Matt. xviii. 3.

Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish. Luke xiii. 3.

Except a man be born again [or from above], he cannot see the kingdom of God. John iii. 3.

The wages of sin is death. Rom. vi. 23.

Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to do them. Gal. iii. 10.

Sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death. James i. 15.

He that committeth sin is of the devil. 1 John iii. 18.

HELL.

IS THERE A HELL?

For if God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, 2 Peter ii. 4.

Her house is the way to hell, going down to the chambers of death, Prov. vii. 27.

The way of life is above to the wise, that he may depart from hell beneath,

Prov. xv. 24.

But I will forewarn you whom ye shall fear ; fear Him which, after he hath killed, hath power to cast into hell, Luke xii. 5.

And if thy hand offend thee, cut it off ;
it is better for thee to enter into life maimed than having two hands to go into hell, Mark ix. 43.

Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers ;
how can ye escape the damnation of hell,
Matt. xxiii. 33.

The wicked shall be turned into hell, and all the nations that forget God, Psa.
ix. 17.

WHAT KIND OF A PLACE IS IT ?

The sinners in Zion are afraid ; fearful-ness hath surprised the hypocrites, who among us shall dwell with the devouring fire ! Who among us shall dwell with everlasting burnings, Isa. xxxiii. 14.

The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation ; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone, Rev. xiv. 10.

And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image.
These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone, Rev. xix. 20.

And the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone where the beast and false prophet are, and shall be tormented day and night for ever and ever * * * * *
And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death.
And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire, Rev. xx. 10, 14, 15.

But the fearful and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolators, and all liars, shall have their place in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone ; which is the second death,

Rev. xxi. 8.

The Son of Man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend and them which do iniquity, and shall cast them into a furnace of fire ; there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth, Matt. xiii. 41, 42.

IS THE PUNISHMENT EVERLASTING ?

Who among us shall dwell with the devouring fire ? Who among us shall dwell with everlasting burnings, Isa. xxxiii. 14.

And some of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life and some to shame and everlasting contempt, Dan. xii. 2.

Whose fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly purge his floor and gather his wheat into the garner ; but he will burn up the chaff with unquenchable fire, Matt.
iii. 12.

And if thy hand offend thee cut it off ;
it is better for thee to enter into life maimed, than having two hands to go into hell, into the fire that never shall be quenched ; where their worm dieth not and the fire is not quenched, Mark ix. 43, 44.

Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye accursed into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels, Matt. xxv. 41.

Read, also, Luke xvi. 22-26 inclusive.

WHO GO THERE.

The Fool—Prov. xv. 24. Adulterers—
Prov. vii. 27. Those who offend—Matt.
xiii. 41, 42. Those who fear not God—book of life—Rev. xx. 15. Whose names are in the book of life?—Rev. iii. 5.

Who overcome?—John v. 4, 5.

By these last three passages we understand that all who reject Christ are cast into hell.

Neither is there salvation in any other ; for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved, Acts iv. 12.

We pray that no one who may read this may be "cast into outer darkness."

SEVEN SOLEMN QUESTIONS.

I.—WHOM AM I TO BELIEVE ?

If it seem evil unto you to serve the Lord, choose you this day whom ye will serve, Josh. xxiv. 15.

How long halt ye between two opinions? if the Lord be God, follow him: but if Baal, then follow him, 1 Kings xviii. 21.

All nations before him are as nothing; and they are counted to him less than nothing, and vanity. To whom then will ye liken God? Isa. xl. 17, 18.

Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else, Isa. xlv. 22.

And the Father himself, which hath sent me, hath borne witness of me, John v. 37.

If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not. But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him, John x. 37, 38.

If we receive the witness of men, the witness of God is greater: for this is the witness of God, which he hath testified of his Son. He that believeth on the Son of God hath the witness in himself; he that believeth not God hath made him a liar; because he believeth not the record (witness) that God gave of his Son, 1 John v. 9, 10.

II.—WHAT AM I TO BELIEVE ?

God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life, John iii. 16.

He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life, John v. 24.

To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins, Acts x. 43.

Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house, Acts xvi. 31.

God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us, Rom. v. 8.

The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanse us from all sin, 1 John i. 7.

And this is the record [witness], that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God, hath not life, 1 John v. 11, 12.

III.—HOW AM I TO BELIEVE?

See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized? And Phillip said, If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, Acts viii. 36, 37.

To him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness, Rom. iv. 5.

Ye have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine which was delivered you, Rom. vi. 17.

If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved, Rom x. 9.

Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ, that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the law; for by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified, Gal. ii. 16.

By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God.—Eph. ii. 8.

Hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he hath given us.—1 John iii. 24.

IV.—WHY AM I TO BELIEVE?

He that believeth not shall be damned.—Mark xvi. 16.

He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.—John iii. 18.

He that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him.—John iii. 36.

This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom He hath sent.—John vi. 29.

The Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels, in flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ.—2 Thess. i. 7, 8.

This is his commandment, That we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ.—1 John iii. 23.

The fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death.—Rev. xxi. 8.

V.—WHEN AM I TO BELIEVE?

Come: for all things are now ready.—Luke xiv. 17.

Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.—2 Cor. vi. 2.

For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night.—1 Thess. v. 2.

Wherefore as the Holy Ghost saith, To-day if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts.—Heb. iii. 7, 8.

For yet a little while, and he that shall come will come, and will not tarry.

—Heb. x. 37.

Behold, the judge standeth before the door.—James v. 9.

He which testifieth these things saith, Surely I come quickly.—Rev. xxii. 20.

VI.—MAY I BELIEVE AS I AM?

Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.—Matt. xi. 28.

The Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.—Luke xix. 10.

Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out.—John vi. 37.

If any man thirst, let him come unto me, and drink.—John vii. 37.

Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth.—Rom. x. 4.

This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners: of whom I am chief.—1 Tim. i. 15.

Whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely.—Rev. xxii. 17.

VII.—CAN I BE SAVED WITHOUT BELIEVING?

Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.—Acts iv. 12.

Whosoever is not of faith is sin.—Rom. xiv. 23.

If righteousness come by the law, then Christ is dead in vain.—Gal. ii. 21.

If there had been a law given which could have given life, verily righteousness should have been by the law.—Gal. iii. 21.

How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation.—Heb. ii. 3.

But without faith it is impossible to please him.—Heb. xi. 6.

The time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God: and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God? And if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and sinner appear?—1 Peter iv. 17, 18.

TWELVE GREAT FACTS.

"Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away."—Matt. xxv. 35.

I.—MAN'S STATE BY NATURE.

God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually.—Gen. vi. 5.

Behold I was shapen in iniquity, and in sin did my mother conceive me.—Ps. li. 5.

The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it?—Jer. xvii. 9.

From within, out of the heart of men, proceed evil thoughts, adulteries, fornications, murders, thefts, covetousness, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, an evil eye, blasphemy, pride, foolishness.—Mark vii. 21, 22.

That which is born of the flesh is flesh.—John iii. 6.

The carnal mind [or rather, the mind of the flesh] is enmity against God: for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be.—Rom. viii. 7.

And you hath he quickened who were dead in trespasses and sins—and were by nature the children of wrath even as others.—Eph. ii. 1, 2.

II.—MAN'S STATE BY PRACTICE.

They are all gone aside, they are all together become filthy; there is none that doeth good, no, not one.—Ps. xiv. 3.

There is not a just man upon earth, that doeth good, and sinneth not.—Eccl. vii. 20.

We are all as an unclean thing, and all our righteousness are as filthy rags; and we all do fade as a leaf; and our iniquities, like the wind, have taken us away.—Isa. lxiv. 6.

There is none righteous, no, not one.—Rom. iii. 10.

There is no difference; for all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God.—Rom. iii. 22, 23.

By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned.—Rom. v. 12.

If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us;—if we say that we have not sinned, we make HIM a liar.—1 John i. 8, 10.

III. THERE MUST BE A CHANGE.

Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven.—Matt. xviii. 3.

Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.—Luke xiii. 3.

Except a man be born again [or from above], he can not see the kingdom of God.—John iii. 3.

The wages of sin is death.—Rom. vi. 23.

Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to do them.—Gal. iii. 10.

Sin when it is finished, bringeth forth death.—James i. 15.

He that committeth sin is of the devil.—1 John iii. 8.

IV. GOD'S THOUGHTS OF MAN.

As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live. Eze. xxxiii. 11.

God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John iii. 16.

God commendeth his love towards us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Rom. v. 8.

God our Saviour, who will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth. 1 Tim. ii. 3, 4.

The grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men. Titus ii. 11.

The Lord—is long-suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance. 2 Pet. iii. 9.

Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins. 1 John iv. 10.

V. CHRIST'S WORK FOR MAN.

He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. Isa. liii. 5.

The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many. Matt. xx. 28.

When we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly. Rom. v. 7.

Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures. 1 Cor. xv. 31.

He hath made HIM to be sin for us, who knew no sin: that we might be made the righteousness of God in him. 2 Cor. v. 21.

Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us. Gal. iii. 13.

Who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree. 1 Pet. ii. 24.

VI. VALUE OF CHRIST'S BLOOD.

When I see the blood, I will pass over you, and the plague shall not be upon you to destroy you. Ex. xii. 13.

It is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul. Lev. xvii. 11.

This is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins. Matt. xxvi. 28.

In whom we have redemption through his blood. Eph. i. 7.

Ye were not redeemed with corruptible things—but with the precious blood of Christ. 1 Pet. i. 18, 19.

The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin. 1 John i. 7.

Thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood. Rev. v. 9.

VII. CHRIST'S INVITATIONS TO SINNERS.

Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Matt. xi. 28.

Come, for all things are now ready. Luke xiv. 17.

All that the Father giveth me shall come to me : and him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out. John vi. 37.

If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink. John vii. 37.

I am the door : by me, if any man enter in, he shall be saved. John x. 9.

I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely. Rev. xxi. 6.

Whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely. Rev. xxii. 17.

VIII. WHAT CHRIST IS ABLE TO DO.

He is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him. Heb. vii. 25.

He is able to succor them that are tempted. Heb. ii. 18.

He is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day. 2 Tim. i. 12.

Being fully persuaded that, what he had promised, he was able also to perform. Rom. iv. 21.

He is able to make all grace abound toward you. 2 Cor. ix. 8.

He is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think. Eph. iii. 20.

He is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy. Jude 24.

IX. HOW TO BE SAVED.

He that believeth on him is not condemned. John iii. 18.

He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life. John iii. 36.

To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins. Acts x. 43.

By him all that believe are justified from all things. Acts xiii. 39.

Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved. Acts xvi. 31.

To him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness. Rom. iv. 5.

If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. Rom. x. 9.

X. HOW TO BE LOST FOREVER.

He that believeth not shall be damned. Mark xvi. 16.

He that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. John iii. 18.

He that believeth not the Son shall not see life ; but the wrath of God abideth on him. John iii. 36.

Ye will not come to me, that ye might have life. John v. 40.

If ye believe not that I AM, ye shall die in your sins. John viii. 14.

In flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ. 2 Thess. i. 8.

How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation. Heb. ii. 3.

XI. HOW WE MAY KNOW WE ARE SAVED.

He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, HATH everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation [judgment]; but is PASSED from death unto life. John v. 24.

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me HATH everlasting life. John vi. 47.

This is the will of him that sent me, that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life ; and I will raise him up at the last day. John vi. 40.

I give unto them eternal life ; and they shall never perish, neither shall any pluck them out of my hand. John x. 28.

Hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he hath given us. 1 John iii. 10.

And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. 1 John iv. 16.

These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life.—1 John v. 13.

XII. NO TIME TO BE LOST.

My Spirit shall not always strive with man. Gen. vi. 3.

Boast not thyself of to-morrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth. Prov. xxvii. 1.

If we tarry till the morning light, some mischief will come upon us. 2 Kings vii. 9.

Therefore be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of Man cometh. Matt. xxiv. 44.

Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation. 2 Cor. vi. 2.

As the Holy Ghost saith, To-day if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts. Heb. iii. 7, 8.

The time is at hand. Rev. xxii. 10.

BIBLE STUDIES FROM A SCRIP-TURE TEXT BOOK ON GOS-PEL WORK.*

I. THE WORK.

The work of the Christian in reaching and saving men, is, under the Holy Spirit, to make known to them the finished work that God has wrought in Christ for their salvation. The Scripture truth to be taught will be found in full in a companion pamphlet. The following outline, however, is given to show the general character of the work to be done.

The worker is to declare (1 Cor. ii. 1.)

The testimony of God.—That all the world is guilty before God. Rom. iii. 19.

That God is not willing that any should perish. 2 Pet. iii. 9.

That God so loved the world, that he gave his only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John iii. 16.

That Christ has borne our sins in his own body on the tree. 1 Pet. ii. 24.

That it is through him the forgiveness of sins is preached. Acts xiii. 38.

That God now commands all men everywhere to repent. Acts xvii. 30.

That the benefits of Christ's death are received through repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ.
 Acts xx. 21.

That, thus believing in Christ, the sinner is at once saved. Acts xvi. 31. John v.
 24.

* Gospel Work published by American Tract Society, and for sale at the Willard Tract Depository, Toronto.

II. THE WORKER.

The believer is the worker.—God's work in Christ comes first. The believer's work is in and from Him.

Separated before sent. John xvii, 16, 18.

Communion before testimony. John xv, 27. Acts iv, 13, 20. 1 John i, 1-3.

Loving Christ before teaching others. John xxi, 15-17.

Preaching is being a witness. Acts i, 8, 21, 22. Acts v, 32.

Saul believed, and "straightway he preached Christ". Acts ix, 20; John i, 41, 45; iv, 28, 29.

Ministry is received from the Lord Jesus. Acts xx, 24.

The method of the law—doing that one may live—fails. Zeal without knowledge sets aside God's work in Christ. Rom. x, 1-5.

The method of the gospel—life that one may do—puts Christ's work first, and is God's order. Rom. x, 6-17.

The Word of God. Believing with the heart. Confession with the mouth. 6-10 Hearing. Calling upon his name. Sent to preach. 11-17.

Gifts for service flow from being members in the body of Christ. Rom. xii, 3-8. Eph. iv, 7, 11, 12.

God pours from filled vessels. Rom. xv, 29; 2 Cor. iv, 7.

Receiving and knowing before speaking and teaching. 1 Cor. ii, 9-13.

God's co-workers. 1 Cor. iii, 5-9. 2 Cor. vi, 1.

Jesus Christ, the foundation. 1 Cor. iii, 10-11.

Our sufficiency is of God. 2 Cor. ii, 14-17; iii, 5-6.

Enlightened before giving light. 2 Cor. 4-6.

Believing and knowing, therefore speaking. 2 Cor. iv, 13-14.

Knowing our acceptance, therefore laboring to be acceptable. 2 Cor. v, 1, 5, 6, 9 (Eph. i, 6-7.) The Greek of verse 9 requires the rendering "acceptable" instead of "accepted".

Knowing the fear of the Lord, therefore persuading men, 2 Cor. v, 10, 11.

Love constraining, 2 Cor. v, 13-15.

Reconciled, therefore reconciling, 2 Cor. v, 18-20.

It pleased God to reveal his Son in me, that I might preach Him, Gal. i, 15, 16.

Faith works by love, Gal. v, 6; 1 Thess. i, 3.

A dead man's works are dead, Eph. ii, 1-3; Rom. vii, 5; viii, 5-8; Heb. vi, 1. Dead works need to be repented of, and the doer of them, Heb. ix, 14, to be purged by the blood of Christ.

God's work in Christ, quickening, saving, raising, seating in the heavenlies; or grace giving salvation apart from works, (Rom. iv, 4-8,) comes first. 1 John iv, 9, 10; Eph. ii, 4-9.

The good works, unto which the believer is created, (2 Cor. v, 17; Gal. vi, 15,) then follow. Rom. vii, 6; viii, 3, 4; 1 Thess. i, 19; ii, 13; Titus ii, 11-14; iii, 8; Heb. x, 19, 25; 1 John iv, 19, 20; v, 5. What God requires of the unbeliever is, to believe. John vi, 28, 29; 1 John iii, 23; Eph. ii, 10.

Sons of God shine as lights, holding forth the Word of Life, 1 Peter ii, 9-12; Phil. ii, 15, 16.

My fellow laborers, whose names are in the Book of Life. Phil. iv, 3.

Christ in the believer, as the hope of glory, is a power for service, 2 Thess. i, 11, 12; Col. i, 25-29.

"Gospel work," so called, which does not flow from love, out of a cleansed heart, a good conscience, and faith unfeigned, becomes vain jangling, and a teaching of the law, not according to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, 1 Tim. i, 5-11. The Greek word rendered "pure" in this passage, occurs Matt. v, 8; "clean," John xiii, 10; xv, 3; "purge," Heb. i, 3; ix, 14; "cleanseth," 1 John i, 7, 9, and elsewhere.

We labour because we trust, 1 Tim. iv, 10.

Unfeigned faith stirs up the gift of God in us, unto fearless testimony, 2 Tim. i. 5-8.

The saved man is the called man, ready to suffer in bearing witness, because he knows, 2 Tim. i. 9-12.

The testimony is committed to believers. 2 Tim. ii. 2.

The gospel is committed, by the commandment of our Saviour, to one who acknowledges the truth of God, who cannot lie. Titus i. 1-3.

Examples of faith working. Heb. xi.

Jesus the perfect example. Heb. xii. 1-3.

Works spring from faith, not from profession. James ii. 14-26.

Unto the wicked God saith, What hast thou to do, to declare my statutes, or that thou shouldest take my covenant in thy mouth? Psalm l. 16, 17.

Even a wolf will not preach except in sheep's clothing. Matt. vii. 15.

The unbelieving gospel worker, even if good should result, is a worker of iniquity. Matt. vii. 21-23.

EVERY BELIEVER.—In all these passages, believers, without distinction, are workers; and the inspiration of the work is the faith that is common to all. Hence every believer is expected to work. For further evidence and illustration consult.

To every man talents according to his several ability, but every man to trade. Matt. xxv. 15.

Each servant has a pound. Every believer has the gospel. Luke xix. 11-26.

All were filled with the Holy Spirit, and all spake. Acts iv. 31; Acts ii. 1-4.

Sons and daughters, young men and old men, servants and hand-maidens, all are so prophesy. Acts ii. 17, 18.

The church was scattered, but wherever there was a believer, there was a preacher of the Word. Acts xi. 19-21; Acts viii. 4.

A husband and wife expound to a preacher, eloquent and mighty in the Scriptures, (of the law,) the way of God more perfectly. Acts xviii. 26.

A pastor's helpers in Christ have their names recorded by the Holy Spirit. Rom. xvi. 1-15.

Silencing a gospel preacher makes many brethren preachers. Phil. i. 12-14.

Women are not excepted from evangelistic work. Phil. iv. 3; Rom. xvi. 1, 2, 3, 12.

An ignorant and unlearned man may speak what he has seen and heard with Jesus. Acts iv. 13, 20; Luke ix. 12-17; Acts iii. 6.

One less than the least of all saints may preach the unsearchable riches of Christ. Eph. iii. 8.

The chief of sinners may tell that faithful saying, which is worthy of all acceptance. 1 Tim. i. 15.

When the believer will not be expected to do gospel work. Heb. viii. 11.

THE COMMISSION.—That God has commissioned every believer to gospel work, is evident from the Scripture already adduced. For further teaching, examine the following references, and may the Holy Spirit use them to impress upon every Christian that he is personally called of God to the work.

Whosoever follows Jesus must become a fisher of men. Matt. iv. 18-22.

What is light for unless to shine? Cf. Luke viii. 16. Matt. v. 14-16.

Seeing the need and praying for workers, prepares one to answer, Lord, send me. Matt. ix. 37, 38 (connected with ch. 10).

As ye have received Christ Jesus, preach Him. Matt. x. 5-8; 1 Peter iv. 10, 11.

What we have heard in our hearts we must tell publicly. Matt. x. 27.

Does the man possess Christ who never speaks of Him? Matt. x. 32, 33; Cf. Mark viii. 38.

The calling of the church in the world, like that of her Lord, is not to be ministered unto, but to minister. Matt. xx. 25-28.

Son, go work to-day in my vineyard. Matt. xxi. 28.

Go ye into the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage. Matt. xxii. 1-10.

Servants are reckoned with according to faithfulness in the gospel committed to their trust. Matt. xxv. 19.

A saved man is not taken to be with Jesus, but is sent into the world with a message. Luke viii. 38, 39; Psal. lxvi. 16.

The most sacred duties of affection are no excuse from gospel work. Luke ix. 59, 60.

The departing Lord says to every servant, "Occupy till I come." Luke xix. 13.

On his return, he will ask how much every man has gained by trading. Luke xix. 15.

What would Jesus say to disciples who wanted to hold their peace? Luke xix. 37-40.

May the Lord now look (61) upon any Christian who, getting separated from Christ, (54) and failing to stand up for him, (55) comes at length to deny him. (57-60.) Luke xxii. 54-62.

The believer is a debtor to the unbeliever. He owes him the gospel. Rom. i. 13-15.

Believer, a necessity is laid upon thee; a dispensation is committed to thee; to fail is to bring loss upon thyself. 1 Cor. ix. 16, 17.

The church, whose home is with her Lord, is left on earth to testify to all men, everywhere, the gospel of his grace. This is our one work on earth. How sacred and imperative to every Christian these last words of our departing Lord. Matt. xxviii. 18-20; Mark xvi. 15; Luke xxiv. 46-51; John xv. 13-16, 26, 27; John xvii. 18; Acts i. 7-11.

III.—THE PREPARATION.

GENERAL QUALIFICATIONS.—THE spiritual preparation required for gospel work, whether by apostles, evangelists, pastors, and other church officers, or by the individual Christian, (2 Cor. vi. 1-13,) does not differ in character, only in degree. Therefore study minutely. Matt. x; 1 Timothy; Titus; Luke x; 2 Timothy; 1 Peter v. 1-11.

But above all, let each one continually study the gospel work of the Lord Jesus, our great example. To learn of Him is to be wise in winning souls.

SPECIAL QUALIFICATIONS.—All that goes to make up a fully developed Christian character, whether in knowledge, experience, or communion, will unquestionably add power to the gospel worker. The following particulars of inner equipment are therefore noted, not as being complete, but as being important, both to give direction to our prayers, and to open our hearts to the Spirit of God, by whom they are wrought.

ASSURANCE.—It must be remembered in this, and in all these special qualifications, that only those references will in general be given, which, directly or indirectly, show the relation of the qualification to success in Christian work. For example, to get the full teaching on assurance, one must search the New Testament with a Concordance under the words assurance, sure, hath, now, know, etc., and study such chapters as Eph. i; Col. i; Heb. x; 1 John v. 9-13. But in connection with our present study upon Gospel Work, it is enough to notice that, in all the passages referred to under the headings, the believer is the worker, and every believer is expected to work, the faith spoken of is evidently an assured faith, and to give here only such references as will show assurance to be important to the worker's highest success.

Luke x. 20; John iii. 11; see also iv. 42; Acts xxii. 14, 15; 1 Cor. i. 3-7; 1 Cor. ii. 12, 13; 2 Cor. iv. 13, 14; 2 Cor. v. 1, with 9, 10, 11; 2 Tim. i. 11, 12; 1 John iv. 13, 14.

LOVE.—1 Cor. xiii.; 1 Cor. xiv. 1; 1 Thess. iii. 12; 1 John iv. 7-16.

HUNGER FOR THE SALVATION OF SOULS.—John iii. 16; Matt. xxiii. 37;

Luke xix. 41, 42; Acts xx. 18-21, 26, 27; 32, 33; 1 Cor. xiv. 6-11; 23-25; Phil. i. 10, marg.; 2 Tim. ii. 15; Jude 20-23; Matt. v. 43-47.

TENDERNESS.—Ps. cxxvi. 5, 6; 2 Cor. ii. 4; Phil. iii. 18; Luke xiii. 34, 35; Luke xix. 41, 42; Acts xx. 19, 31; Matt. xii. 20.

BLAMELESSNESS.—Matt. vii. 3-5; Rom. ii. 17-24; Rom. xv. 14; Rom. xvi. 19; Eph. v. 11-18; Phil. ii. 15; Phil. iii. 17; Col. i. 9-11; 1 Thess. ii. 10; James iii. 10-13; 1 Pet. ii. 11, 12, 15.

CONSECRATION AND DEVOTEDNESS.—Luke v. 10, 11; John xxi. 18-22; Acts xx. 18-27; Rom. xii. 1, 2; 1 Cor. ii. 2; 1 Cor. ix. 23-27; 2 Cor. v. 13-15; Phil. i. 19-21; Phil. ii. 20, 21, (with Matt. vi. 24.); Col. i. 28, 29; Heb. xi. 24-27; Heb. xiii. 12-15; Exod. xxix. 1, 4-9, 19-22, 35; Lev. xiv. 1-20; Isa. lii. 11; 2 Tim. ii. 1-5, 19-22.

The worker cannot have power except as he is spiritually a Nazarite. 2 Cor. vi. 14; vii. 1; Acts xx. 18-24; Num. vi. 1-27; Judges xiii. 4, 5; Judges xvi. 17, 21.

GOD'S SUFFICIENCY.—The call of God to work, and the qualifications to which he calls his workers, makes one conscious of unfitness. But this God meets by the pledge of his sufficiency, which inspires and girds to service.

Moses, Exodus iii. iv. Gideon, Judges vi. 15, 16. Isaiah vi. 5, 8. Jeremiah i. 6-9. Paul, 1 Cor. xv. 9, 10; 2 Cor. ii. 14-17; 2 Cor. iii. 5, 6; 2 Cor. iv. 7; 2 Cor. xii. 9, 10. Every Christian, Phil. iv. 13, 19; 2 Cor. ix. 8.

IV.—THE POWER.

The worker can do nothing of himself. His power is entirely from the Spirit of God, given in answer to prayer, and in the use of God's Word.

(1.) POWER BY THE SPIRIT.—The general principle is stated Zech. iv. 6, "Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord." Compare for illustration the vision in Ezek. xxxvii. See also John i. 12, 13.

(2.) POWER BY THE WORD.—The word of God is the instrument, as the Spirit of God is the agent, in saving souls. The worker, therefore, needs to know God's description of His Word, and to realize that it is His instrument in all teaching, and that God will accordingly use the worker and clothe him with power in proportion as he brings His Word to bear directly on men's souls.

GOD'S DESCRIPTION OF HIS WORD.

GIVEN BY INSPIRATION.—2 Tim. iii. 16; Acts i. 16; Acts iv. 24, 25; Acts xxviii. 25; 1 Cor. ii. 4, 5, 9-13; Heb. i. 2; cf. xii. 25; Heb. ii. 1-4; Heb. iii. 7; Heb. ix. 7, 8; Heb. x. 15; 2 Peter i. 21.

THE ORACLES OF GOD.—Acts vii. 38. Rom. iii. 2; Heb. v. 12; 1 Peter iv. 11.

THE WORD OF GOD.—Prov. xxx. 5, 6; Isaiah xl. 8; Mark vii. 13; Luke iv. 4; Luke xi. 28; Acts iv. 31; Acts vi. 7; Acts xi. 1; Acts xii. 24; cf. xix. 20; Acts xiii. 44; 2 Peter iii. 2-10.

THE WORD OF THE LORD.—Jer. viii. 9; Acts viii. 25; Acts xiii. 46-49; Acts xvi. 32; 1 Thess. i. 8; 2 Thess. iii. 1.

THE WORD OF TRUTH.—2 Cor. vi. 7; Eph. i. 13; Col. i. 5; 2 Tim. ii. 15; James i. 18.

THE WORDS OF LIFE.—John vi. 63, 68; Acts v. 20; Phil. 2. 16.

The Word of His Grace. Acts xx. 32.

The Word of Faith. Rom. x. 8.

The Word of Reconciliation. 2 Cor. v. 19.

The Word of Christ. Col. iii. 16.

Settled in Heaven. Psalms cxix. 89.

Not yea and nay. 2 Cor. i. 19, 20.

A rock foundation. Matt. vii. 24.

Very pure. Psalm cxix. 140.

The seed sown. Luke viii. 11.

The incorruptible seed. 1 Peter i. 23.

It testifies of Christ. Luke xxiv. 27, 44; John v. 39; Acts x. 43.

It must be met in the Day of Judgment. John xii. 48; Rom. ii. 16.

It liveth and abideth for ever. "And this is the Word which by the gospel is preached." 1 Peter i. 23, 25.

KNOWLEDGE OF THE WORD.—To be in heart thoroughly acquainted with God's Word, is to be thoroughly furnished unto Gospel Work. 2 Tim. iii. 17.

God's Word needs no supplement. Deut. iv. 2; Deut. xii. 32; Prov. xxx. 5, 6.

Understanding God's precepts prepares one to speak. Psalm cxix. 27.

God's testimonies give more understanding than any human teaching. Psa. cxix. 97-100.

The Christian needs his lamp in gospel work. Psalm cxix. 105.

One full of God's word is not afraid, anywhere, to speak His testimonies. Psa. cxix. 46; Psa. cxix. 171, 172.

Out of the mouth of the Lord cometh wisdom and knowledge. Prov. ii. 1-6.

God's Word in the heart is a burning fire. Jer. xx. 9.

The difference God puts between those who speak out of their own hearts, and those who speak out of his Word. Jer. xxiii. 16-40.

To teach "views" of truth, instead of God's words, is irreverent to Christ. Mark vii. 9-13.

God's Word is written "that thou mightest know the certainty of those things wherein thou hast been instructed." Luke i. 3, 4.

Knowledge of the truth, which is essential to gospel work, is dependent on continuance in the Word. Cf. Exod. xvi. 12-21, and Deut. viii. 3; John viii. 31-32.

God's witnesses can speak only what they hear from Him, John xv. 4-8; John viii. 26, 28; John xii. 50; John xiv. 10, 24; John xvi. 13, 14.

To be a good servant of Jesus Christ, one must be nourished in the words of faith and good doctrine, 1 Tim. iv. 6.

He who would be wise to win souls (Prov. xi. 30) must attend to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine, and meditate upon these things, 1 Tim. iv. 13-16.

Those who teach anything else than the health-giving words of our Lord Jesus Christ, are utterly condemned, 1 Tim. vi. 3-5.

"Hold fast the form of sound words," Cf. 2 Thess. ii. 15; 2 Tim. i. 13.

By disuse of the Word, one becomes unskilful in it, remains a babe, and is unfit to teach others, Heb. v. 11-14.

From the Word, the worker can give a reason for the hope that is in him, 1 Pet. iii. 15.

He is strong, in whom the Word of God abideth, John xv. 7; 1 John ii. 14.

HOW TO USE THE WORD.—Read it distinctly, and give the sense, that all may understand, Neh. viii. 8.

Appeal to it, as the test of all teaching, Isa. viii. 20.

Lead the inquirer to search out the passages and read them, that he may know the truth for himself. Isa. xxxiv. 16; John v. 39; Acts xvii. 11. "He that hath my word, let him speak my word faithfully," Jer. xxiii. 28.

Matt. vii. 29; 1 Thess. ii. 13; Rom. iii. 3, 4.

Teach the way of God in truth, not regarding the person of men, Mark xii. 14. With boldness, Acts iv. 29.

With simplicity, as the testimony of God, not with enticing words of man's wisdom, 1 Cor. i. 17; 1 Cor. ii. 1, 4.

In godly sincerity and positiveness, 2 Cor. i. 12, 18-20.

As of God, in the sight of God, 2 Cor. f. 17.

Using great plainness of speech, 2 Cor. iii. 12.

Not handling the Word of God by "accommodation," but manifesting the truth. 2 Cor. iv. 2.

To give Christ himself, not human philosophy or tradition about him. Col. ii, 3, 4, 8. Cf. Titus i. 14.

Not striving about words to no profit. 2 Tim. ii. 14, 23, 24. Cf. Titus iii. 9.

Rightly dividing the word of truth. 2 Tim. ii. 15. Luke xii. 42, 43.

In meekness, that God may give repentance, to the acknowledging of the truth. 2 Tim. ii. 25.

With all long-suffering. 2 Tim. iv. 2.

OUR SAVIOUR'S USE OF THE WORD IN HIS MINISTRY.—It was his strength when tempted to swerve from his appointed path of service. Matt. iv. 4, 7, 10. Psal. xvii. 4.

He referred to it, as showing that the gospel was for sinners. Matt. ix. 13.

He appealed to it against tradition. Matt. xii. 3, 5, 7. Cf. Matt. xv. 3-9. John vii. 19-24.

By it he rebuked an itching for signs and a carelessness of truth. Matt. xii. 39-42.

By it he interpreted human nature. Matt. xiii. 14, 15.

From it he answered a question about divorce. Matt. xix. 4, 6.

He used it as a looking-glass, to show a man his own heart. Matt. xix. 17-22.

It was His authority when he rebuked bargaining in the house of God. Matt. xxi. 13.

He quoted it in defence of children who confessed him. Matt. xxi. 16.

From it he showed the judgment which would follow the rejection of his testimony. Matt. xxi. 42.

From the use of a tense in the Old Testament, he taught the resurrection. Matt. xxii. 29-32.

He used its types, as well as its statements of truth. Matt. xxiv. 37-39. Luke xvii. 29, 30; John iii. 14; John vi. 32, 51.

He used it, to show men their ignorance of the Old Testament, when they did not see Him in it, Mark xii. 35-37; Luke xxiv. 25-27; Luke xxiv. 44-46; John v. 39, 46.

He rightly divided. Luke iv. 17-20; Isaiah lxi. 2.

He noted the fulfilment of Scripture. John xv. 25; John xvii. 12.

So also did Matthew and John. Matt. i. 22; Matt. ii. 15, 17, 23; Matt. viii. 17; John xii. 38; John xix. 24, 36, 37.

So also did Peter. Acts ii. 16, 25. Stephen. Acts vii.

Philip. Acts viii. 35.

Paul. Acts xiii. 16-47.

James. Acts xv. 13-18.

Apollos. Acts xviii. 28.

The Epistles and the Revelation are full of the Old Testament; Hebrews is little more than an exposition of Leviticus; and the passages of the Old Testament quoted or alluded to in the New, number 825.

THE DIRECT TESTIMONY TO THE POWER OF THE WORD.—It converts the soul. Psalm xix. 7-11; Jer. xxiii. 22.

It makes clean. Psalm cxix. 9; John xiii. 8-10; John xv. 3; Eph. v. 26.

It quickens. Psalm cxix. 50, 93.

It enlightens and convinces of sin. Psalm cxix. 130; Prov. vi. 20-23; Hosea vi. 4-6; John iii. 19-21; Eph. v. 11-14.

It gives life. Isaiah lv. 2, 3; Matt. iv. 4; John v. 24; John vi. 63, 68; John xx. 31.

It accomplishes God's purpose. Isaiah lv. 11.

It is like a fire and a hammer. Jer. xxiii. 29.

It is stronger than if one rose from the dead. Luke xvi. 29-31.

It saves the soul. Acts xi. 14; Acts xiii. 26; Rom. i. 16; 1 Tim. iv. 16; 2 Tim. iii. 15; James i. 21.

It is able to build up. Acts xx. 32; Rom. xv. 4; 1 Cor. x. 11; 1 Peter ii. 2.

It produces conviction of sin. Rom. iii. 20; Rom. vii. 9-13; James ii. 9.

It produces faith. Rom. x. 17.

It produces joy and peace. Rom. xv. 13.

It is the power of God. 1 Cor. i. 17-25; 1 Cor. ii. 4, 5.

It is a savor of death unto death, or of life unto life. 2 Cor. ii. 16, 17.

It appeals to every man's conscience. 2 Cor. iv. 2.

It pulls down strongholds. 2 Cor. x. 4, 5.

Is a schoolmaster unto Christ. Gal. iii. 19-24.

It is the sword of the Spirit. Eph. vi. 17; Heb. iv. 12.

Stops the mouths of gainsayers. Titus i. 9-11.

It gives the new birth. James i. 18; 1 Peter i. 23.

It gives knowledge of the possession of eternal life. 1 John v. 9-13.

V.—THE INCENTIVES.

THE great incentives to Gospel Work are the facts that man is lost and that in Christ only is salvation. (See Text-Book of Gospel Truth.) These two underlie and enter into all other incentives.

THE SALVATION OF MEN.—God would not have them perish. John iii. 16; Ezek. xviii. 32; Ezek. xxxiii. 11.

How shall they hear without a preacher? Rom. x. 12-17.

Paul could not rest while men were perishing. 1 Cor. ix. 19-22.

God would have all men saved. 1 Tim. ii. 4; 2 Peter iii. 9.

CHRIST'S CONSTRAINING LOVE. 2 Cor. v. 14, 15.—Abiding in Christ's love, and obeying his commands, are inseparable. John xv. 9-14.

As we have received mercy, we faint not. 2 Cor. iv. 1.

Christ's love lives in our love for the lost, Gal. ii. 20.

We give ourselves as he hath given himself, Eph. v. 2; 1 John iii. 16.

We love, because he first loved us, 1 John iv. 7-16, 19.

THE REQUIREMENT TO BE FAITHFUL.—He who is unfaithful is guilty of the blood of souls, Acts xx. 26, 27.

Faithfulness is required in stewards, 1 Cor. iv. 1-5.

The ministry is to be fulfilled, Col. iv. 17.

Every man is to minister as he has received the gift, 1 Pet. iv. 10.

PLEASEING THE LORD.—Making the Father glad, Luke xv. 7, 10, 22-24.

Being wrought for resurrection, we labour to be acceptable, 2 Cor. v. 5-9.

Christ's servant seeks to please him, not men, Rom. xv. 1-3; 1 Cor. x. 33; Gal. i. 10; 1 Thess. ii. 4.

We are to walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, Col. i. 10.

A soldier must please him who hath chosen him, 2 Tim. ii. 4.

A workman must be approved, 2 Tim. ii. 15.

THE HONOUR OF BEING ASSOCIATED WITH CHRIST.—Christ and his messengers are one, John xiii. 20.

As friends, they know his plans, John xv. 15.

They are treated as he was, Matt. x. 25; John xv. 20.

They are sent as he was, John xvii. 18, 21.

He and the Spirit work in them, Rom. xv. 17-19; 1 Cor. ii. 4-13.

They are ambassadors for him, 2 Cor. v. 20.

They are encouraged by the joy set before them, even as he was, Heb. xii. 2-4.

THE PRESSING WORK AND LITTLE TIME.—The harvest is plenteous, and the labourers are few, Matt. ix. 37.

All nations are to be taught, Matt. xxviii. 19.

The gospel is to be preached to every creature, Mark xvi. 15.

The fields are white to harvest, John iv. 35-38.

The night cometh, when no man can work, John ix. 4; John xi. 9, 10.

It is high time to awake out of sleep, Rom. xiii. 11-14; 1 Peter iv. 7.

The time is short, 1 Cor. vii. 29-31.

THE SUCCESS PROMISED.—Nothing is impossible, even to little faith, Matt. xvii. 20, 21; Matt. xxi. 21, 22.

From henceforth thou shalt catch men, Luke v. 6-10; John xxi. 3-11.

Christ in the believer's work is greater than in his own, John xiv. 12, 13.

The weakness of God is stronger than men, 1 Cor. i. 17-28.

Labor is not in vain in the Lord, 1 Cor. i. 15-58.

We shall reap if we faint not, Gal. vi. 9.

Even adversities shall further the gospel, Phil. i. 12.

We may save those that hear us, 1 Tim. iv. 16.

He shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him, Psal. cxvi. 6.

THE CERTAIN AND PROPORTIONATE REWARD.—The least service shall in no wise lose its reward, Matt. x. 40-42; Matt. xvi. 27.

It shall be to every man, according as his work shall be, 1 Cor. iii. 8-14; Rev. xxii. 12.

Every one serving shall have praise of God, Cor. i. iv. 5.

Star differs from star in glory, 1 Cor. xv. 41.

Our works follow us, Rev. xiv. 13.

VARIOUS WARNINGS.—A servant who does not serve is classed with hypocrites, Matt. xxiv. 48-51; Matt. xxv. 24-30.

And with unbelievers, Luke xii. 46.

The greater the knowledge, the greater the responsibility, Luke xii. 47, 48.

The elder son is rebuked, Luke xv. 25-32.

Judging another and doing the same things, is inexcusable, Rom. ii. 1-16.

The name of God is blasphemed through those who, teaching others, do not teach themselves, Rom. ii. 17-24.

Destroy not him for whom Christ died, Rom. xiv. 10-23.

An open door—let no man take thy crown, Rev. iii. 8-11; 2 John viii.

PRESENT BLESSINGS IN SERVICE.—God's care and supply deliver from fear of want, Matt. vi. 25-34.

God's care and protection deliver from fear of man, Matt. x. 25-31.

Honor from the Father, John xii. 26.

An incorruptible crown, 1 Cor. ix. 25.

A crown of rejoicing, 1 Thess. ii. 19, 20.

A crown of righteousness, 2 Tim. iv. 5-8.

An unfading crown of glory, 1 Pet. v. 4.

REVERENCE AND GODLY FEAR.—The judgment-seat of Christ, 2 Cor. v. 10, 11; 2 Tim. iv. 1.

Our God is a consuming fire, Heb. xii. 28, 29.

Seeing all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of workers ought we to be! 2 Pet. iii. 10-15.

VI.—THE OPPORTUNITIES.

The whole of the Christian's life here, as contrasted with the life hereafter, is an opportunity to tell the gospel. And had we anointed eyes, and were we, as led by the Holy Spirit, on the watch for opportunities. we should see them every day, and many times a day.

SUGGESTIONS FROM THE OLD TESTAMENT.—God's words are to be in our mouths, at home and abroad, by night and by day. Deut. vi. 6-9.

The sound of a going in the mulberry trees is a signal to stir one's self. 2 Sam. v. 24.

One wise to discern opportunities makes a good soldier. 1 Chron. xii. 32.

A bow, drawn at a venture smote a king of Israel between the joints of his harness. 2 Chron. xviii. 33.

TEACHING IN THE NEW TESTAMENT.—Every man's necessity or distress is our opportunity to minister the gospel. Luke x. 29-37.

Our gospel opportunities are now, 2 Cor. i. 2.

As we have opportunity, let us do good unto all. Gal. vi. 10.

Buying up the time, (every opportunity). Eph. v. 16; Col. iv. 5, 6.

In season, out of season. In these passages, the words "opportunity" "time," and "season," are the same word in the original. 2 Tim. iv. 2.

Exhort one another daily, while it is called to-day. Heb. vi. 13.

JESUS, IN EVERY CIRCUMSTANCE, FOUND AN OPPORTUNITY.—When walking by the sea, Matt. iv. 18.

When teaching in the synagogue. Matt. iv. 23.

When multitudes were gathered. Matt. v. 1; Matt. xiii. 2.

When he was asked. Matt. viii. 2, 5.

Without being asked. Matt. viii. 14.

When men would have nothing to do with Him. Matt. viii. 29.

At a place of business. Matt. ix. 9.

When sitting at meat. Matt. ix. 10.

Even when considered unlawful. Matt. xii. 10-12.

When interrupted. Matt. xii. 46, 50.

When he went out, and when he came in. Matt. xiii. 1, 36.

In his own town, (Luke iv. 16) and away from home. Matt. xv. 21-28; Matt. xiii. 54-57.

When his privacy was invaded. Matt. xiv. 13.

When men tried to catch him in his talk. Matt. xvi. 1-12.

On the mount of vision. Matt. xvii. 1-13.

In the valley of human need. Matt. xvii. 14-20.

When the tax-gatherers came to him. Matt. xvii. 24-27.

Taking advantage of questions proposed to him. Matt. xviii. 1, 21; Matt. xix. 3, 16, 27.

When his enemies sought to entangle him. Matt. xxii. 15, 23, 35.

When a poor woman touched him in the press, on his way to a ruler's house. Mark v. 25-34; Cf. Matt. xx. 29-34.

When he overheard disciples disputing. Mark ix. 33.

As he sat over against the treasury. Mark xii. 41.

As a child among the teachers of the law. Luke ii. 46-49.

When he met a funeral procession. Luke vii. 12.

When his attention was called to the persecution of God's messenger. Luke vii. 24.

When a woman, who was a sinner, honored him in the presence of a rich Pharisee. Luke vii. 37.

When men in jeopardy awoke him. Luke viii. 23.

When men would learn of him how to pray. Luke xi. 1.

When a woman praised him. Luke xi. 27.

When men were shocked at his disregard of religious proprieties. Luke xi. 38.

When a lawyer (a teacher of the law—God's word.) winced at his testimony. Luke xi. 45.

When a man would use his influence to get property for himself. Luke xii. 13.

When told of a murder and an accident. Luke xiii. 1, 4.

When an abstract theological question was proposed, he made it the occasion of a personal admonition. Luke xiii. 23.

When men would stop his work by warning him of danger. Luke xiii. 31.

When men contended for social position. Luke xiv. 7.

When some one made a pious observation about heaven. Luke xiv. 15.

When Pharisees murmured at his receiving sinners. Luke xv. 2.

When covetous men derided him. Luke xvi. 14.

When he met self-satisfied religious people. Luke xviii. 9.

When his disciples would have kept back children. Luke xviii. 15.

When he met men by the way, he joined them that he might open to them the Scriptures. Luke xxiv. 13-32.

When men gave indication of interest. John i. 38.

When he attended a wedding. John ii. 2.

When one came to him secretly. John iii. 2.

When wearied he sat on the well. John iv. 6, 7.

When men followed him though it was only for loaves and fishes. John vi. 26.

When men were thirsty. John vii. 37.

To a blind man he showed the Son of God, as the light of the world. John ix. 5.

To the dead he preached Jesus and the resurrection. Cf. Acts viii. 35; xvii. 18; John xi. 1-45.

Jesus was never at a loss to introduce the gospel. He made whatever was before men's eyes serve as an opportunity; e. g. sowing, grinding, fishing, a shepherd and his sheep, a fig-tree, a vineyard, bread, a well of water, the birds, the flowers, the wind, the sun. In all this he is surely our example. Every life, however ordinary, will be full of testimony and blessing, if only we see that its familiar events are opportunities, and use them for the Master.

WHAT AND HOW TO PREACH.

MAN A SINNER.

Under condemnation awaiting penalty. Rom. i. ii. iii.

GOD'S REMEDY.

Christ crucified. 1 Cor. ii. 2; xv. 3; 1 Peter i. 19, 20; Rev. xiii. 8.

1. Christ crucified the fulfilment of the word. Gen. iii. 15, 21; iv. 4; viii. 20; xxii. 7, 8; xlii.; Ex. xii. 5-7. The tabernacle and its services explained by the cross: so the sacrifices and feasts of Leviticus: so the miracle of Num. xxi. so Elijah on Carmel. 1 Kings xviii: so prophecies. Isa. liii. The shadow of the cross reaches from Genesis to Revelation. We can take hold of almost any verse and lift up the cross from it.

2. In preaching the cross we show the nature of sin. Luke xx. 13-15; John xv. 24; xvi. 9; Acts iii. 14; Acts vii. 52.

3. Wrath of God against sin. Gal. iii. 13; 1 Peter ii. 24; iii. 18; Lev. xxvii. 29; Ps. xl. 12; xxii. 1; lxxxviii. 7, 14-16; Isa. liii. 4-6, 10.

4. God's love to the sinner. John iii. 16; Rom. v. 6-8; iv. 25; 1 John iii. 16; iv. 9, 10.

5. God just in justification of those deserving condemnation. Rom. iii. 24-26; Isa. liii. 6; John v. 24; 1 John i. 7; Rom. v. 1; vi. 6, 7, 22; Rom. viii. 1.

PREACH RESURRECTION.

The apostles preached it. Acts i. 22; ii. 24, 32; iii. 15, 26; iv. 10, 33; v. 30-32; vii. 55, 56; x. 40-43; xiii. 30-39; xvii. 31; xxvi. 8-22, 23.

DOCTRINES AND TRUTHS CONCERNING CHRIST PROVED BY IT.

1. Christ as Son of God. Rom. iv. 4; Heb. i. 5.

2. The promised seed of Abraham. Gal. iii. 16; Rom. ix. 7; Acts xiii. 32, 33.

3. The promised Son of David. Acts i. 32; xiii. 34.

Justification declared by it. Rom. iv. 24-25; v. 1; 1 Cor. xv. 17.

Eternal life is Christ's resurrection life in us, the new birth linked on to Him. John ii. 3-5; Rom. vi. 3-5; Rom. vi. 22, 23; Gal. ii. 20; Eph. i. 19-23; ii. 5, 6.

All the hopes of the believer centre in the coming resurrection of his own body, of which the resurrection of Christ's body is the promise and type. 1 Cor. xv.

20-23, 49-52; 1 Thess. iv. 14; Rom. viii. 11, 19-25.

HOW TO PREACH.

Read Luke viii. ix. x. Christ's instructions.

1. The preacher should be in conscious communion with God. Ps. li. 12, 13; Acts iv. 31; 2 Tim. i. 14; Acts vi. 4; 1 Cor. ii. 12, 13.

Peter was praying when he was sent to Cornelius. Paul was praying when the jailor came to him.

"Instant in prayer," should be our motto if we would have power.

2. Boldness in use of God's word. Confidence in our weapon. Rom. i. 15, 16; 1 Pet. iv. 11; Tit. ii. 15; Jer. i. 6-10; (study Jeremiah's experience all the way through upon this point). 1 Cor. ii. 3; 2 Cor. iv. 8-10; 2 Cor. vii. 4-6; 2 Cor. xii. 9, 10.

3. As witnesses,—not in worldly wisdom or argument. 1 Cor. i. 17-19; 1 Cor. ii. 4, 5; 2 Tim. ii. 23-25. Christ as witness. John iii. 11, 32, 33; so apostles, Acts x. 39, 41, 42; xxii. 14, 15; Acts xxvi. 22, 23; 2 Tim. ii. 1, 2; 1 Tim. iv. 12.

4. Dependence upon Holy Spirit, Luke xxi. 15; 1 Thess. i. 5; Acts v. 32.

5. With sense of responsibility to God, 1 Cor. iii. 9; Gal. i. 10; 1 Cor. iv. 3, 4; 1 Thess. ii. 4, 6.

6. Adaptation to men, 1 Cor. ix. 20-22; xiv. 18-20; 1 Cor. x. 32-33.

Keep in contact with men by engaging in personal work. The personal application of the gospel in contact with individuals should go hand-in-hand with preaching to audiences. In this way we keep in sympathy with men, know their needs and can adapt our public presentations of truth to them. Illustrations to make the gospel clear should be freely used, always making them the back-ground of the picture that shows "Jesus only."

7. In humility, 1 Cor. iv. 10-13; Acts xx. 19.

8. In sincerity, 2 Cor. iv. 1, 2; 2 Cor. ii. 17; 1 Thess. ii. 3, 5.

9. In love, 1 Cor. xiii. 1; 2 Cor. v. 20; 1 Thess. ii. 7-9.

10. With joy, Luke x. 17; Isa. lxiv. 5.

FRUIT BEARING.

(John xv. 8.)

Fruit of the old man. Rom. vi. 21; Rom. vii. 5.

Fruit of the new man. Rom. vi. 22; Rom. vii. 4; Gal. v. 22, 23.

"I BELIEVE IN GOD."

I.—I BELIEVE.

"I believe" is the one source of all spiritual knowledge, Heb. ii. 1.

"I believe" is the test of discipleship. It was the one requirement which Philip demanded of the Ethiopian, the one condition on which he was baptized, Acts viii. 37.

"I believe" is the spirit and the ground of all true worship, John ix. 38; compare John xx. 28.

"I believe" is the source of strength, the secret of obtaining Divine help, Mark x. 23, 24.

"I believe" brings hope and comfort to the troubled, John xi. 27.

"I believe" is the power of preaching and witnessing for Jesus, 2 Cor. iv. 13.

II.—IN GOD.

This must be the first article of our belief, Heb. xi. 6.

There is a witness in our hearts, a something within every man that testifies that God is.

There is a witness in nature. The design, harmony, and beauty which are so manifest in all created things, prove the existence of God, Acts xiv. 17. By these visible things, the invisible things of God, even His eternal power and Godhead, are clearly seen, Rom. i. 19, 20; Ps. xix. 1.

But, above all, it is by His Word that God hath fully revealed his character and will to all men. "In these last days" God hath spoken unto us by His Son, (Heb. i. 1,) who both declares the Father (John i. 18), and shows him unto us.—John xiv. 8, 9. The purpose of this revelation is that we may become wise unto salvation, (2 Tim. iii. 15); that we may know the only true God, which is life eternal, John xvii. 3.

Our word "God" means "good." We have the same word in the first syllable of "gospel," which means "good news."

To the Jews he especially revealed himself by his name Jehovah, which expresses the self-existence and unchangeableness of God. "He that was, and that is, and that shall be," the great "I AM" (Ex. iii. 14; vi. 3). Jesus claimed this divine name (John viii. 58). Compare Heb. xiii. 8; Rev. i. 4, 8; iv. 8; xi. 17. He is Jehovah-Jireh, Who provideth (Gen. xxii. 14); Jehovah-Rophi, Who healeth (Ex. xv. 26); Jehovah-Nissi, Who defendeth (Ex. xvii. 15); Jehovah-Shalom, Who giveth peace (Judges vi. 24); Jehovah-Tsidkenu, Who is our righteousness (Jer. xxiii. 6); Jehovah-Shafmah, Who dwelleth with us (Ezek. xlvi. 35); Immanuel, "God with us" (Matt. i. 23; Rev. xxi. 3; xxii. 3).

III.—I BELIEVE IN GOD.

That is, not, I believe that there is a God. This the devils believe (James ii. 19). Only fools deny it (Ps. xiv. 1). Nor is it merely I believe God. There may be intellectual belief in revelation, which leaves the heart untouched and the conscience unenlightened. But it is "I believe in God." Abraham "believed in the Lord" (Gen. xv. 6). And the very expressive Hebrew word literally implies, to be carried, sustained as a child in its mother's arms. Such is true faith, the clinging of the child in its helplessness and simplicity to the Love of the Father. We must thus become as little children (Matt. xviii. 3).

CHRIST FOR US, TO US, AND IN US.

There are three ways in which we are benefited by Christ; three bonds between us and Him.

1. He is for us. The Holy One bears the sins of the unholy; the Just One dies for the unjust. Thus the cross of Christ, or rather Christ upon the cross, is our peace. His body was broken for us.

2. He is given to us. He who gave Himself for us, gives Himself to us; and so He Himself and all that He is and has becomes ours. It is this gift of Himself to us that we are reminded of in the supper: "He took bread, and gave it, saying, Take, eat."

3. He dwells in us. He in us, and we in Him; He our temple, we His! "Christ in you the hope of Glory." "We will come unto him, and make our abode with him." (John xiv. 23.)

HOURLY THOUGHTS OF JESUS.

1. Jesus. Matt. i. 21.
 2. Our Lord. 2 Thess. ii. 16.
 3. Christ our life. Col. iii. 4.
 4. He is our Peace. Eph. ii. 14.
 5. Christ hath made us free. Gal. v. 1.
 6. For ye serve the Lord Christ. Col. iii. 24.
 7. Now ye are the body of Christ. 1 Cor. xii. 27.
 8. He was manifested to take away our sins. 1 John iii. 5.
 9. And your life is hid with Christ in God. Col. iii. 3.
 10. I live, yet not I, but Christ liveth in me. Gal. ii. 20.
 11. It pleased the Father that in Him should all fulness dwell. Col. i. 19.
 12. Christ, in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. Col. ii. 3.
- How precious also are Thy thoughts unto me, O God! How great is the sum of them. Psalm cxxxix. 17.

HIMSELF.

1. He saved others, HIMSELF he cannot save, (Matt. xxvii. 42.) Such was the aunt of the chief priests and scribes and elders when the Son of God was dying between two thieves, and without knowing it, they uttered a profound truth. Gal. iii. 21; John xii. 24; John
x. 18; Matt. xxvi. 53.

2. After these things Jesus showed HIMSELF again to the disciples at the sea of Tiberias. John xxi. 1.

3. To whom also he showed HIMSELF alive after his passion, by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom. Acts i. 3.

4. Beginning at Moses, and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning HIMSELF, and on the evening of the same day of His resurrection, He announced to the assembled disciples, "that all things must be fulfilled, which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the psalms, concerning ME." Luke xxiv. 27, 44.

5. Who gave HIMSELF for our sins, that He might deliver us from this present evil world. Gal. i. 4.

6. Who loved me, and gave HIMSELF for me. Gal. ii. 20.

7. When he had by HIMSELF purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high. Heb. i. 3.

THE BENEFITS OF CHRIST'S DEATH.

Heb. ii. 14 ; Heb. ix. 14 ; Heb. ix. 26 ; Gal. iii. 13 ; Rev. v. 9 ; Heb. ii. 17 ; Acts xiv. 39 ; 1 Cor. vi. 20 ; Rom. v. 19 ; Isa. liii. 6 ; Gal. v. 4-22 ; Rom. v. 11 ; 1 Pet. iii. 18 ; Luke xxii. 20 ; Titus ix. 29 ; 2 Cor. v. 18-21 ; 2 Tim. i. 10.

CHRIST FOR HIS OWN.

He gave Himself for their sins. Gal. i. 4.

He quickens them by His voice. Jno. v. 25.

He seals them by His Spirit. Eph. i. 13.

He feeds them with His flesh and blood. John vi. 56, 57.

He cleanses them by His word. John xiii. 5 Eph. v. 26.

He maintains them by His intercession. Rom. viii. 34 ; Heb. vii. 25 ; 1 Jno. ii. 1.

He takes them individually to Himself. Acts vii. 59 ; Phil. i. 23.

He watches over their ashes. John vi. 39, 40.

He will raise them by His power. John vi. 39, 40 ; 1 Cor. xv. 52 ; 1 Thes. iv. 16.

He will come to meet them in the air. 1 Thes. iv. 17.

He will conform them to His image. Phil. iii. 21 ; 1 John iii. 2.

He will associate them with Himself in His everlasting kingdom. John xiv. 3 ; xviii. 24.

Thus the activities of Christ on behalf of His people, take in, in their range, the past, the present, and the future. They stretch, like a golden line, from everlasting to everlasting. Well may it be said, "Happy is the people that is in such a case ; yea, happy is the people whose God is the Lord."

CHRIST OUR LIFE.

I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly. John x. 10.

I am the way, the truth and the life. John x. 6.

I am the resurrection and the life : he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. John xi. 25.

I give unto them eternal life ; and they shall never perish, neither shall any pluck them out of my hand. John x. 28.

Because I live, ye shall live also. Jno. xiv. 19.

I am crucified with Christ : nevertheless I live ; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me. Gal. ii. 20.

Ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God. Col. iii. 3.

When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory. Col. iii. 4.

JESUS THE LIGHT.

In Him was life, and the life was the light of men. John i. 4.

That was the true light which lighteth every man that cometh into the world. John i. 9.

I am the light of the world. John viii. 12.

Yet a little while is the light with you, &c. John xii. 35.

I am come a light into the world that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness. John xii. 46.

A light to lighten the Gentiles and the glory of my people Israel. Luke ii. 32.

There shall come a star out of Jacob, &c. Num. xxiv. 17.

I am the bright and morning star. Rev. xxii. 16.

The day-star shall arise in your hearts. 2 Peter. i. 19.

The day-spring from on high hath visited us. Luke i. 78.

But unto you which fear My name shall the sun of righteousness arise with healing in His wings. Mal. iv. 2.

The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light, &c. Isaiah ix. 2.

THEIR FACE SHONE.

Moses. Exodus xxxiv. 29, 35.

Stephen. Acts vi. 15.

Jesus. Matt. xvii. 2 ; Luke ix. 28 Rev. i. 16.

HIS PEOPLE.—LIGHTS.—(Lesser?)

Ye are the light of the world. Matt. v. 14, 16.

Take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place. 2 Peter i. 19.

Ye are all the children of light and the children of the day. 1 Thess. v. 5.

They shall be mine saith the Lord of Hosts in that day when I make up my jewels. Mal. iii. 17.

They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars for ever and ever. Dan. xii. 3.

. . . Among whom ye shine as lights in the world. Phil. ii. 15.

The path of the just is as the shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. Prov. iv. 18.

I will give thee . . . for a light of the Gentiles. Isa. xlii. 6.

CONFESSING CHRIST.

Mark viii. 38 ; Rom. x. 9, 10 ; Matt.
x. 32, 33 ; 1 Peter iii. 18.

A STUDY OF CHRIST AS THE MODEL TEACHER.

It is important to success in any enterprise that we should have the most perfect example in every particular as our model.

In the Bible we have a perfect model of a teacher placed before us. We direct your attention—

First, to the fact, Jesus did teach !
He gave an example. See John xiii. 13,
15. He is called "the Word," John i.
1, &c. ; and a word is a channel of communication of thought from one mind to another. John i. 18 ; "declared" the Father, Gen. xlix. 10 ; Deut. xviii. 15,
19 ; Psalm xl. 6, 10 ; Isa. lxi. 1, 3.
Applied by Jesus Himself, Luke iv. 16,
24.

Succession and contrast. Heb. i. 1, 2 ;
Repeatedly spoke of his mission thus,
John xviii. 37 ; Luke iv. 42, 43.

Why did Jesus teach ? 1. Work given him of God. Matt. xvii. 5 ; John v. 30 ;
John vii. 16, 18 ; John viii. 2, 6.

2. Because he loved it for the truth's sake and souls. Psalm x. 4-8 ; John iv.
31, 34 ; Mark vi. 34 ; Mark x. 21 ; Matt.
xxiii. 37.

Whom did he teach ? Generally his own people. Matt. xv. 24, 25, 28 ; Matt.
x. 5, 6 ; Matt. viii. 10, 13.

All whom he could reach. Matt. iv.
12, 23, 24, 25 ; Matt. xi. 1 ; Mark i. 33.

Where did he teach ? In the synagogue, sea-side, &c. John iii. 17 ; John
iv. 6, 19 ; Luke x. 38, 42 ; Luke xxiv.
13, 15.

Where greatest need—most teachable spirit. Matt. ix. 13 ; John xvi. 12.

Even his enemies. John ix. 39, 41.

What did he teach ? Moral and scriptural truths of the Old Testament. Mat.
xv. 2, 6 ; Matt. iv. 4, 7, 10 ; Matt. xii.
3, 5 ; Matt. xxii. 29, 32 ; Luke x. 25,
28 ; Matt. xxvi. 53, 56 ; Luke xxiv. 25,
27, 44, 48 ; Matt. xv. xxiii.

Taught of Himself. Matt. x. 27, 30; John iii. 14, 16; John v. 17, 29; John vi. 26, 40; John x. 1, 18; John xi. 25, 27; John xiv. 15, 16.

How? 1. After ample previous preparation? Luke ii. 40, 52. Lived and practised the truth thirty years. Luke iii. 23.

2. Out of a large human experience. Heb. iv. 14, 16; Heb. ii. 17, 18; Heb. v. 1, 2; Heb. x. 7, 9.

3. Fulness of Spirit. Isa. xli. 1, 3; Isa. xi. 1, 5; Luke i. 35. Luke iii. 21, 22; Luke iv. 1, 2, 14; John iii. 34; 1 Cor. ii. 4, 16.

4. Weight and certainty. Matt. v. 22, 28, 32, 34, 39; Matt. vii. 28, 29; John iii. 11, 13; John ix. 4, 5; 1 Cor. xiv. 37.

5. With all his might? John ix. 45; John xi. 8, 9; Matt. xiv. 13, 25.

5. With loving kindness. Isa. xl. 11; Psalm lxxii. 12, 14; Luke iv. 22; Mark x. 15, 16; Matt. xviii. 10, 14; Luke vii. 35, 60; John xi. 33, 36.

7. Fearless and faithful. Matt. xi. 20; Matt. xxiii. 13; Matt. xv. 7, 14.

8. It was steeped in prayer. Luke iv. 21, 22; Luke vi. 12, 13; Matt. xiv. 22, 23; Luke ix. 28; John xi. 41, 43; Luke xxii. 31, 32; Heb. v. 7, 8; John xvii. 12; John ix. 11, 17.

9. Plain and simple. Mat. xi. 26; Mark xii. 27; John vii. 14, 15; John iii. 12; John xvi. 12, 13; Matt. xvi. 6, 12.

10. Abounded with illustration. Matt. vi. 1, 4; Matt. v. 15; Matt. xvi. 18; Matt. xxvi. 30; Matt. vii. 24, 27; Matt. xiii. 1, 8.

11. Object lesson. Little child in midst of disciples. "Penny." "Seest thou this woman."

12. Employed questions. Addressed reason. Luke ii. 46, 49; Luke vi. 8, 9; Luke x. 25, 37; Matt. xxii. 15, 52.

13. Much repetition. Isa. xxviii. 9, 13; Matt. xiii. 51, 52; Matt. vi. 2, 15, 16; Matt. vii. 7; Mark ix. 43, 48.

14. Very flexible and various. John iv; Matt. xxii.

15. The word was accompanied with works of grace. Matt. iv. 23, 24; Matt. xi. 1, 6; Mark vi. 54, 56; Mark iii. 7, 10.

16. What followed his teaching?

1. Popular attention and interest. Mat. vii. 28, 29; Matt. xxi. 7, 11; Mark vi. 2; Mark xi. 18; Luke iv. 32; Luke xix. 47, 48; John vii. 11, 13, 45, 49.

2. Many souls won. John iv. 1; John i. 40, 41, 43, 49; John x. 25, 27; John xii. 10, 11; Matt. xvi. 13, 17.

3. Many hardened—Some "went back." Luke ii. 34, 35; Luke iv. 28, 29; Mark ii. 5, 6; John v. 16, 18; Luke vii. 11.

4. Noble band of helpers was raised up. Mat. x. 1; Luke vi. 12, 17; Luke x. 1, 2; Luke ix. 49, 50; Acts iv. 27, 33; Acts i. 4, 8.

5. Teaching with power. John xii. 23, 24; John iv. 10, 13, 14; John vii. 37, 39; John vi. 47, 51.

Rev. iii. 3; Luke xii. 45, 46.

Faithfulness.—Matt. xxv. 14-20; Matt.
xxiv. 48-51; Luke xix. 13-15.

Wakefulness.—Matt. xxv. 1-13; 1
Thess. i. 8.

Joy.—Acts i. 11. Compare with Luke xxiv. 52; Col. iii. 4; Phil. iv. 4, 5; 1
Pet. i. 7, 8; Rom. v. 2; viii. 24. The hope is in Christ's coming.

Patience.—Heb. x. 36, 37; 1 Cor. iv.
5; James v. 7, 8. In anticipation of trouble.—John xiv. 1-3. In actual trouble.—1 Thess. iv. 13-18.

MOTIVES ARISING FROM THE DOCTRINE.

For holiness of believers.—1 Thess. iii. 13; 1 Thess. v. 23; Titus ii. 11-15; 2 Peter iii. 11-13. For abiding in Christ.—1 John ii. 28. For perseverance.—Rev. iii. 11. For ministers preaching it.—1 Peter v. 2-4; 2 Tim. iv. 1-4; 1 Thess. ii. 19.

WARNING AGAINST APOSTASY.

Luke xvii. 24-37; 2 Thess. ii. 1-12; 1 Tim. iv. 1, 2; 2 Tim. iii. 1-5; 2 Peter iii. 1-4; 2 John i. 7.

AN APPEAL TO SINNERS.

2 Thess. i. 6-10; Acts iii. 19-21.

A PERSONAL, NOT A SPIRITUAL COMING.

Matt. x. 7; Matt. xiii. 11-52; Matt. xxiv. 30; xii. 44, 48; John xxi. 19-23; Luke xix. 11-15; John xiv. 1-3; Luke xii. 35-40

What the angels say.—Acts i. 9-11. What Peter by the Holy Ghost says.—Acts iii. 19-21. What Paul says by the Holy Ghost.—1 Cor. i. 7; 1 Thess. iv. 16. What Christ said to John. Rev. xxii. 7, 12, 20.

RELATION OF THE COMING TO ISRAEL,THE CHURCH, AND THE WORLD.

Israel (the Jews) to be restored to the Holy Land. The land promised unconditionally.—Gen. xiii. 14-17. Its boundaries not yet fully occupied.—Gen. xv. 17, 18. An everlasting possession.—Gen. xvii. 3-8; Deut. xi. 12; Lev. xxv. 23. An everlasting throne.—1 Chron. xvii. 4-17. WHAT IS A CHRISTIAN? (Acts xi. 26.)

The word rendered called in the text is found eight times elsewhere in the New Testament, Matt. ii. 12, 22; Luke ii. 26; Acts x. 22; Rom. vii. 3; Heb. viii. 5; xi. 7; xii. 25. This indicates the divine origin of the name. It is connected with the first missionary work of the Church. (The chapter following the text is a parenthesis). See Acts xxvi. 28; 1 Pet. iv. 16, ["on this behalf" should be "in this name;" Alford]; James ii. 7, [worthy, or beautiful]; Eph. iii. 15; 1 Cor. xii. 12, ["the Christ," like Gen. v. 2].

1. In faith he is a believer in Christ, John i. 11, 12; iii. 14-18, 36; iv. 13, 14; v. 21-25; vi. 28, 29, 40, 47, 50-54; vii. 37-39; viii. 24; ix. 35-39; x. 7-11; xi. 25, 26; xii. 24, 32, 44-48; Acts x. 36, 43; xiii. 39; xvi. 31; Rom. iv. 5, 16; v. 1; Gal. ii. 16; 1 John v. 10-13.
2. In relationship he is a child, John i. 13; iii. 3-7, connected with verse 16; Rom. viii. 3, connected with verses 14-17; Gal. iii. 26; iv. 1-7; 1 John v. 1; v. 17.

3. In character he is a saint. [The word means, "separate from common condition and use; dedicated,"] Acts ix. 13; xxvi. 10. Rom. i. 7; viii. 1, 27; 1 Cor. i. 2; vi. 11; Eph. iii. 8; Heb. ii. 11; x. 10, 14; xiii. 12; 1 Pet. i. 15; Lev. xi. 44, 45; xx. 24-26; Matt. v. 14-16.

4. In communion a friend, John xv. 15; xx. 17. Heb. ii. 11, 12; James ii. 23; Gen. xv. 6; xviii. 17, [communion is better than prayer]; 1 John i. 3. ["fellowship," the same as "partnership" in Luke v. 7, 10].

5. In conflict a soldier, 2 Tim. ii. 3; Matt. x. 24, 25, 32-42; John xiii. 16; xv. 18-20; xvi. 33; xvii. 4-8; 1 Cor. ix. 24-27; 2 Tim. iv. 7, 8.

6. In experience a pilgrim, Phil. iii. 20, 21. Heb. xi. 13; 1 Pet. ii. 11; Gal. vi. 14; 2 Cor. v. 1.

7. In expectation an heir, Rom. viii. 17, [joint-tenancy for eternity]; Gal. iii. 29; iv. 1-7; Tit. iii. 7; James ii. 5; Matt. xiii. 43; Rev. xx. 5, 6; xxi. 3, 4. To sinners, Rev. xxi. 6.

WHAT THE CHRISTIAN MAY BE. 2 Timothy ii.

1. A son in the faith, verse 1.
2. A teacher, verse 2.
3. A soldier, verse 3.
4. A labourer, verse 6.
5. A wrestler—striving not about words, but strive for mastery, ver. 14, 15.
6. A workman, verse 15.
7. A vessel, verse 21.

EXAMPLES.

1. Onesimus—A son, Philemon 10.

Eternally with Christ, 1 Thess. iv. 17.

THE CHRISTIAN'S THREE R'S.

A SPIRITUAL AND SCRIPTURAL GRAMMAR LESSON.

The great business of life, to a Christian, is, to know and declare the character of God.

To show how the Word may enable him to do this is the object of this

GRAMMAR LESSON.

God's name or character, as He was pleased to reveal it to Moses was "I am that I am."—Exodus iii. 14. Saying, in effect, whatever I am, that am I at this moment—now. Thus all God's "I am's" are true just now.

The lesson proposed is simply to connect a fragment of the verb "to be " with three aspects of Christian character.

Thus :

"I AM, } Teach us we { RECEIVERS.
THOU ART, } are to be { RESPONDERS.
HE IS." } towards God, { REPORTERS.

1. "I am," is God's frequent and varied revelation of Himself in Old or New Testament : for instance :—

I am the Lord thy God. Exodus xx. 2; Lev. xix.

I am the Lord that healeth thee. Exodus xv. 26.

I am the Lord which sanctify you. Lev. xx. 8.

I am thy salvation. Psalm xxxv. 3.

I am the Light of the world. John viii. 12; ix. 5.

I am the way, the truth, and the life. John xiv. 6.

These revelations we are to take in, in their simple and full meaning, adding nothing ; taking nothing away. This is the first lesson. When God says "I am," we are to be

RECEIVERS.

2. We may then answer, with our lips, to God's revelation of Himself : saying—

"Thou art," where He has said "I am."

This is simple faith, just to appropriate, or set our seal to, what God says, (Heb. xi. 6; John iii. 33), and not to make Him a liar (1 John v. 10) but to reply to his "I am,"

"THOU ART."

Thus:—Thou art the Lord my God.
Thou art the Lord that healeth me, etc., etc.

We are thus led to converse with the living God, and are

RESPONDERS.

3. There remains one other lesson, from

"HE IS"—

The duty of telling others what He is—what we find Him to be; this is "The fruit of lips confessing His name." Heb. xiii. 15, margin.

This is the duty of all who know Him; and thus, we are, to our God, witnesses—

REPORTERS.

Just as the moon tells, in the absence of the visible sun, that he is still existing and shining, so the Christian with open face (beholding as in a glass the glory of his Lord) gives out that light to others, even the light of the knowledge of the glory of God as seen in the face of Jesus Christ. 2 Cor. iii. 18; iv. 6.

Thou art my God, and I will praise thee.

Thou art my God, and I will exalt thee!

O give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good, for His mercy endureth for ever. Psalm cxviii. 28, 29

The exercise may be varied by taking the passages of Scripture where "I am," "Thou art," "He is," "God is," "The Lord is," etc., occur, and interchanging them. Thus each Scripture "Thou art" will afford us an "I am" of God; and thus the experience of all saints becomes to others so much blessed Revelation of God; and thus, also, becomes the property of all. Take for example "Thou art," in Neh. ix. or Psalm lxxxvi.

Another thought now suggests itself:—That each of us has a special manifestation in our lives of what God is which we alone can tell forth for His praise.

O Lord open Thou our lips; and our mouth shall show forth thy praise. G.S.

COMFORTS FOR THE CHRISTIAN TRAVELLER

Man's goings are of the Lord. Prov. xx. 24.

Thou, oh Lord, art a shield &c. Psal. iii. 3.

I am with thee. Gen. xxviii. 15.

I will never leave thee, &c. Heb. xiii. 5.

Be strong and of good courage, &c. Jos. i. 9.

Fear not, neither be faint hearted. Isa. vii. 4.

There shall no evil befall thee. Psal. xci. 10, 11

Thy shoes shall be as iron. Deut. xxxiii. 15.

The eternal God is thy refuge, &c. Deut. xxxiii. 27.

He shall cover thee with His feathers. Ps. xci. 4.

Fear not, I am thy shield. Gen. xv. 1.

THE CHRISTIAN'S HIDING PLACE.

1. Where and how to get hid. Psal. cxliii. 9.

WHAT WE HAVE BY BELIEVING IN CHRIST.

Eternal Life—I John v. 11 Forgiveness of sins—Eph. i. 7. Peace with God—Rom. v. 1. Made new creatures—2 Cor. v. 17. Partakers of the Divine Nature—2 Pet. i. 4. Children and heirs of God—Gal. iii. 26, and Gal. iv. 7 Our old man crucified with Christ—Rom. vi. 6 Made free from the power of sin—Rom. vi. 4, and Rom. vi. 22 Victory through Christ—I Cor. xv. 57 and I John v. 4. More than conquerors through Him—Rom. viii. 37. One with Christ—John xvii. 21, and Eph. v. 30. One with Christ in the Father's love—John xvii. 23. We have His joy—John xv. 11. His peace—John xv. 27 His glory—John xvii. 22. Complete in Him—Col. ii. 10. As He is, so are we in this world—I John iv. 17. All things are yours—I Cor. iii. 21, 22. He that spared not His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him, also, freely give us all things—Rom. viii. 32.

THE PORTRAIT OF A CHRISTIAN LADY.

DRAWN FROM THE WORD OF GOD.

She is one of the family whom Jesus loves—John xi. 5. She has had her heart "opened," like that of Lydia, "to attend"—to take heed—to the Lord's Word. Acts xvi. 14.

She has, through the Spirit, and by the Word, the same unfeigned faith which dwelt in Lois and Eunice—2 Tim. i. 5 wherebv, like Hannah, her heart rejoice in the Lord, because she rejoices in His salvation. 1 Sam. ii. 1; Isa. lxi. 10.

She sits at Jesus' feet, like Mary, to hear His word—Luke x. 39, and to have her understanding opened to understand the Scriptures, Luke xxiv. 45; and with "the other Mary," she keeps His sayings, and keeps also all that is said concerning Him, pondering it in her heart—Luke ii. 19, 51.

She desires, and seeks, like Anna, to serve the Lord with self-denial, both by night and day, Luke ii. 36, 37; aiming to be holy both in spirit and body. And she is ever ready to speak good of His name, to speak of Him to all that are looking for redemption through Him alone. Luke ii. 36, 37; 1 Cor. vii. 34.

She has a heart to labour for the Lord, like Tryphena and Tryphosa, Romans xvi. 12; and like "those women also laboured in the Gospel," and whose names are in the Book of Life. Phil. iv. 3.

She seeks out and ministers to the necessities of the Lord's people, especially of the fatherless and widows, as Dorcas did. Acts ix. 36-39; Jas. i. 27.

She bestows "much labour" upon them, as Mary did. Rom. xvi. 6.

She is "a succourer of many," and "a servant of the Church," like Phebe. Rom. xvi. 1, 2.

And thus, like Joanna and Susanna, who ministered to the Lord with their substance, she ministers to Him now in persons of His people. Luke viii. 3; Matt. xxv. 40. Such is she who is blessed among women because she hath believed! Luke i. 42-45. Such is she who "hath chosen the good part that shall not be taken away from her!" Luke x. 42.

A heavenly calling. Heb. iii. 1.
A holy calling. 1 Thes. iv. 7; 2 Tim. i. 9.

That worthy name by which ye are called. Acts xi. 26; James ii. 7.

Ye see your calling, brethren. 1 Cor. i. 26.

The prize of the high calling. Phil. iii. 14.

Faithful is He that calleth you. 1 Cor. i. 9; 1 Thes. v. 24.

Walk worthy of. Eph. iv. 1; Col. i. 10; 1 Pet. i. 15, 16; 2 Peter i. 10.

THE BELIEVER'S POSITION IN CHRIST.

As many as received Him to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name. John i. 12.

Now in Christ Jesus ye, who sometimes were far off, are made nigh by the blood of Christ. Eph. ii. 13.

Accepted in the Beloved. Eph. i. 6.
Ye are complete in Him. Col. ii. 10.

There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus.

Rom. viii. 1.

Heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ. Rom. viii. 17.

ABIDING.

Abide in Me, and I in you. John xv. 4.

If ye abide in Me and My words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you. John xv. 7.

If ye keep My commandments, ye shall abide in my love. John xv. 10.

He that abideth in Me, and keepeth His commandments, the same bringeth forth much fruit. John xv. 5.

He that loveth not his brother, abideth in death. 1 John iii. 14.

And he that keepeth His commandments dwelleth in Him, and He in him, and hereby we know that He abideth in us, by the Spirit which He hath given us. 1 John iii. 24.

Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son. 2 John ix.

THE BELIEVER'S WALK.

He that saith he abideth in Him ought himself also so to walk, even as He walked. 1 John ii. 6.

As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in Him. Col. ii. 6.

I therefore beseech you that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called, with all lowliness and meekness, with long suffering, forbearing one another in love. Eph. iv. 1, 2.

Walk in love. Eph. v. 2.

See that ye walk circumspectly. Eph. v. 15.

Walk in the Spirit and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh. Gal. v. 16.

SERVICE.

No servant can serve two masters. Luke xvi. 13.

The kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost. For he that in these things serveth Christ is acceptable to God, and approved of men. Rom. xiv. 17, 18.

By love serve one another. Gal. v. 13.

Not with eye service, as men pleasers, but as the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart. Eph. vi. 6.

PROMISES TO BELIEVERS.

Lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world. Matt. xxviii. 20.

Fear thou not, for I am with thee, be not dismayed for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee, yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness. Isaiah xli. 10.

He hath said, I will never leave thee nor forsake thee. Heb. xiii. 5.

God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work. 2 Cor. ix. 8.

Now the God of peace that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that Great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant, make you perfect in every good work to do His will, working in you that which is well-pleasing in His sight through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen. Heb. xiii. 20, 21.

THE STANDING AND DUTIES OF BELIEVERS.

1 Thes. v. 8.

1. They are children "of the day."—

(1) They walk in the light, vrs. 4—7. 1 John i. 6—8, as He is in the light, Eph. v. 1—15, avoiding thus the works of darkness, Eph. iv. 17—24, and following Him who is the world's only light, John viii. 12, and xii. 35, 36. (2) They wait for the day. Rom. xiii. 12—14; Heb. x. 25; Psalm xxx. 5; Mal. iv. 2; Psalm cxxx. 5, 6.

2. They stand prepared.—Be sober; or, as in verse 6. They watch and are sober, not sleeping as others do, vrs. 6, 7. Matt. xxv. 5; Eph. v. 14, not careless, 2 Peter iii. 4, but sober; 1 Cor. ix. 24—27; Eph. v. 18; and watchful, Mark xiii. 33—37, watchful against sin, 1 Peter iv. 1—5; v. 8; watching for His coming, Titus ii. 13, 14; 1 Thess. i. 10; 2 Thess. i. 10; iii. 5.

3. The power of their preparation, putting on the breast plate of faith and love, and for an helmet, the hope of salvation.—The breastplate, because we are still warring and need it; 1 Tim. vi. 12; 2 Cor. x. 4; of faith in His salvation, Isaiah i. 18; 1 Peter ii. 24; of faith in Himself, Isaiah xxvi. 3, 4; Col. i. 27, of love to Him, Rev. i. 4, 5; 1 Peter i. 8; of love to all for His sake, 2 Cor. v. 14, 15, and as our helmet the hope of salvation, Heb. vi. 18—20, sure and certain, for already within the veil, Rom. v. 5; John xvii. 24; 1 John iii. 2, 3.

THE MEASURE OF THE BELIEVER'S BLESSINGS.

"Not according to our works."

We have been predestinated according to the good pleasure of His will. Eph. i. 5.
Called according to His purpose. Rom. viii. 28.

Saved according to His mercy. Titus iii. 5.

Forgiven according to the riches of His grace. Eph. i. 7.

We are blessed according as He hath chosen us. Eph. i. 3, 4.

Strengthened according to His glorious power. Col. i. 11.

Supplied according to His riches in glory. Phil. iv. 19.

We shall be fashioned like unto His glorious body, according to the working whereby He is able even to subdue all things unto Himself. Phil. iii. 21.

THE BELIEVER'S LIFE IN ALL THINGS.

By Him all which believe are justified from all things. Acts xiii. 39.

PROMISES IN ALL THINGS.

All things whatsoever ye shall ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive. Matt. xxi. 22.

All things are possible to him that believeth. Mark ix. 23.

He that overcometh shall inherit all things. Rev. xxi. 7.

POSSESSIONS IN ALL THINGS.

His Divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness. 2 Peter i. 3.

All things are yours. 1 Cor. iii. 21.

The living God giveth us richly all things to enjoy. 1 Tim. vi. 17.

All things are for your sakes. 2 Cor. iv. 15.

God is able to make all grace abound toward you, that ye always having all sufficiency in all things may abound unto every good work. 2 Cor. ix. 8.

He that spared not His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all; how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things. Rom. viii. 32.

Even as the green herb have I given you all things. Gen. ix. 3.

God giveth to all, life and breath and all things. Acts xvii. 25.

TEACHING OF THE BELIEVER IN ALL THINGS.

Ye have an unction from the Holy One, and ye know all things. 1 John ii. 20.

We know that all things work together for good to them that love God. Rom. viii. 28.

The Holy Ghost. He shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance. John xiv. 26. (All things, limited by the words, whatsoever I have said unto you.)

The same anointing teacheth you of all things. 1 John ii. 27.

God hath revealed them unto us by His Spirit, for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God. 1 Cor. ii. 10.

In all things I am instructed both to be full and to be hungry... I can do all things through (in) Christ which strengtheneth me. Phil. iv. 12, 13.

The Lord give thee understanding in all things. 2 Tim. ii. 7.

They that seek the Lord understand all things. Prov. xxviii. 8.

EXHORTATIONS IN ALL THINGS.

Watch thou in all things. 2 Tim. iv. 5.

Do all things without murmurings and disputings. Phil. ii. 14.

But rather give alms of such things as ye have; and behold all things are clean unto you. Luke ii. 41.

Godliness is profitable unto all things. 1 Tim. iv. 8.

Let all things be done unto edifying. 1 Cor. xiv. 26.

Let all things be done decently and in order. 1 Cor. xiv. 40.

Giving thanks always for all things unto God....in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. Eph. v. 20.

Charity beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. 1 Cor. xiii. 7.

Above all things have fervent charity among yourselves. 1 Peter iv. 8.

That they may adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things. Tit. ii. 10.

Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you. Matt. xxviii. 20.

That God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever. Amen. 1 Peter iv. 11.

RICHES IN GLORY.

Believers in the Lord Jesus Christ have present joy and peace arising from a sense of forgiveness of sins. Even on earth they have sweet foretastes of the happiness of Heaven—precious earnest of treasures to be enjoyed hereafter. They may not possess much treasure on earth, but their riches as well as their relationships in Heaven are glorious beyond description.

The following are some of these inestimable blessings:—

They have a sure hope in Heaven. Heb. vi. 19; Col. i. 5.

A Saviour in Heaven. 1 Peter iii. 22; Phil. iii. 20.

Their life is in Heaven hidden with Christ in God. Col. iii. 1-3; Eph. ii. 6.

Their citizenship, and therefore their conversation, is in Heaven. Phil. iii. 20.

They have a great High Priest in Heaven. Heb. iv. 14.

And an incorruptible inheritance in Heaven, kept for them and they for it, verses 4 and 5. 1 Peter i. 4.

Their names are written in Heaven. Luke x. 20.

They lay up treasure in Heaven. Matt. vi. 20.

Their heart's affections are in Heaven. Matt. vi. 21; Col. iii. 2.

They have a Master in Heaven. Col. iv. 1.

Who will give a good reward in Heaven for service on earth. Matt. v. 12.

Chief of all, they have a Father in Heaven, who will soon welcome home the whole of His redeemed children. Matt. v. 16; John xx. 17; Rom. viii. 14-15.

Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen. Jude 24, 25.

THE LIFE OF THE BELIEVER.

Because I live, ye shall live also. John xiv. 19.

He that eateth Me, even he shall live by Me. John vi. 57.

I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me. Gal. ii. 20.

Called unto the fellowship of His Son Jesus Christ. 1 Cor. i. 9.

God . . . hath quickened us together with Christ. Eph. ii. 5.

We walk by faith, not by sight. 2 Cor. v. 7.

Ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God. Col. iii. 3.

He that believeth on Me hath everlasting life. John vi. 47.

If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit. Gal. v. 25.

Sorrowful, yet always rejoicing. 2 Cor. vi. 10.

Always bearing about in the body the dying of the Lord Jesus. 2 Cor. iv. 10.

For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain. Phil. i. 21.

To be spiritually minded is life and peace. Rom. viii. 6.

Our fellowship is with the Father and with His Son. 1 John i. 3.

If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself. Matt. xvi. 24.

Ye are complete in Him. Col. ii. 10.

We also should walk in newness of life. Rom. vi. 4.

I give unto them eternal life, and they shall never perish. John x. 28.

For we are made partakers of Christ. Heb. iii. 14.

Partakers of the divine nature. 2 Peter i. 4.

When I am weak, then am I strong. 2 Cor. xii. 10.

Alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord. Rom. vi. 11.

Risen with Christ, seek those things which are above. Col. ii. 3.

I will walk before the Lord in the land of the living. Psalm cxvi. 9.

Holy brethren, partakers of the heavenly calling. Heb. iii. 1.

God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation. 2 Thess. ii. 13.

Whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die. John xi. 26.

I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me. Gal. ii. 20.

None of us liveth to himself. Rom. xiv. 7.

Whether we live therefore, or die, we are the Lord's. Rom. xiv. 8.

ATTITUDES OF THE BELIEVER.

Leaning. John xiii. 23.

Lying down. Psalm xxiii. 2.

Sitting. Luke viii. 35; Deut. xxxiii. 3.

Standing. Eph. vi. 13; Phil. iv. 1.

Walking. Eph. ii. 10; Gal. v. 25.

Running. 1 Cor. ix. 24; Heb. xii. 1.

Mounting up. Isaiah xl. 31; 1 Thess. iv. 17.

THE BELIEVER'S CALLING.

It is a high calling. Phil. iii. 14.

It is a holy calling. 2 Tim. i. 9.

It is a heavenly calling. Heb. iii. 1.

It is God who hath called us. 2 Tim. i. 9.

It is not according to our works. 2 Tim. i. 9; Rom. viii. 28.

It is in and by Christ Jesus. Phil. iii. 14; 1 Pet. v. 10.

It is a calling independent of all worldly honor and distinctions. 1 Cor. xxvi. 3.

We are called to be saints. Rom. i. 7; 1 Cor. i. 2; 1 Thess. iv. 7.

We are called to follow Christ's steps. 1 Pet. ii. 21.

We are called to exhibit (now) all love, forgiveness, and Christian graces. Eph. iv. 1-3; 1 Peter iii. 8, 9.

We are called to liberty. Gal. v. 13.

We are called to glory and virtue. 2 Pet. i. 5.

We are called to be with Christ. Rev. xvii. 14.

We are called unto the fellowship of Jesus. 1 Cor. i. 9.

We are called unto God's marvellous light. 1 Peter ii. 9.

We are called to eternal life. 1 Tim. vi. 12.

We are called to an eternal inheritance. Heb. ix. 13.

We are called to the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ. 2 Thess. ii. 14; Rom. viii. 30.

God hath called us unto his kingdom and glory. 1 Thess. ii. 12; 1 Pet. v. 10.

The believer prays to be counted worthy of this calling; to realize his high calling. Eph. i. 18.

It sits before us a prize to press forward unto. Phil. iii. 14.

We should seek to walk worthy this calling wherewith we are called. Eph. iv. 1; 1 Thess. ii. 12.

We should give diligence to make our calling and election sure. 2 Pet. i. 11.

Faithful is He that calleth you who also will do it. 1 Thess. v. 24.

THE PAST AND PRESENT OF THE CHILDREN OF GOD.

(Eph. ii.)

1. Dead in trespasses and sins. Ver.

1. Dead to God—hears not God's voice, feels not His love, sees not his beauty. Psal. xxviii. 1; Psal. cxliii. 7; Isa. liii. 2, 3; Luke xv. 24, 32; Col. ii. 13.

2. Walking according to the course of this world. Ver. 2. The sinner, dead to God, is yet alive and full of activities, ever going about. Rom. iii. 12-16; x. 3; Gal. v. 19-21; 1 John ii. 15-17; v. 19; James iv. 1.

3. Walking according to the prince of the power of the air. Ver. 2. World and devil going same way (2 Cor. iv. 4; John xiv. 30; Luke iv. 5, 6.) until the fulfilment of Matt. vi. 10; Rev. xi. 15, 17; xii. 10; Micah iv. 8. Contrast last clause verse 2 (Eph. ii.) with Phil. ii. 13.

4. Among whom (i. e. children of disobedience) we all had our conversation in times past. Ver. 3. Fellowship with the children of disobedience a thing of the past to the children of God. 1 Peter iv. 2, 3; 2 Cor. vi. 14-18; Gal. i. 4.

5. In the lusts of our flesh. Ver. 3. A comparison of this with verse 2 shows that the world, the devil, and the flesh, are a threefold cord. See also why the Lord calls Peter "Satan." Matt. xvi. 23.

6. Fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind. Ver. 3. Sensuality and intellectuality may be simply on opposite sides of the broad road.

7. By nature the children of wrath, even as others. Ver. 3. Wrath is not only deserved, but inherited: the sinner's birthright. John iii. 36; Rom. v. 14, 19.

8. Wherefore remember, that ye being in time past Gentiles. Ver. 17. Gentilism a thing of the past. 1 Cor. x. 32; xii. 2; Col. iii. 11. Matt. xv. 26; Phil. iii. 2.

9. Uncircumcision. Ver. 11. Expressive of the unjudged condition of the natural man. 1 Sam. xvii. 26, 36. Col. ii. 11, 13; Ezek. xxxii. 21, 32.

10. Without Christ. Ver. 12. Isa. liii. 3; John i. 10; Luke xxiii. 18.

11. Aliens from the commonwealth of Israel. Ver. 12. No national blessing like Israel. Deut. xxxiii. 29; Ezek. xlii. 9; John x. 16.

12. Strangers from the covenants of promise. Ver. 12. No national promise like Israel. Rom. ix. 4, 8.

13. No hope. No national hope like Israel. Luke ii. 25; Acts xxviii. 20. Hope a bright and sure expectation.

14. Without God (ver. 12). A creature lost to its Creator, Psa. xiv. 1; Job. xxi. 14; Jude 13.

15. Afar off, (ver. 17), Luke xv. 20; Isa. vii. 19; Zech. ix. 10; Acts ii. 39.

16. Strangers and foreigners, (ver. 19), Isa. li. 1.

17. Loved in this condition with a great love, (ver. 4 and first clause of ver. 5), Ezek. xvi. 6; Luke xv. 20; Titus iii. 4; Rom. v. 8; John iii. 16; Rev. i. 5; "loved and washed," not "washed and loved."

18. Quickened, (ver. 5), Ezek. xvi. 6; xxxvii. 3-10; John v. 24, 25; xi. 25; Col. ii. 13.

19. Raised, (ver. 6), Col. ii. 12; iii. 1; 1 Sam. ii. 8.

20. Seated in heavenly places, (ver. 6), Eph. i. 20; 1 Cor. xv. 48.

SUGGESTIONS FOR YOUNG CHRISTIANS.

Whether therefore ye eat or drink, or whatever ye do, do all to the glory of God. 1 Cor. x. 31.

1. Never neglect daily private prayer; if possible have stated times for this exercise, and when you pray, remember that God is present, and that He hears your prayer. Heb. xi. 6.

2. Never neglect private Bible reading; and when you read, remember that God is speaking to you, and that you are to believe and act upon what He says. Backsliding generally begins with the neglect of private prayer and scripture reading. John v. 39.

3. Never let a day pass without trying to do something for Jesus. Every night reflect what Jesus has done for you, and then ask yourself, what am I doing for Him? Matt. vi. 13, 16.

4. If ever you are in doubt as to a thing being right or wrong, at once ask God's guidance and blessing.—Col. iii. 17. If you cannot do this, stand still.—Rom. xiv. 23.

5. Never take your Christianity from Christians or argue that because such and such people do so and so, that therefore you may.—2 Cor. x. 12. You should ask yourself, how would Christ act in my place? and strive to follow Him.—John x. 27.

6. Never believe what you feel if it contradicts God's word. Ask yourself, can what I feel be true, if God's word be true? and if both cannot be true, believe God and make your own heart a liar. Rom. iii. 4; 1 John v. 10, 11.

Remember the Saviour's words: herein is my Father glorified that ye bear much fruit, &c. John xv. 8.

Without Me ye can do nothing. John xv. 5.

SUGGESTIONS TO YOUNG CHRISTIANS.

You have accepted the Gospel of God concerning His Son, Jesus Christ, Rom. i. 1, as it has been preached to you in word and song, according to the Scriptures, that Christ died for your sins and lives in heaven for your justification; and with all your weakness and imperfections, you come to Him, and trust Him as your Saviour. Permit me to make the following suggestions as to the life in Christ that is before you :

1. The authority for your salvation is the word of God. The Holy Spirit bears witness to the word, not to our feelings. In proportion as you believe the promises, and are satisfied to rest upon them without reference to your feelings, will you have the witness of the Spirit. See 1 John v. 9-13; iv. 9, 10, 19; John v. 24; John i. 12; John iii. 14-18; Acts xiii. 38, 39; 2 Cor. v. 18-21; 1 Cor. xv. 1-4; Rom. v. 1-8; Rom. viii. 1; Rom. x. 8-10. All of these promises are for you. If you trust in them, God will keep His word, you will have the salvation. Let the experience of feeling come as God please.

2. Having accepted Christ, turn square away from every known sin, looking to Jesus for power to do so. Rom. xii. 1-3; 2 Cor. vii. 1; Gal. v. 13-16; Eph. iv. 1, 2, 22-32.

3. Let nothing separate you from the love of Christ—that is, from the believing that He loves you—that He has compassion upon your weakness, sympathy for your failings, and forgiveness for your sins under any and all circumstances. If you stumble and fall, if you are overcome, go to Him, confess, and He will forgive and restore you. As you confess, look away to the cross, and see that the sins confessed were put there, and have been atoned for, and you will go in peace, with grace in your heart to have less confidence in yourself, and more confidence in Christ to keep you in the future. John xiii. 1; Rom. viii. 31-39; 2 Cor. xii. 9; Heb. ii. 16-18; Heb. iv. 14-16; 1 John v. 8-10; 1 John v. 1.

4. Let no day pass without getting a portion of God's word into your heart ; don't make any rule that you will read so many chapters a day, but study the word; one verse in the heart, is better than twenty chapters carelessly read; and let no day pass without secret prayer. Cultivate the spirit of prayer; lift your heart silently to God during hours of business, in hours of leisure, upon the street, in wakeful hours of night, and busy hours by day—when tempted, when depressed, when joyful. God loves you; you have become reconciled to Him, your sins are all forgiven, and He loves to have you think of Him, and look to Him in all things. Phil. iv. 4-7; 2 Tim. iii. 14-17; 1 Peter ii. 1, 2; James i. 5; James iv. 6-8.

5. Neglect no known duty. Be prompt in obeying the leadings of the Holy Spirit. Do not trifle with convictions He may give you as you study God's word in regard to any command you find there that you should obey. If you resist doing His will, you will grieve Him, and your communion with Christ will be overclouded.

He commands us to confess Christ with our mouths and before men. Rom. x. 9; Matt. x. 32, 33.

He commands us to be baptised in His name. Mark xvi. 16; Acts xvi. 31, 33; Acts viii. 35-38; 1 Peter iii. 21, 22.

He commands us to identify ourselves with His church, and break bread and drink the wine in memory of His death, and to show our hope in His coming. Luke xxii. 17-20; Acts ii. 42, 46, 47; 1 Cor. xi. 23-26; 1 Cor. xii. 13; Heb. x. 25.

A saving faith in Christ will manifest itself in a readiness to obey these commands, and as God gives grace, all the injunctions of His word will become precious to you, and it will be your joy to walk in obedience to them, in the power of the new nature within you.

And now dear friend in Christ Jesus, may God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ our Saviour, fill you with all joy and peace in believing. We commend you unto God and the word of His grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified. D. W. WHITTLE.

Purged with blood; and without shedding of Blood is no remission. Heb. ix. 22.

VALUE AND EFFICACY OF THE BLOOD OF CHRIST.

The life of the flesh is in the blood; and I have given it to you upon the altar, to make an atonement for your souls: for it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the soul. Lev. xvii. 11.

Hence we have, through faith—

1. Redemption.—In whom we have redemption through His blood, even the forgiveness of sins. Col. i. 14.

Feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood. Acts xx. 28.

Thou wast slain and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood, out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation. Rev. v. 9.

Ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation, received by tradition from your fathers; but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot. 1 Pet. i. 18, 19.

2. Forgiveness of sins.—In whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins. Eph. i. 7.

This is my blood of the New Testament which is shed for many for the remission of sins. Matt. xxvi. 28.

Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation through faith in His blood, to declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past. Rom. iii. 25.

Without shedding of blood is no remission. Heb. ix. 22.

3. Justification.—Being now justified by His blood, we shall be saved from wrath through Him. Rom. v. 9.

4. Peace.—Having made peace through the blood of His cross. Col. i. 20.

5. Cleansing from sin, both as to the person and the conscience.—The blood of Jesus Christ, His Son, cleanseth us from all sin. 1 John i. 7.

How much shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered Himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God. Heb. ix. 14.

These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Rev. vii. 14.

Unto Him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in His own blood, and hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father: to Him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Rev. i. 5, 6.

6. Nearness to God.—Now, in Christ Jesus, ye who sometimes were far off, are made nigh by the blood of Christ. Eph. ii. 13.

Having therefore, brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus. Heb. x. 19.

7. Victory.—They overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony. Rev. xii. 11.

8. Eternal life.—Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you. Whoso eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood hath eternal life. John vi. 53, 54.

THE BLOOD OF CHRIST.

1. The blood of Christ brings every one who believes within the covenant of grace, ordered in all things and sure. Matt. xxiv. 28; Heb. xiii. 20, 21.

2. The blood of Christ is the purchase price which God has paid for the church. Acts xx. 28.

3. The blood of Christ constitutes the true and only ground of peace with God. Col. i. 20; Acts x. 36.

4. The blood of Christ brings those who were once at a great distance from God very near His heart and throne. Eph. ii. 13.

5. The blood of Christ secures our present redemption. Eph. i. 7; 1 Pet. i. 18, 19.

6. The blood of Christ is the propitiation for the believer. Rom. iii. 25. And the word here rendered propitiation is translated mercy-seat in Heb. ix. 5, the only other passage where it is used; so that Christ is the mercy seat, or place of friendly meeting between a believing sinner and a satisfied God.

7. The blood of Christ so thoroughly removes the guilt of the believer that there is not a spot or stain left upon him in God's view. 1 John i. 8.

8. The blood of Christ justifies all who trust in Him, and justifies them even amid the defilements of their nature and the evils by which they are surrounded. Rom. v. 8, 9.

9. The blood of Christ sanctifies us, or separates us from our old Adam condition and from the world and consecrates us to God. Heb. xiii. 12; Heb. x. 14.

10. The blood of Christ delivers us from the weight and condemnation of those works, which, however admired by the world, are "dead," because they do not spring from the life-giving principle of faith. Heb. ix. 13, 14.

11. The blood of Christ has bestowed upon us a fitness for heaven, and taken us out of the dominion of Satan, and placed us under the care of Him who is Head over all things. Col. i. 12-24.

12. The blood of Christ imparts eternal life and complete oneness with our risen Lord. John vi. 54-56.

13. The blood of Christ has gained us access into the presence of God with perfect confidence. Heb. x. 19-21.

14. The blood of Christ is the bond of union and communion among Christians of every name. 1 Cor. x. 16.

15. The blood of Christ, if accepted as God's own way of saving the sinner, is the evidence of eternal election. 1 Pet. i. 2.

16. The blood of Christ, if rejected, increases the guilt and deepens the doom of the unbeliever. Heb. x. 29.

17. The blood of Christ is one of God's witnesses on earth. 1 John iv. 8.

18. The blood of Christ has a voice, speaking forever in the Father's ear of justice vindicated, of law honored, of divine righteousness illustriously displayed; and speaking in the anxious sinner's ear the glad tidings of a free, certain, present salvation to him that believeth. Heb. xiii. 24.

19. The blood of Christ achieves the victory over Satan, the malignant accuser of the brethren. Rev. xii. 11.

20. The blood of Christ raises His people to the highest dignity, although burdened with the toils and harassed by the temptations of this life. Rev. i. 5, 6.

21. The blood of Christ is the joyful theme of the redeemed, inspiring their songs to the highest notes of praise.

Rev. v. 9, 10.

22. The blood of Christ washes the robes of the tried saints in the last days, and introduces them into heaven, to go out no more, and to suffer no more forever. Rev. vii. 14-17; 2 Cor. ix. 15.

In power. Eph. i. 20.

In rest. Eph. ii. 6.

In the heavenly manifestations. Eph. iii. 10.

In victory. Eph. vi. 12.

ASSOCIATION WITH CHRIST.

God is offering His Son to sinners. Richer, fuller, freer love He could not show. A gift more precious He could not bestow. I find no such thought in Scripture as "grasping the promises;" they are all yea and amen in Christ Jesus. Your eternal weal or woe, dear reader, hangs upon your rejection or reception of God's Son. God does not give promises to the sinner; but offers Christ. The saint gets all the promises. The sinner gets Christ, and he finds all the promises wrapped up in Him.

1. His Cross—Crucified with Christ. Gal. ii. 20.

2. His Death—Dead with Christ. Rom. vi. 8.

3. His Life—Quickened us together with Christ. Eph. ii. 5.

5. His Rising—If ye then be risen with Christ. Col. iii. 1.

6. His Position—As he is, so are we in this world. 1 John iv. 17.

7. His Acceptance—Accepted in the Beloved. Eph. i. 6.

8. His Peace—My peace I give unto you. John xiv. 27.

9. His Joy—My joy fulfilled in them. John xvii. 13.

10. His Love—The love wherewith thou hast loved Me may be in them. John xvii. 26.

11. His Glory—Glorified together. Rom. viii. 17.

12. His Rest—Entering into His (God's) rest. Heb. iv. 1.

13. His Throne—Sit with Me in My throne. Rev. iii. 21.

14. His Reign—We shall also reign with Him. 2 Tim. ii. 12.

15. His Patience—Thou hast kept the word of My patience. Rev. iii. 10.

16. His Power—To him will I give power, as I received of My Father. Rev. ii. 26, 27.

17. His Inheritance—In whom we also obtain an inheritance. Eph. i. 11.

18. His Heirship—Joint-heirs with Christ. Rom. viii. 17.

HOLINESS OR SANCTIFICATION.

I.—Sanctification as Act.

1. To make clean. See Old Testament, also Heb. xiii. 12 ; x. 29 ; x. 14 ; x. 10 ; ix. 13 ; ii. 11.
2. To set apart or consecrate to a divine purpose after purifying. See Old Testament, the case of priest and Levites, also 2 Tim. ii. 21 ; Eph. v. 26, 27 ; Titus ii. 14.
3. To set apart a common thing for the holy use of a holy one. 1 Tim. iv. 4, 5.
4. To devote a person already and intrinsically holy to a divine purpose. John x. 36 ; xvii. 17-19.
5. To consider and treat with the respect or veneration becoming a person or thing as holy. Matt. vi. 9 ; 1 Peter iii. 15 ; Ex. xx. 8 ; Deut. xxxii. 51.

II.—Sanctification or Holiness as a State or Condition of being, and as the permanent essential condition of the believer in the sight of God.

1. The believer in Christ unites in his permanent condition before God all the results of the sanctifying act of God ; he is a separated, cleansed, consecrated, unblemished one, without spot or wrinkle or any such thing, ever to be mentioned as holy and without blame in Christ.
2. Before God his changeless name is "saint;" see the greetings of the Epistles.

3. See Acts xx. 32 ; xxvi. 18.
4. See 1 Cor. i. 30 ; vi. 11 ; vi. 19 ; Eph. v. 27 ; 2 Tim. i. 9.

5. Holy brethren. Heb. iii. 1 ; John xvii.

6. Holiness is inseparable from "the new man."

III.—How is this State or Condition before God brought about by Him ?

By union with what is holy ; see the frequent "in Christ," "in Him." 1 Cor. i. 30 ; Eph. i. 4 ; Col. i. 22 ; and as illustrated by lesser facts in Matt. xxiii. 17-19 ; 1 Cor. vii. 14.

IV.—How is the believer to be or to become holy in actual experience.

1. The ground of such possibility lies in the new birth and in "the Spirit" as different from, and opposed to "the flesh." Rom. viii. 4 ; Gal. v. 16-18 ; 1 John ii. 29 ; iii. 9.

2. The permanent state of the believer before God in Christ must first of all be seen and owned by him ; and then the word to him is, "you are a saint, now be a saint," "you are a sanctified one, be sanctified," "you are unleavened, be unleavened ;" in brief, "be what you are," "do what you did once for all in becoming one with Christ."

For proof see 1 Cor. v. 7, 8 ; Col. iii. 1-5 ; 1 Peter i. 22, 23 ; 1 John iv. 17 ; Rom. vi. 19, 22 ; 2 Cor. vii. 1 ; 1 Thess. iii. 12, 13 ; iv. 3, 7 ; v. 23, 24 ; Heb. xii. 14 ; Rom. xii. 1 ; 1 Cor. iii. 17 ; Eph. iv. 24 ; Col. iii. 12 ; 1 Peter i. 15, 16 ; Jude 20 ; John xvii. 11. Holiness is both the condition and end of being.

3. The believer must ever as a person identify himself with "the Spirit" as the new nature, sphere, realm, to which he now belongs. Gal. v. 27 ; Col. iii. 7. He is in Christ and Christ is in him, the Spirit of God is with the spirit of the saintly child of God. Rom. viii. 9, 16 ; 1 Cor. vi. 17.

4. The agent of such practical holiness, whose spirit and fulfillment is love, is the Holy Spirit ; the means He uses the holy Word ; the instrument the faith of the saint; and prayer is inseparable from all.

(a). As agent, the Holy Spirit takes charge of the child of God for everything, from regeneration to glorification. Rom. viii. 14; Phil. i. 19; John iii. 5; 1 Cor. v. 11; 1 Peter i. 2; Titus iii. 5, 6; 2 Thess. ii. 13. "Another Comforter."

(b). He educates the believer especially in holiness. Phil. ii. 12; 2 Cor. iii. 18; Eph. iv. 30; as covering. Eph. iv. 17-32.

(c). The Holy Spirit uses the word, the truth, and in fullest personal form He uses the whole, Christ Jesus, the Word, all that is in Christ for the saint, from the cross to the throne. John xv. 26; xvi. 13, 14; xv. 3; Eph. v. 25, 26; 1 Peter i. 22; Rom. v. 5; 1 Cor. ii. 12, as related to 1 Cor. i. 30.

(d). And so specifically He uses for sanctification the facts and finished realities in Christ. He points faith to the blood and the glory. He makes the leading thought of every epistle a reason for holiness. Rom. xii. 1; Eph. v. 1, 1 Peter ii. 1-5, 9-11; Col. i. 9-11, as related to Col. i. 12-14; Gal. v. 22-23; 1 Cor. v. 7, 8; 1 Peter i. 22, 23.

(e). He enlightens for growth in grace the believer to see in Christ such realities as follows: Eph. i. 16-23, as related to Eph. i. 4-6; Eph. iii. 16-20, as related to 2 Cor. xii. 9; John xvii. 17-19, as related to John xvii. 14, 16, 26; also, 2 Cor. iii. 18; iv. 16-18; vii. 1; 1 Cor. vi. 19; 1 John iii. 13; Titus ii. 11-14. The result of all such action and beholding is holiness.

(f). Finally, all is related to humble, earnest prayer to God for such manifestation of the enlightening power of the Holy Spirit, who leads and keeps the believer in holiness. So Paul, inspired by the Holy Spirit to pray, hints to us evermore of the mind of the Spirit. Eph. i. 15-23; iii. 14-21; Phil. i. 3-6; 1 Thess. v. 23-25; John xv. 16; Heb. xiii. 20, 21.

V.—Lastly, present Attainments and Experiences of Holiness (and Love is the spirit and sum of Holiness. 1 Thess. iii. 12, 13), are never up to God's standard and measure for us as saints.

They shall be holy still. Rev. xxii. 11.

THE WAY OF HOLINESS.

BELIEVER, would you be "sanctified wholly?" Then ponder, deeply and prayerfully, exhortations in the sixth and following verses of 1 Thessalonians v., specially noting the force of the "and" in verse 23:—

1st—Let us not sleep as do others.

2nd—Let us watch.

3rd—Let us be sober.

4th—Let us put on the breast plate of faith and love.

5th—Let us put on an helmet, the hope of salvation.

6th—Let us exhort one another.

7th—Let us edify one another, even as also ye do.

8th—Let us know them which labour among us.

9th—Let us esteem them very highly in love for their work's sake.

10th—Let us be at peace among ourselves.

11th—Let us warn them that are unruly.

12th—Let us comfort the feeble-minded.

13th—Let us support the weak.

14th—Let us be patient towards all men.

15th—Let us see that none render evil for evil unto any.

16th—Let us ever follow that which is good among ourselves and to all.

17th—Let us rejoice evermore.

18th—Let us pray without ceasing.

19th—Let us in everything give thanks.

20th—Let us quench not the Spirit.

21st—Let us not despise prophesying.

22nd—Let us prove all things.

23rd—Let us hold fast that which is good.

24th—Let us abstain from every appearance of evil. And the very God of peace will sanctify us wholly.

Do you say, Who is sufficient for these things? I answer, God, our God; all our sufficiency is of God. Take from Him then, beloved, strength you have not. All He wants to use is our weakness, not our strength. Be strong in the Lord and in the power of His might. (Eph. vi. 10.) As you trusted Him for your eternal salvation, so trust Him with your present salvation, your salvation over sin. It is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of His good pleasure. (Phil. ii. 13.) Let holiness to the Lord be in the forefront of you always and everywhere. (Matt. v. 48; Rom. xii. 1; 1 Cor. iii. 17; Eph. i. 4; Col. i. 21, &c.; 2 Timothy i. 9; 1 Peter i. 13 to 16, and 2 Peter iii. 11, &c.)

Exhortation. 1 Thess. ii. 11, 12; 2 Peter i. 10, 11; Heb. xii. 28.

THE FELICITY OF HEAVEN.

Heaven is not all unknown: something is revealed. We can here only refer to, without stopping to explain, certain passages of Scripture which describe it, and give the substance of them. It will consist of the moral perfection of the soul.

Its perfect knowledge. 1 Cor. xiii. 12.

Its perfect holiness. Eph. v. 27.

Its perfect love. 1 John iv. 17.

Its perfect likeness to Christ. 1 John iii. 2.

The physical perfection of the body in incorruptibility, immortality, glory, and spirituality. 1 Cor. xv. 42-44.

The presence of God in the full manifestation of His glory. Rev. xxii. 4.

The beatific vision of Christ. John xvii. 24; 1 Thess. iv. 17, 18.

The society of angels and all the redeemed. Heb. xii. 22-24.

The joint worship of the heavenly hosts. Rev. iv. 5-11.

The perfect service of Christ without interruption, imperfection, or cessation. Rev. xxii. 3.

Complete freedom from pain, toil, hunger, thirst, anxiety, fear, sorrow, and death. Rev. vi. 15-17; xxi. 4.

Such are the substantial of heavenly felicity. Take any one of them by itself and each is heaven; and taking them all together, what a heaven—how pure, how elevated, how felicitous. To believe them is nearly all we can do, and wait for their meaning hereafter.

DAYS OF HEAVEN UPON THE EARTH.

(Deut. xi. 21.)

What the Christian's life now should be and may be.

1. We may here enjoy the certainty of the right of entrance into heaven. John iv. 24 ; Rev. xxii. 14. "Do His commandments" is, in the original, "have washed their robes."

2. "Believing on Him"—"our robes washed"—"we give thanks to the Father, who hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light." Col. i. 12, 13.

3. With Christ received, the Holy Spirit makes us "new creatures" in desires, hopes, and practice. 2 Cor. v. 17 ; Rev. xxi. 4. And we enjoy now what we look forward to above, all centered in the Lord Jesus Himself.

4. Then "the Lamb shall feed them." Rev. vii. 17 ; Ps. xxxvi. 8.

5. Now, "I am the Bread of life ; he that cometh to Me shall never hunger." John vi. 35 ; x. 9 ; Ps. xxiii. 2, 5.

6. Then "the Lamb shall lead them unto living fountains of waters." Rev. vii. 17 ; Ps. xxxvi. 8.

7. Now, "Whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst." John iv. 10, 14 ; Rev. xxi. 6.

9. Then, "we shall" join in the "new song" of redemption and cleansing. Rev. xiv. 3 ; v. 9.

8. Now we may begin that same "new song" of praise for present salvation. Ps. xl. 3 ; xcvi. 1, 2.

10. Then they "follow the Lamb whithersoever He goeth." Rev. xiv. 4.

11. Now, "Be ye followers of God, as dear children." "Follow thou Me." "Caleb followed Me fully." Eph. v. 1 ; John xxi. 22 ; Num. xiv. 24.

12. Then "His servants shall serve Him"—"day and night in His temple." Rev. xxii. 3 ; vii. 15.

13. Now, "the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart." "Ye serve the Lord Christ." Eph. vi. 6 ; Col. iii. 24 ; John xii. 26 ; Ps. cxxxiv. 1.

14. Then "His name shall be in their foreheads." Rev. xxii. 4.

15. Here "manifestly declared to be the epistle of Christ." "Called Christians." 2 Cor. iii. 3 ; Acts xi. 26 ; iv. 13.

16. Then "the Lamb is the Light thereof." Rev. xxi. 23.

17. Now "I am the Light of the world ; he that followeth Me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the Light of Life." John viii. 12 ; Eph. v. 8, 11.

18. Then "in Thy presence is fulness of joy." Ps. xvi. 11.

19. Now, "These things have I spoken unto you, that My joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full." John xv. 11 ; xvii. 13 ; 1 Thes. v. 16.

20. Then all enemies destroyed : perfect peace, for He is owned as "King of kings, and Lord of lords." Rev. xix. 6.

21. Now, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed in Thee." Isa. xxvi. 3 ; xlviii. 18 ; John xiv. 27.

22. Then "they . . . rest from their labours." "There remaineth a rest to the people of God." Rev. xiv. 13 ; Heb. iv. 9.

23. Now "we which have believed do enter into rest." Come unto Me, . . . and I will give you rest." Heb. iv. 3 ; Matt. xi. 28.

24. Then it is round Him—Jesus Himself—the grand ingathering is. The Lamb in the midst." Rev. vii. 9, 17 ; Gen. xlix. 10.

25. Now, it is in His Name we meet—His name our link—"Jesus in the midst." John xx. 19, 26 ; Matt. xviii. 20.

26. Then the central joy is, "they shall see His face." Rev. xxii. 4 ; Job xix. 26, 27.

27. Now "we see Jesus." "Looking unto Jesus." I have set the Lord always before me." Heb. ii. 9 ; xii. 2 ; Ps. xvi. 8.

28. Then the result of seeing Him is—"we shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is." 1 John iii. 2.

29. Now the result is the same—"we beholding, are changed into the same image." 2 Cor. iii. 18.

30. Then the crowning joy of all will be His eternal, unclouded presence. "God Himself shall be with them." "So shall we ever be with the Lord!" Rev. xxi. 3; 1 Thes. iv. 17; John xvii. 24.

31. Now we may enjoy and live in that same joy. "Lo I AM with you ALWAY." Matt. xxviii. 20; Heb. xiii. 5, 6.

"Thy will be done on earth, AS IT IS in Heaven!"

"Who is sufficient for these things?" "Our sufficiency is of God." 2 Cor. ii. 16; iii. 5. F.

PRAYER.

7. Deliver me from the body of this death. Rom. vii. 24.

JOY IN HIM.

Oh, there is so much said about joy, for God has given us such a portion in Himself as the heart cannot contain. Think of it—Himself, "a well of water springing up into everlasting life." Jno. iv. 14.

Let us see where joy is to be with us. The source is above—in the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost. It flows down and springs up in us first in our soul. "My soul shall be joyful in the Lord," Ps. xxxv. 9; and then it bursts forth in the heart: "My servant shall sing for joy of heart," Ps. lxxv. 14; then it flows out in praise, "My mouth shall praise thee with joyful lips" Ps. lxiii. 5; and the feet are strengthened and "leap for joy," Luke vi. 23; and "everlasting joy is on their heads," Isa. li. 11.

It does not cease because of earth's sorrows and troubles, for even "the widow's heart sings for joy." Job xxix. 13.

"They that sow in tears shall reap in joy," Ps. cxxvi. 5; and He gives them "the oil of joy for mourning," Isa. lxi. 3. He even "turns their mourning into joy," Jer. xxxi. 13. The Lord Jesus, "for the joy that was set before Him, endured the cross," Heb. xii; and therefore tells His disciples that "their sorrow shall be turned into joy," John xvi. 20. All this because our joy is to be in the Lord, and not in self, not in any other.

THE JOY OF THE LORD.

"My meditation of Him shall be sweet," such was my experience in meditating of "The Church" as an "occasion of joy to Christ."

1. Before the foundation of the world, when, as in the counsels of His own heart, He "found the treasure," and for joy thereof He went and sold all that He had and bought it, Matt. xiii. 45, 46.

2. When the world was made He rejoiced in "the habitable part of the earth; and His delights were with the sons of men." Prov. viii.

3. When He finds His lost sheep, He lays it on His shoulders rejoicing. "I have meat to eat that ye know not of." John iv. 32.

4. When He rejoices in the obedience of His children. "If thine heart be wise, my heart shall rejoice, even mine." Prov. xxiii. 15.

5. When He comes for us it will be with a shout of joy and victory.

6. When He presents us to the Father it will be with exceeding joy. Jude 24.

7. At the marriage supper. "Let us be glad and rejoice." Rev. xix. 7.

8. At the throne of glory. "With gladness and rejoicing shall they be brought ; they shall enter into the King's palace." Ps. xlv. 15.

And may we constantly remember that 'It was for the joy set before Him, He endured the cross, despising the shame, and is now set down at the right hand of the throne of God," Heb. xii. 2. And as we gaze on Him now "Crowned with glory and honour," may our gladsome hearts (made glad some by Himself) joyfully sing, "Worthy is the Lamb that was slain."

NOW !

There is a great deal more in the little word now than at first sight may appear.

It is of the very essence of the Gospel. How often have we pressed upon anxious enquirers that, now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation !

But the word now is of the very essence of all spiritual blessings.

Of justification : being now justified by His blood. Rom. v. 9.

Of assurance : now, says the apostle, are we the sons of God,—1 John iii. 2. Again, now are ye light in the Lord.—Eph. v. 8.

Of deliverance from the law : but now we are delivered from the law. Rom. vii. 6.

Of freedom from condemnation : there is therefore now no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus. Rom. viii. 1.

Of union to Christ : but now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off, are made nigh by the blood of Christ. Eph. ii. 13.

Of holiness : but now being made free from sin, ye have your fruit unto holiness. Rom. vi. 22.

Of the life of faith : the life which I now live in the flesh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave Himself for me. Gal. ii. 20.

Many other passages tell us plainly that our position and blessing and power are established and promised now. Let us then in faith cultivate the present use and enjoyment of our Christ, in whom we now possess all things. C. B.

NOW.

1. Come ; for all things are now ready. Luke xiv. 17.

2. The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God ; and they that hear shall live. John v. 25 ; John iii. 3 ; John iii. 30 ; 1 Tim. v. 6 ; Isaiah lv. 3.

3. But now the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the law and the prophets ; even the righteousness of God, which is by faith of Jesus Christ, unto all and upon all them that believe. Rom. iii. 21, 22 ; 1 Cor. i. 30.

4. Much more then, being now justified by His blood, we shall be saved from wrath through Him. Rom. v. 9 ; Acts iii 39.

5. There is, therefore, now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, Rom. viii. 1 ; and here the verse properly ends, as the clause, who walk not after the flesh but after the spirit, it is well known, is a human interpolation, appropriately belonging to the fourth verse, but marring the grandeur and simplicity of the first verse. If a man turns his eye in upon himself with the hope of finding some good to comfort his soul, he will only lift the wail of distress. Rom. vii. 24.

6. Behold, now is the accepted time ; behold, now is the day of salvation,—2 Cor. vi. 2. Or as Alford says it means, now is the very time of most favorable acceptance.

7. But now, in Christ Jesus, ye who sometimes were far off, are made nigh by the blood of Christ. Eph. ii. 13 ; Heb. ix. 24.

8. Beloved, now are we the sons of God ; and it doth not yet appear what we shall be : but we know that, when He shall appear, we shall be like Him ; for we shall see Him as He is. 1 John iii. 2 ; Gal. iii. 26. J. H. BROOKES.

NOW.

The now of Calvary. Heb. ix. 26.
The now of resurrection. 1 Cor. xv. 20.
The now of deliverance. Psalm xxvii. 6.
The now of salvation. 2 Cor. vi. 2.
The now of no condemnation. Rom. viii. 1.

The now of nearness. Eph. ii. 13.
The now of sonship. 1 John iii. 2.
The now of intercession. Heb. ix. 24.
The now of hope. Rom. xv. 13.
The now of peace. Rom. xv. 33.
Now unto Him that is able, to keep you from falling and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy.

JOB XIX. 8, 9, 10.

He hath fenced up my way. Shew me thy ways, O Lord. Ps. xxv. 4.

He hath set darkness in my paths. The paths of the Lord are mercy and truth. Ps. xxv. 10.

He hath stripped me of my glory. That we should be to the praise of His glory. Eph. i. 12.

And taken the crown from my head. On His head were many crowns. Rev. xix. 12.

He hath destroyed me. That the body of sin might be destroyed. Rom. vi. 6.

I am gone. Not I, but Christ liveth in me. Gal. ii. 20.

Mine hope hath He removed. Christ in you, the hope of glory. Col. i. 27.

According to your faith be it unto you.

Our God whom we serve is able to deliver us. Dan. iii. 17, 18; vi. 23.

2. We must realize our oneness with Christ.

All my springs are in Thee.—Psalm lxxvii. 7. We must abide in the Vine.

—John xv. 4, 5; Col. ii. 3, 9. We hold the Head that we may grow up into Him.—Col. ii. 19; Eph. iv. 15, 16.

3. We must seek strength by prayer.

They that wait upon the Lord will renew their strength.—Isaiah xl. 31; Psalm xxvii. 14.

Christ Himself sought strength by prayer.—Heb. v. 7. St. Luke tells us very much about the prayerfulness of our blessed Saviour.—Luke iii. 21; v. 16; vi. 12; ix. 18, 29; xi. 1; xxii. 32, 39-46. So He bade us ask.—Matt. vii. 7; James i. 5. Our God is faithful.—1 Cor. x. 12, 13; 2 Thess. iii. 3.

Only trust Him. Let our resolve be—I will go in the strength of the Lord God. I will make mention of Thy righteousness; even of Thine only.

ONE OR OTHER: WHICH?

Alienated from the life of God, Eph. vi. 18; or, Reconciled to God, Rom. v. 10.

Condemned already, John iii. 18; or, No condemnation, Rom. viii. 1.

Far off; or, Nigh by the blood of Christ, Eph. ii. 13.

Dead in sins, Eph. ii. 1; or, Quickened with Christ, Eph. ii. 5.

Sins red like crimson; or, White as snow, Isa. i. 18.

Without Christ, Eph. ii. 12; or, In Christ, Eph. ii. 13.

In the flesh; or, In the Spirit, Rom. viii. 9.

Without hope, Eph. ii. 12; or, The hope of glory, Col. i. 27.

THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving is the employment of those who are in the immediate presence of God. Rev. vii. 9-12. And therefore in giving thanks we approach their condition, as is indicated in Psalm cxi. 13. Thanklessness is the characteristic of sinful man, man gone away from God. Rom. i. 21. If our great English poet has expressed the truth with regard to thanklessness, and we think he has, in these words put into the mouth of King

Lear: "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is."

To have a thankless child—how bitter a thing sin must be to God since it bears this fruit in man. Thanklessness is the fruit of a sinful and depraved nature; thankfulness is the fruit of a regenerated heart. It flows naturally from it as light from the sun. And yet it is not left to our free action, it is enjoined upon us.

1. As a Duty. Ps. l. 14; 1 Thess. v. 18; Ephes. v. 20.

How solemnly it is urged, "This is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you." When? Always. In times of adversity as well as in times of prosperity. For what? Everything. All things. Examples. Paul in all his epistles. Job in his desolation. Job i. 20, 21. But the word does not rest in generalities, it descends to particulars, as; For Christ. 1 Cor. ix. 15. For saving grace. Col. i. 12. For peace of God in the heart. Col. iii. 15. In all speech and action. Col. iii. 17. For food. 1 Tim. iv. 4. Examples. Jesus. John vi. 11. Paul. Acts xxvii. 35. In worship. Ps. c. 4; Ps. cxxii. 4; Ps. xc. 2. Thanksgiving is the essence of worship. In the xcii. Ps., which is a song for the Sabbath, thanksgiving is the keynote. David (1 Chron. xvi. 41) and Hezekiah (2 Chron. xxxi. 2) Appointed priests and Levites whose special duty was to give thanks—to offer this spiritual sacrifice; now we are the priests who are to offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is the fruit of our lips giving thanks to his name. For victory over sin and death and the grave. 1 Cor. xv. 57.

2. What are the motives to Thanksgiving? These all spring from the character of God and his action toward us, as His goodness and mercy. Psalm cvi. 1. Psalm xxxvi. celebrates his mercy in every department of his great kingdom and providence. His holiness. Ps. xxx. 4. His power. Ps. lxxv. 1. His help. Ps. xlii. 5. His word. Psalm cxix. 62. Because it magnifies him. Ps. lxxix. 30. It dwells upon his grace, his love, his excellencies.

3. What are the Results of Thanksgiving? We may mention all in one, the glory of God fills the heart as it filled the Temple. 2 Chron. v. 13, 14. As Christians we ought earnestly to cultivate a spirit of thanksgiving, for it is one of the most beautiful and beneficial we can have. "Evermore thanks, the exchequer of the poor."

A STUDY.

CONTENTS OF CHAPTER I. MARK'S GOSPEL.

(The numbers give the verses.)

Three principal persons mentioned—

John the Baptist: (4) Preached repentance—(4) Baptized Jesus—(7) Pointed to Christ.

Jesus Christ: (9) Baptized by John—(13) Tempted of Satan—(35) Prayed to God.

Satan: (13) Tempted Jesus—(23, 32) Got possession of men—(25, 34, 39) Cast out by Jesus.

Three Titles given to Jesus—

By Mark: (1) Jesus Christ. By God: (17) My beloved Son. By Satan: (24) Holy One of God.

Three Miracles wrought by Jesus—

(23) On an unclean spirit—(30) Simon's wife's mother—(40) Leper.

Three Contrasts—

(8) Baptism of John—baptism of Jesus. (13) Satan tempts—angels minister. (23, 24) Unclean spirit of devil—Holy One of God.

Four Disciples—

Simon and Andrew, James and John: (16, 17) Called—(18, 20) Forsake all—(18, 20) Follow Jesus.

A remarkable result of disobedience—

Because the healed leper published his cure (when Jesus told him to "say nothing"—verse 44), Jesus "could no more openly enter into the city" (verse 45).

ISAIAH XXXV.

The word "shall" occurs twenty-two times in this short chapter of ten verses. And each time it prefaces a promise of comfort or joy to God's people who walk in the way of holiness.

The "shall" of blessing and comfort occurs nine times. Verses 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.

The "shall" of Deliverance occurs eight times. Verses 7, 8, 9, 10.

The "shall" of joy occurs five times. Verses 1, 2, 10.

There are thirty-five clear promises altogether in these ten verses for the welfare of God's wayfaring men.

THE BOOK OF LIFE.

(Dan. xii. 1.)

At that time my people shall be delivered, every one that shall be found written in the book.

Written in the book. Ex. xxxii. 32; Rev. xx. 12; Matt. iii. 16; Rev. iii. 5; xxi. 7; Isa. iv. 3; Luke x. 20; Phil. iv. 3; Heb. xii. 23; Psal. lxi. 8.

Contrast (not written.) Psal. lxix. 28; Rev. xiii. 8; xvii. 8; xx. 15. See also, Ezek. xiii. 9; Psal. cxxxix. 16; Num. xvi. 5; John x. 14; 2 Tim. ii. 19.

If our names be written then. Rom. viii. 16, 17; 2 Cor. i. 22.

HAPPINESS.

Whoso trusteth in the Lord happy is he. Prov. xvi. 20.

Happy is that people whose God is the Lord. Psal. cxliv. 15.

Blessed is every one that feareth the Lord, that walketh in His ways.....
Happy shalt thou be, and it shall be well with thee. Psal. cxviii. 1, 2.

 Grace. Heb. xii. 28. (margin.)

HARVEST.

- The believer's harvest time. John iv. 35, 36.
 The sinner's harvest time. Prov. x. 5.
 God's harvest time. Matt. xiii. 30.

JUSTIFICATION.

- We are justified judicially by God. Rom. viii. 31.
 We are justified meritoriously by Christ. Isa. liii. 11.
 We are justified medially by faith. Rom. v. 1.
 We are justified evidently by works. Jas. ii. 24.

HARVEST LESSONS.

"Who hath ears to hear let him hear."

Matt. xiii. 19.

1. Harvest time proclaims God's faithfulness. While the earth remaineth, seed-time and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease. Gen. viii. 22.

2. Harvest time tells of God's goodness. Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness; . . . the valleys are covered over with corn; they shout for joy, they also sing. Psal. lxxv. 11, 13.

3. Harvest time is a time for prayer and work. The harvest truly is plenteous but the labourers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into His harvest. Matt. ix. 37, 38.

4. Harvest time is a time of joy. They joy before Thee according to the joy in harvest, Isa. ix. 3. He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him. Psalm cxxvi. 6.

5. Harvest time is a testing time. Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them; but gather the wheat into My barn. Matt. xiii. 20.

6. Harvest time is connected with seed time. Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap. He that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting. Gal. vi. 7, 8.

7. Harvest time speaks loudly to the unsaved. The harvest is past, the summer is ended and we are not saved. Jer. viii. 30.

"O that men would praise the Lord for His goodness, and for His wonderful works to the children of men." Psalm cvii. 8.

THE HOPE OF THE GOSPEL.

What is our hope? 1 Thess. ii. 19.

1. Hope is the desire for and expectation of future good. Jer. xvii. 7. Hence,

2. The sources of hope are:—1. Christ and His resurrection.—1 Peter i. 3. 2. The gospel truth.—Col. i. 5; and 3. The entire revelation contained in the Holy Scriptures.—Rom. xv. 4.

3. The value of hope. Col. i. 22, 23; Rom. viii. 24; 1 Thess. v. 8.

4. Only believers have hope. Men without God have no hope. Eph. ii. 12; 1 Thess. iv. 13; Job xi. 20.

5. The pious are now prisoners of hope. Zech. ix. 12; Rom. viii. 24.

6. Hope is to be waited for. Rom. viii. 25; 1 Thess. i. 3.

7. The use to be made of hope. 1. We must not be ashamed of our hope.—Psalm cxix. 116; Rom. v. 5. 2. We are to defend it and be ready to give a reason for it.—1 Peter iii. 15. 3. We should so walk in the Spirit that hope may abound in us.—Rom. xv. 13. 4. We should thus cultivate hope as one of the three sister graces.—1 Cor. xiii. 13. 5. It should impart holy boldness.—2 Cor. iii. 12. 6. We should hope to the end.—1 Peter i. 13.

8. The pious dead rest in hope. Prov. xiv. 32; Acts ii. 26; Acts xxiii. 6-8.

9. There is hope for the little ones. Jer. xxxi. 17.

10. The objects of hope. These are all the good, the glory, the joy, the happiness of the eternal kingdom. Paradise, access to the tree of life, honors, crowns, white robes, thrones, equality with angels, society of the redeemed, and more than has entered into the heart of man, are reserved for those who love God. 1 Cor. ii. 9.

11. There is for all men only one hope. Eph. iv. 4; 1 Peter i. 21; Psalm xlii. 5; Col. i. 5; Acts iv. 12.

It is good that a man should hope.—Lam. iii. 26; Psalm cxxx. 7; Titus ii. 13.

WHY SHOULD WE LOVE JESUS?

To this question believers may reply—because

He is God's beloved Son, in whom His soul delighteth. Matt. iii. 17; Isa. xlii. 1.

He is full of grace and truth;—the brightness of God's glory, and the express image of His person. John i. 14; Heb. i. 3.

He is the chiefest among ten thousand, and altogether lovely. Cant. v. 10, 16.

He is fairer than the children of men; grace is poured into his lips. Ps. xlv. 2.

And because—

He first loved us. 1 John iv. 19.

He laid down His life for His sheep. John x. 15.

He died for us while yet sinners. Rom. v. 8.

He suffered the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God. 1 Peter iii. 18.

He made peace through the blood of His cross. Col. i. 20.

He gave Himself for our sins. Gal. i. 4.

He redeemed us to God by His blood. Rev. v. 9.

He hath loved us, and hath given Himself for us. Eph. v. 2.

He quickened us when we were dead in trespasses and sins. John v. 25; Eph. ii. 1.

He has given unto us eternal life. John x. 28.

He has redeemed us from the curse of the law. Gal. iii. 13.

He has delivered us from condemnation. Rom. viii. 1.

He has justified us by His blood. Rom. v. 9.

"AND POUR CONTEMPT ON ALL MY PRIDE."

The life and death of our Lord Jesus Christ are a standing rebuke to every form of pride to which men are liable. Take for instance:

Pride of birth and rank. Matt. xiii. 55.

Pride of wealth. Matt. viii. 20.

Pride of respectability. John i. 46; Matt. ii. 23.

Pride of personal appearance. Isaiah liii. 2.

WALKING WITH GOD—COMPANIONSHIP IN THE WALK.

1. Illustrations: Adam, Gen. iii. 8. Enoch, Gen. v. 22-24. Noah, Gen. vi. 9. Must of necessity agree with each other. Amos iii. 3.

WHERE THEY WALK.

Not in the counsel of the ungodly. Ps. i. 1. Not after the flesh. 2 Cor. x. 2. Not according to the course of this world. Eph. ii. 2.

They walked on earth, but always away from the world. Noah from the flood; Abraham from Mesopotamia and Sodom; Moses from the throne of Egypt, Heb. xi. 24-26; Israel from Egypt and through the wilderness, Ex. xiv. 29; Deut. ii. 7; Job through darkness, Job xxix. 3; David in midst of trouble, Ps. cxxxviii. 7; Isaiah through fire and water, Isa. xliii. 2; Daniel in and out of the den, Dan. vi. 22; Peter on the water, Matt. xiv. 29; Apostles in and out of prison, Acts iv. 16; John on Patmos, Rev. i. 22.

3. HOW THEY WALK.

In the light, Ex. xliii. 21, John viii. 12. In safety and on dry land, Ex. xiv. 22; Josh. iii. 17. At liberty. Ps. cxix. 45; Dan. iii. 25. Humbly, Mic. vi. 8. In peace, Mal. ii. 6. By faith, 2 Cor. 7.

4. WHO WALK.

The redeemed, Isa. xxxv. 9. The lame, Matt. xi. 5. The saved, Rev. xxi. 24.

5. THE END OF THE WALK.

Through the valley, Ps. xxiii. 4. In white (washed), Rev. iii. 4. In the light of the city, Rev. xxi. 24.

THE LORD JESUS.

1. The Lord Jesus as He was promised to our first parents. The seed who should bruise the head of the serpent, be their deliverer. Gen. iii. 15; iv. 1.

2. The Lord Jesus as He was promised to Abraham. The seed in whom all the families of the earth should be blessed. Gen. xii. 1-3; xxi. 15-18; John viii. 56; Gal. iii. 16.

3. The Lord Jesus was to Jacob the angel which redeemed him from all evil. Gen. xlviii. 15, 16. And the *Shilo*h which should come, unto whom the gathering of the people should be. Gen. xlix. 10.

4. To Moses Jesus was the angel of the Lord's presence, his leader and guide. Ex. xliii. 21, 22; xiv. 24, 25; Num. ix. 15-23; x. 33, 34; Deut. i. 33; Ps. lxxviii. 14; Ex. xxxiii. 13-15; xxi. 20, 21, 23; Isa. lxiii. 9; lv. 4. Is so still. John x. 2, 3, 4.

5. Jesus as Captain of the Lord's host. Josh. v. 13-15; Isa. lv. 4; Heb. ii. 10, 2 Tim. ii. 3. The drawn sword—no hesitation in the conflict, and no quarter to the enemy. Christ's soldiers committed to warfare with world, flesh, &c. No neutrality. Matt. xii. 30. Enemies mighty. Eph. vi. 12. No strength to cope with them. 2 Chron. xx. 12. Our strength is in the Lord. Eph. vi. 10. The battle is His—the responsibility His. 2 Chron. xx. Ours to obey orders. His plans may not be what we would have chosen. His power and wisdom infinite. He will lead His people on to victory. 1 Cor. xv. 57; 2 Cor. ii. 14.

6. The Lord Jesus as Redeemer Kinsman. Job xix. 25-27; Lev. xxv. 25; lxvii. 49; Ruth ii. 20; iv. 14; Jer. xxxii. 7, 8.

We are in the position of the brother who is waxen poor, and has sold back himself and his inheritance. Rom. iii. 9-24; vi. 16; vii. 14; 1 Kings xxi. 21, 25; 2 Kings xvii. 17; Isa. lii. 3.

Man cannot redeem himself or his brother. Job xxxvi. 18, 19; Psa. xlix. 7, 8; Matt. xvi. 26; Mark x. 26, 27.

The Redeemer must be near of kin to have the right to redeem. Lev. xxv. 48, 49; Ruth ii. 20, margin. This Jesus is. Heb. ii. 9-18. As man Jesus has the right; as God, He has the power to redeem. Isa. xlvii. 4; Psa. lxxviii. 35; Isa. xlv. 6; Luke i. 68; Job xxxiii. 23, 24; Isa. xlix. 24, 25; lxiii. 1; Ps. lxxviii. 18; Eph. i. 14; Acts xx. 28; 1 Cor. vi. 19, 20; 1 Pet. i. 3-6; xviii. 19; John viii. 36; Heb. ii. 14; 1 Peter ii. 9. Purchased people—see margin.

Not a stranger. Job xix,—see margin; John x. 4, 5, 14; 1 Pet. i. 8.

MISS L. HOWARD.

FOLLOWING JESUS.

FOLLOWING JESUS—THE COMMAND.

1. Follow Me. John i. 43; Luke ix. 59. Equally applicable to us now.

It is the mark of the Lord's people. The sheep follow Him for they know His voice. John x. 4. My sheep hear My voice and they follow Me. John x. 27. These are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever He goeth. Rev. xiv. 4.

2. How are we to follow Jesus in His humility. Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus. Phil. ii. 5-8. I have given you an example that ye should do as I have done to you. John xiii. 3-17.

3. Follow Jesus in His meekness, gentleness, and readiness to forgive. 1 Pet. ii. 21-23.

4. Follow Jesus in His entire devotion to His Father's will. John iv. 34.

MISS L. H.

ON GIVING.

God claims a tenth of our possessions. Lev. xxvii. 30; Num. xvii. 21.

God promises a rich blessing to those who give a tenth. Mal. iii. 10; Prov. iii. 9.

Example of giving. Heb. vii. 1. In Heb. vii. 3, we find that Melchisedec was a type of Christ. Made like unto the Son of God. Abraham the father of the faithful was a type of the Christian. If then the type of the Christian gave to the type of Christ a tenth; how much more should we give to Christ? who for our sakes became poor, that we through his poverty might be made rich. See how the early Christians gave. Acts ii. 44; iv. 34.

General rules laid down for giving. Matt. x. 8; Luke vi. 38; 2 Cor. ix. 7; viii. 7. M. D. H.

A GOOD ACTION.

Three things enter into its composition, viz., a right principle, a right rule, and a right end.

The right principle is the love of God. 2 Cor. v. 14, 15.

The right rule is the Word of God. 2 Tim. iii. 16, 17.

The right end is the glory of God. 1 Cor. x. 31.

Be all my heart and all my days. 1 Thess. v. 23.

Devoted to my Saviour's praise. Col. i. 10.

And let my glad obedience prove. John xiv. 21.

How much I owe, how much I love. 2 Cor. viii. 9.

"Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." Ps. li. 10.

"THIS GREAT SIGHT."

Exodus iii. 3.

WHO WILL SHEW US ANY GOOD?

I will shew thee great and mighty things. Jer. xxxiii. 3.

God is the Lord who hath shewed us light. Ps. cxviii. 27.

He hath shewed strength with His arm. Luke i. 51.

His righteousness hath He openly shewed. Ps. xcvi. 2.

The Lord our God hath shewed us His glory. Deut. v. 24.

He hath shewed me His marvellous kindness. Ps. xxxi. 21.

Grace hath been shewed from the Lord. Ezra ix. 8.

Shewing mercy unto thousands. Eccl. xx. 6.

Shewing Himself. S. of Sol. ii. 9.

GLAD TIDINGS.

The "Glad Tidings" of a Saviour and His finished salvation, are called in one word, "The Gospel."

By "faith" we look unto it.—Isa. xlv. 22.

By "understanding" we look into it.—Eph. i. 17-23.

By "hope" we look through it.—1 Pet. i. 13.

By the first we look unto it trustfully.

By the second we look into it intelligently.

By the third we look through it expectantly.

Each prepares for its successor, and all aid each other. The first invariably precedes. We first believe, then we feel or realize. By "faith" we come to "understanding," and by these two we attain to a clear and lively "hope." The term "full assurance" refers to their degree, which from the lowest to the highest is the alone work of the Divine Spirit.

GOD'S "FEAR NOTS."

To Abraham, the father of the faithful. Gen. xv. 1.

To Hagar, in the wilderness of Beersheba. Gen. xxi. 21.

To Isaac, at the same Beersheba. Gen. xxvi. 24.

To Jacob, again at Beersheba. Gen. xlv. 3, 4.

To the trembling children of Israel, with the Red Sea before them, and the host of Pharaoh pressing on behind. Exod. xiv. 13.

To Moses again, on the eve of a deadly conflict with Og, the king of Bashan. Num. xxi. 34.

Again, to the awe-stricken Gideon. Judges vi. 23.

Over the evangelical page of Isaiah, there is scattered many a sweet and precious "fear not." Isa. xli. 10, 13, 14; xliii. 1, 5; xlv. 2, 8; li. 7; liv. 4.

Jeremiah, too, has "fear nots,"—Jer. xxx. 10; xlv. 27, 28; and Ezekiel, one to make his forehead as adamant against apostate Israel. Ezek. iii. 9.

To Daniel, the "man greatly beloved," Daniel x. 12.

We come now to the New Testament, and here all the "fear nots" are Jesus' own. Matt. x. 26.

For the persecuted, even unto death. Matt. x. 28.

For the mourner. Luke viii. 50.

For "Little faith," with his unbelieving cry. Matt. x. 31.

For the "little flock." Luke xii. 32.

For Paul, in his tempest-tossed bark. Acts xxvii. 24.

And last, but not least, Rev. i. 17, 18.

"FEAR NOT,"

1. "Fear not, I have redeemed thee," Is. xliii. 1; li. 11.

2. "Fear not, little flock." Luke xii. 32; Heb. xii. 28.

3. "Fear not: for God is come to prove you." Ex. xx. 20; Ps. xvii. 3.

4. "Fear not ye, for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified." Matt. xxviii. 5; Mal. iv. 2; Ps. xxii. 26.

5. "Fear ye not; stand still, and see the salvation of the Lord." Ex. xiv. 13; Jonah ii. 9; Is. xii. 2.

6. "My Spirit remaineth among you, fear ye not." Haggai ii. 5; Zech. viii. 13; Mal. ii. 5.

7. "Fear ye not the reproach of men." Is. li. 7; Matt. x. 26; Gen. xliii. 23.

"Fear not, I am the first and the last." Rev. i. 17.

A PLACE FOR YOU.

John xiv. 2. 1. Our place out of Christ. Afar off.—Eph. ii. 13. Lost—

Luke xix. 10. Enemies.—James iv. 4. Condemned.—John iii. 18. Judged.—

Rom. v. 18. Under wrath.—John iii. 36. Doomed to torment.—Psalm ix. 17. 2.

Our place through Christ. Access.—Eph. ii. 18. Children.—1 John iii. 1.

Prepared place.—John xiv. 2. A city.—Heb. ix. 16. Place of rest, inheritance.

—1 Peter i. 4. 3. Our place in Christ.

Nearness.—Eph. ii. 13. Privilege.—John xiv. 13. Power.—John xiv. 12.

Honor.—John xii. 26. Seated with Him.—Eph. ii. 6. Reigning with Him.—Rev.

xxii. 5. 4. Our place for Christ. Separation.—John xv. 19. Reproof.—John

xv. 20. Suffering.—John xv. 21. Testimony.—John xv. 27. Service—

John xv. 8.

POWER.

- Power from on high. 2 Kings ii. 13-25.
 Power over the sea. Exodus xiv. 13-22.
 Power over the springs. Exodus xv. 23-27.
 Prophecy of power. Isaiah xl. 1-8.
 Promise of power. Luke xxiv. 44-53.
 Condition of power. John xv. 1-11.
 Gift of power. Acts ii. 1-13.

PAST, PRESENT, AND FUTURE.

We are often reminded from Psalm xxiii, that the shepherds of the East do not, as in this country, drive the sheep, but go before them.

How sweet is it to remember this at the end of this precious portion, goodness and mercy follow us. So that, the Lord before us, and goodness and mercy be hind us, and the house of the Lord to dwell in for ever, we have a complete and eternal blessing.

The past.—The Shepherd died for the sake of His flock. John xv. 13.

The present.—He careth for you. 1 Peter v. 7.

The future.—He is preparing a place for us. John xiv. 3.

GOD'S ORDER.

- In self without Christ. Eph. ii. 11, 12.
 In Christ brought nigh. Eph. ii. 13.
 In the church walk in good works. Eph. ii. 10.

Man often reverses the order of the words, and would say:—

1. In the church.
2. To get out of self.
3. If at last we may get to heaven.

H.R.F.

ST. PAUL TELLS OF HIS OWN CONVERSION.

- To the Jews. Acts xxii.
 To Agrippa. Acts xxvi.
 To the Galatians. Gal. i. 13-16.
 To the Philippians. Phil. iii. 4-6.

PRECIOUSNESS OF CHRIST.

The trial of his faith is more precious than gold. 1 Peter i. 7.

His redemption with the precious blood of Christ. 1 Peter i. 19.

Christ as the source of life, a living stone, is precious. 1 Peter ii. 4.

Christ as a foundation, a chief corner-stone, is precious. 1 Peter ii. 6.

Because of our faith; to you which believe He is precious. 1 Peter ii. 7.

Because this precious faith comes to us through the righteousness of our God and Saviour Jesus Christ. 2 Peter i. 1.

And because of the great and precious promises in and through Jesus Christ. 2 Peter i. 4.

THE TABERNACLE AND ITS TEACHING.

In the first place the whole, in some way or other, typified the Lord Jesus in His person or in His work. There were fourteen different materials used in the construction of the Tabernacle and its furniture and vessels.

Gold.—The divine glory of the Lord Jesus the Son of God.

Silver.—This was derived from the atonement-money of Israel, and presents Christ as the ransom for the sinner.

Brass.—The divine character of Christ, as able to sustain the fire of God's holiness.

Blue.—The heavenly color: Christ as the manifestation of the love and grace of God.

Purple.—The kingly glory of Christ as the Son of Man.

Scarlet.—Christ as the suffering One unto death—the cross the pathway to the glory.

Fine Linen.—Christ as the spotless, righteous Son of Man.

Goats' Hair.—The memorial of Christ as the Sin-offering.

Rams' Skins dyed Red.—Christ as the One who by His blood made an atonement for sin.

Badgers' Skins.—The outward aspect of Christ toward the world, as without form or comeliness.

Shittim Wood.—The incorruptible humanity of Christ.

Oil for the Light.—The Spirit's fullness shining forth in Christ.

Spices for Anointing and for Sweet Incense.—The perfect graces and perfumes of the person of Christ.

Precious Stones.—The effulgent glories and brightness of Christ.

EVERLASTING.

1. Everlasting salvation. Isaiah xlv. 17.
2. Everlasting life. John iii. 16.
3. Everlasting strength. Isaiah xxvi. 4.
4. Everlasting love. Jer. xxxi. 3.
5. Everlasting joy. Isaiah xxxv. 10.
6. Everlasting light. Isaiah lx. 20.
7. Everlasting God. Rom. xvi. 26.

MILE-STONES ON THE WAY.

Past.—I was chief of sinners. 1 Tim. i. 15.

Present.—I am a new creature in Christ Jesus. 2 Cor. v. 17.

Future.—I shall be like Him. 1 John iii. 2.

In the meantime.—I press toward the mark Phil. iii. 14. T. W. HANDFORD.

Loved by Him with an everlasting love, Jer. xxxi. 3. MISS MACPHERSON.

THE FORGIVENESS OF SINS.

Who can forgive sins but God only? Mark ii. 7.

If we were to ask, Who need the forgiveness of sins? the ready answer would be, Sinners. But who are sinners? All men are sinners. See what God says, Rom. iii. 10, 12, 23, and 1 John i. 8, 10. Mark the distinction, we deceive ourselves if we say we have no sin in our nature; we make God a liar if we say we have not sinned in our life. The dreadful reality of sin in us, and of sin on us, making us sinners in the deepest sense, gives the teaching of the Word touching forgiveness a large and living interest to us all.

In the following Scriptures we have:

1. The fact that God forgives sin. 1. Stated, Exod. xxxiv. 6, 7; 2 Chron. vii. 14; Ps. lxxxvi. 5; cxxx. 4. 2. Illustrated in David, Ps. xxxii. 5. Sick of the Palsy, Matt. ix. 2. Woman in Simon's house. Luke vii. 48.

2. The meritorious ground on which God forgives. Christ Jesus, Col. i. 14; 1 John ii. 12; Acts x. 43; Rom. iii. 24. 25. The question may be asked what has Christ done that God forgives for his sake? see Heb. ix. 22-26; 1 Pet. iii. 18; Isaiah liii. 5, 6.

3. The conditions in us necessary to forgiveness. Faith, Acts xiii. 38. Repentance, Acts iii. 19. Confession, 1 John i. 9. Forsaking sin, Prov. xxviii. 13.

4. The perfection of this forgiveness of God. 1. Sins are blotted out, Isa. xliii. 35. 2. Totally removed from sight, Isa. i. 18, 3. Forgotten for ever, Jer. xxxi. 34; Heb. x. 17.

5. The consequences of forgiveness. We have—1. Life, Col. ii. 13. 2. Blessedness in the soul, Ps. xxxii. 1, 2; 1 John v. 10. 3. Praise in the heart, Isa. xli. 1. 4. The fear of God, Ps. cxxx. 4; Jer. xxxiii. 8, 9. 5. Reconciliation with God, Luke xv. 12, 32. 6. Peace with God and joy in the hope of the glory of God, Rom. v. 1, 2.

CONTRAST AND SIMILARITY OF CHRIST'S TEACHING.

Lengthened interview between one of the most respectable and one of the least respectable. John iii. and iv.

Specially useful to us in noticing Christ's different dealing, and yet it is the same truth that saves. Jno. iii. iv.

A man of the Pharisees named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews, came to Jesus by night and said unto Him, Rabbi we know that thou art a teacher. John iii.

A woman of Samaria—no name given—she a sinner, I must needs go through Samaria. Sixth hour—noon. The woman saith unto him, Sir, I perceive that thou art a prophet. John iv.

Christ does not waste time but comes at once to the root of the matter.

"Ye must be born again." "He, would have given thee living water."

Both make the same mistake, thinking it literal birth and water.

How can a man? From whence then has thou that living water?

Christ reiterates the truth three times:

Born again, verses 3, 5, 7. Water, thrice in verse 14.

Contrasts between earthly and heavenly, and culminating in everlasting life.

Born of the flesh is flesh.

The Sabbath must not be dishonored by frivolous recreation or pleasure. Isa. lviii. 13.

The Sabbath must not be disturbed by unseemly noise and tumult. Hab. ii. 20; Matt. xxiv. 20; Heb. iv. 9.

The Sabbath must not be outraged by gala spectacles, etc. Isa. lviii. 13; Ps. lxxv. 1, 2, 4, 7.

THE SABBATH.

It must not be profaned by trifling for gain. Neh. xiii. 15-22; Isa. lviii. 13; John ii. 13, 17.

It must not be polluted by any vice or dissipation. Isa. lvi. 2.

It may be used in acts of social intercourse, imperative travel, visiting the prisoner, sick or poor in religious instruction or charity. Matt. xii. 13; Luke xiii. 10, 17; xxiv. 13, 31.

It may be employed in any work of necessity or mercy. Mark ii. 23, 28.

VERY SHORT AND VERY LONG.

There are some things very short, and some things very long. God in His Word tells us of both of these, and bids us look at them.

1. Life is very short. God speaks of it as a shadow, 1 Chron. xxix. 15; a weaver's shuttle, Job vii. 6; a flower, Psalm ciii. 15; a leaf, Isa. lxiv. 6; a handbreadth, Ps. xxxix. 5; a vapour, Jas. iv. 14; a sleep, Ps. cx. 5; a flood, Ps. cx. 5. Is not life then short? If it be like these, it must be short indeed.

2. Time is very short. It is made up of many lives yet it is short. The time is short, says Paul, 1 Cor. viii. 29; the world passeth away, says John, 1 John ii. 17. A few years will end all.

3. The sinner's joy is short. It is but for a moment, says Job, xx. 5. The fashion of this world passeth away, 1 Cor. vii. 31. It fades away, and leaves nothing behind it but grief.

4. The saint's sorrow is short. It is but for a moment, 2 Cor. iv. 17. It may be heavy and hard to bear, but it is soon over, and it leaves no shadow behind.

These are some of the things that are very short.

But there are other things that are long. They are for ever and ever.

1. God Himself. He is from everlasting to everlasting, Ps. xc. 2. His life is throughout all eternity, for He is the King eternal and immortal, 1 Tim. i. 17. How well for us to have this God for our God.

2. God's love. The mercy of the Lord, says David, is from everlasting to everlasting, Ps. ciii. 17. The love of God changes not. His grace never grows old.

3. The life to come. It is everlasting life, John iii. 16; there is no death in this life, and no end. He who gets it, gets it for ever and ever. What must it be to have ETERNAL life!

4. The saint's joy. At God's right hand are pleasures forevermore, Ps. xvi. 11; the joy which the redeemed of the Lord obtain is everlasting joy, Isa. xxxv. 10. How blessed to have joy like this—joy that shall never end.

5. The sinner's sorrow. It is endless, endless. The fire is everlasting, Isa. xxxiii. 14. The torment is day and night, forever and ever, Rev. xx. 10. The darkness is the blackness of darkness forever, Jude 13. How sad to lie down in such sorrow—to have these everlasting burnings for our home!

PRIESTHOOD OF CHRIST.

This is presented in type in the Old Testament. It is unfolded in the New.

The first notice of Priesthood is that of BLESSING. Gen. x'i. 13-20; Hebrews vii. 1-3; Luke xxiv. 50-51.

The second typical setting forth of Priesthood is that of PRESENTATION. Exodus xxviii. 1, 4, 29; Heb. ix. 24.

The third representation of the Priesthood of Christ may be called ATONEMENT. Levit. xvi. 7-10, 14-16, 20-22 and 27; John i. 29; Hebrews ix. 26, and xiii. 11, 12.

This is the order in which priesthood is according to the mind of God, but the opposite order is that in which it is apprehended by the mind of man. Blessing is the thing set before the mind of God, but we know that sin must first be put away and the persons to be blessed must then be presented faultless, before blessing comes. Hence we must first be reconciled to God by the cross-atonement before we share the blessings of the intercession of Christ. His intercession only for believers. Hence Abraham receives blessing through priesthood and is strengthened for the conflict before him. Gen.

xii. 21-24. Hence priesthood amongst Israel (one types 1 Cor. x. 11) was given after they were redeemed by blood. Exodus xii. and Levit. viii. Hence in building Tabernacle the priesthood begins after the brazen altar which is the type of the cross. Exodus xxvii. 1-8; xxviii. 1. Hence the intercession for the fig tree, which is a standing type of the Israelites and not of the Gentiles, of the believer and not the unbeliever. Luke xiii. 6-9; Matt. vii. 16-20.

Christ is now exercising the priesthood of intercession and of blessing, based upon his atonement, for those who trust him.

It is all powerful. Heb. vii. 25.

It avails for sin. John i. 7-9 and ii. 1.

It gives aid in temptation. Hebrews ii. 16-18; Luke xxii. 31, 32; Mark xvi. 7.

It is full of sympathy. Heb. iv. 14-16.

It gives strength and joy. As Abraham was openly fed with bread and wine. So we take these elements of the strength and joy ministered to us by the Holy Ghost through the word. John vi. 33. 53-58.

REV. R. CAMERON.

PRIESTHOOD OF BELIEVERS,

All through the letters to the Churches Christians are spoken of as priests, but no one person or class of persons more so than another. The officers and teachers of the church are never called priests. See 1 Peter ii. 5, 9; Rev. i. 6; v. 10; xx. 6.

It is evident that the believer can never participate with Christ in making atonement for sin, that was once made and never to be repeated. Hebrews ix. 26; x. 10-14, 17-18.

In what respects are we priests.

Referring back to the typical teaching it will be found that Aaron's sons were priests by virtue of their relationship to him, so we by our relationship to Christ—we possess his life, (John i. 4, 12-14) as they possess the life of Aaron.

The breastplate with special garments and the Urim and Thummim were alone given to Aaron. Levit. ix. 7-14. He was also anointed abundantly before the sin offering was made, ver. 12; the sons after, and in a limited way, ver. 30.

Both were consecrated by blood, ver. 23-24. They were not to enter upon their priestly work till the eighth or resurrection day—33-35; ix. 1. So Christ after His resurrection, and we also after risen from the dead. Eph. ii. 5, 6; Col. iii. 1.

1. In offering praise. Hebrews xiii. 15; Hos. xiv. 2.

2. In doing good and giving. Heb. xiii. 16; Phil. iv. 16. Hence giving is an act of worship. 1 Cor. xvi. 1-2.

3. In discerning between the clean and the unclean x. 10-11; Ezek. xii. 26. See New Testament Exhortations to believers. Heb. v. 14; Rom. xii. 9.

4. In pronouncing clean. Levit. xiii. 6, 13. So John xx. 23. They pronounce clean, forgiven, all the sinners who believe, and unclean, (their sins retained) all who do not believe. Acts x. 43; xiii. 38-39.

5. In blessing. Levit. ix. 22-23; Num. vi. 22-26. So we. Matt. v. 44; Rom. xii. 14; 1 Cor. iv. 12. This we do in preaching gospel. Rom. x. 29; Rom. i. 11. We should always seek to be a blessing to all whom we meet.

6. Intercession. It is our privilege. Examples in days of Christ. John iv. 46-53; Matt. xvi. 21-28; Mark ii. 4-12. Amongst apostles. Acts xi. 3-7; Rom. i. 9; 1 Thess. iii. 10; James v. 14-16. So we may pray for saved and unsaved friends.

FALLING LEAVES,

Where there is little faith there is little joy, Luke xxiv. 25.

The grand test of discipleship is not knowledge, but love, 1 John iv. 7.

The believer must not only say "Lord teach me," but "Lord lead me," Ps. xxv. 4, 5.

When we reign over sin, what liberty!—when sin reigns over us, what bondage? Rom. vi. 14.

Never trust to grace received, but to the inexhaustible fountain whence you received it, 2 Cor. xii. 9.

The law discovers our ruin, but cannot provide the remedy. Jesus alone can do that. Rom. viii. 3.

Those who are most holy are most lovely; for the beauty of the Lord is His holiness. Psalm xcvi. 9.

There is joy with peace in believing, but nothing but perplexity in unbelief. Acts viii. 37, 39.

SEVEN ABLES.

1. Able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think.—Ephes. iii. 20.
 2. Able to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him.—Heb. vii. 25.
 3. Able to raise him up even from the dead.—xi. 19.
 4. Able to make all grace abound toward you.—2 Cor. ix. 8.
 5. Able to succour them that are tempted.—Heb. ii. 18.
 6. Able to keep you from falling.—Jude 24.
 7. Able even to subdue all things unto himself.—Phil. iii. 21.

SEVEN DELIVERS.

1. Deliver me from all my transgressions.—Psa. xxxix. 8.
 2. Deliver me from the hand of mine enemies.—Psa. xxxi. 15.
 3. Deliver me from bloodguiltiness, O God.—Psa. xli. 14.

4. Deliver me from deceitful and unjust man.—Psa. xli. 1.

5. Deliver me from evil work.—2 Tim. iv. 18.

6. Deliver me from the oppression of man.—Psa. cxix. 134.

7. Deliver me from the body of this death.—Rom. vii. 24.

THE SEVEN RESTS OF SCRIPTURE.

REST.	SABBATH.
Creation. Gen. ii. 2, 3.	Seventh day.
Canaan. Josh. xxi. 44.	After subduing the land.
Sinners. Matt. xi. 28.	Believing.
In service. Mat. xi. 29.	Being yoked with Christ.
Recompense. 2 Thess. i. 6, 7.	At the coming of Christ.
Millennial. Isa. xiv. 7.	T-housand years.
Eternal. Rev. xxi. 3, 4.	Hereafter for ever.

A SEVENFOLD VIEW OF GOD.

Rom. i. 1-18.

1. Gospel of God. Rom. i. 1.
2. Son of God. Rom. i. 4.
3. Beloved of God. Rom. i. 7.
4. Peace of God. Rom. i. 7.
5. Power of God. Rom. i. 16.
6. Righteousness of God. Rom. i. 17.
7. Wrath of God. Rom. i. 18.

Thus we have a message of love—"The Gospel of God," telling us of the death and resurrection of "The Son of God," through which we are seen to be "The Beloved of God," and the basis upon which that love rests, "The Peace of God," setting forth the only way to elevate man, "The power of God;" and in which also "The righteousness of God" is seen; but, if rejected, nothing but the "Wrath of God" remains.

II. R. F.

SEVEN APOSTOLIC COMMANDMENTS.

1. As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, walk ye in Him. Rooted and built up in Him. Col. ii. 6, 7.

2. Walk in the Spirit and ye shall not fulfil the lusts of the flesh. Gal. v. 16.

3. Walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given Himself for us, an offering and a sacrifice to God for a sweet smelling savour. Eph. v. 2.

4. And this is love, that we walk after His commandments. 2 John 6. For this is the love of God, that we keep His commandments. 1 John v. 3.

5. See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time because the days are evil. Ephes. v. 15, 16.

6. Now are ye light in the Lord: walk as children of light; proving what is acceptable unto the Lord. Ephes. v. 6, 10.

7. Walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God. Col. i. 10; Eph. iv. 1, 2.

He that saith he abideth in him, ought himself also so to walk, even as He walked. 1 John ii. 6.

SEVENFOLD VIRTUE OF THE BLOOD.

1. Redemption. In whom we have redemption through His blood even the forgiveness of sins. Col. i. 14.

2. Justification. Much more then, being now justified by His blood, we shall be saved from wrath through Him. Rom. v. 9.

3. Sanctification. Jesus also, that He might sanctify the people with His own blood, suffered without the camp. Heb. xiii. 12.

4. Peace. Having made peace through the blood of His cross. Col. i. 20.

5. Made nigh. But now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ. Eph. ii. 13.

6. Kept nigh. Having therefore, brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus. Heb. x. 19.

7. Victorious. And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb. Rev. xii. 11. And have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Rev. vii. 14.

Unto Him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in His own blood, and hath made us kings and priests unto God and His Father; to Him be glory and dominion for ever and ever, Amen. Rev. i. 5, 6.

SEVEN NOWS.

1. The now of Calvary: now once in the end of the world (age) hath Christ appeared to put away sin by the sacrifice of Himself. Heb. ix. 26.

2. The now of Resurrection: now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept. 1 Cor. xv. 20.

3. The now of Salvation: now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation. 2 Cor. vi. 2.

4. The now of No Condemnation: now there is therefore no condemnation to them that are in Christ Jesus. Rom. viii. 1.

5. The now of Nearness: now in Christ Jesus ye who sometimes were far off are made nigh by the blood of Christ. Eph. ii. 13.

6. The now of Sonship: now are we the sons of God. 1 John iii. 2.

7. The now of Intercession: now to appear in the presence of God for us. Heb. ix. 24.

Now unto Him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of His glory with exceeding joy. To the only wise God our Saviour be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen. Jude 24, 25.

SEVEN PRECIOUS THINGS.

1. None can by any means redeem his brother nor give to God a ransom for him; for the redemption of their soul is precious. Psalm xlix. 7, 8.

2. Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, but with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot. 1 Peter i. 18, 19.

3. Precious faith with us through the righteousness of God and of our Saviour Jesus Christ. 2 Peter i. 1.

4. Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises. 2 Peter i. 4.

5. How precious also are Thy thoughts unto me, O God! how great is the sum of them! Psalm cxxxix. 17.

6. Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation, a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation. Isaiah xxviii. 16.

7. Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints. Ps. cxvi. 15.

Unto you therefore which believe He is precious. Amen. 1 Peter ii. 7.

SEVEN MARKS OF REGENERATION.

1. Every one that doeth righteousness is born of God. 1 John ii. 29.

2. Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin. 1 John iii. 9.

3. Every one that loveth is born of God and knoweth God. 1 John iv. 7.

4. Whosoever believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God. 1 John v. 1.

5. Whosoever is born of God overcometh the world. 1 John v. 4.

6. He that is begotten of God keepeth himself, and that Wicked One toucheth him not. 1 John v. 18.

7. Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to His abundant mercy hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. 1 Pet. i. 3.

Jesus said unto him: Verily, verily, I say unto thee, except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. John iii. 3. Amen.

SEVEN THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

1. We know that the Son of God is come, and hath given us an understanding that we may know Him that is true. 1 John v. 20.

2. We know that He was manifested to take away our sins. 1 John iii. 5.

3. We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. 1 John iii. 14.

16

4. We know and believe the love that God hath in us. 1 John iv. 16.

5. We know that He abideth in us by the Spirit which He hath given us. 1 John iii. 24.

7. We know that all things work together for good to them that love God. Rom. viii. 28.

7. We know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved we have a building of God—an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. 2 Cor. v. 1.

And hereby we do know that we know Him, if we keep His commandments. 1 John ii. 3.

SEVEN BEATITUDES FROM THE PSALMS.

SEVEN REWARDS TO OVERCOMERS.

1. To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God. Rev. ii. 7.
 2. He that overcometh shall not be hurt of the second death. Rev. ii. 11.
 3. To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it. Rev. ii. 17.

4. He that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give power over the nations: . . . even as I received of my Father. And I will give him the morning star. Rev. ii. 26-28.

5. He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not blot out his name out of the book of life, but I will confess his name before my Father, and before His angels. Rev. iii. 5.

6. Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is New Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God: and I will write upon him my new name. Rev. iii. 12.

7. To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with Me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in His throne. Rev. iii. 21.

7. Love fails not. 1 Cor. xiii. 8; Eph. v. 2; 2 Cor. v. 14.

SEVEN THINGS TO WHICH WE SHOULD TAKE HEED.

1. Take heed that no man deceive you. Matt. xxiv. 4; 1 Cor. x. 32; Matt. xxiv. 42; Mark xiii. 33-37; Luke xii. 37-40; xxi. 34-36; John xiv. 3; xxi. 20-23; Acts i. 11; 1 Cor. i. 7; xi. 26; Phil. iii. 20; 1 Thess. i. 10; Titus ii. 13; Heb. ix. 28; Rev. xxii. 7, 12, 20.

2. Take heed what ye hear. Mark iv. 24; Prov. vi. 27; Isa. viii. 20; Matt. xxiv. 35; John xiv. 26; xv. 3; xvi. 13; xvii. 17; 1 Thess. ii. 13; 1 John ii. 27.

3. Take heed therefore how ye hear. Luke viii. 18; 1 Sam. iii. 9, 10; Psalm cxix. 11; Jer. xxii. 29; Acts xiii. 26; 2 Tim. iii. 16, 17; Heb. ii. 1; iv. 2, 12; James i. 22, 25; 1 Peter i. 25.

4. Take heed to yourselves. Luke xxi. 34; Phil. iii. 3; Psalm li. 5; Jer. xvii. 9; Mark vii. 21-23; xiii. 9, 23, 33; Acts xx. 28; Rom. vii. 18; 1 Cor. x. 12; 1 Tim. iv. 16.

5. Take heed how ye build. 1 Cor. iii. 10; Mal. iii. 16; Matt. xxv. 40; Mark ix. 41; Rom. xiv. 23; 1 Cor. x. 31; Gal. i. 10; Col. iii. 23; Heb. xi. 6; 1 John ii. 28.

6. Take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief. Heb. iii. 12; Matt. xiii. 58; xvii. 20; xxi. 21, 22; Mark vi. 6; xvi. 14; Luke xvii. 5, 6; John v. 24; vii. 38; Acts ii. 44-47; Rom. i. 16; xi. 20; 2 Cor. iv. 13; 2 Tim. i. 12; Heb. xi. 1; 1 Pet. i. 8.

7. Take heed to the sure word of prophecy. 2 Peter i. 19; Matt. xxiv. 42; Mark xiii. 33-37; Luke xii. 35-40; John xiv. 3; Acts i. 11; 1 Thess. i. 10; 2 Tim. iv. 8; Titus ii. 13; Hebrews ix. 28; x. 37; James v. 8; Rev. xxii. 20.

SEVEN THINGS ABOUT PEACE.

1. It is made. Col. i. 20; Eph. ii. 13, 14; Ecc. iii. 8; Isaiah ix. 6; xxvi. 12; xxxvii. 5; xxxii. 17; lii. 5; Luke i. 79; ii. 15.

2. It is preached. Acts x. 36; Eph. ii. 17; Rom. viii. 7; 1 John iv. 10; John iii. 16; xv. 13; Rom. v. 8; Gal. ii. 20; Eph. ii. 4, 5.

3. It is given. John xiv. 27; John v. 24; Acts xiii. 39; xvi. 31; Rom. iv. 5; 1 John v. 13.

4. It is possessed. Rom. v. 1; Luke vii. 50; Rom. v. 10, 11; 2 Cor. v. 18-21; Eph. ii. 8, 9.

5. It should fill the heart. Rom. xv. 13; Luke xi. 34-36; John xv. 7, 11; Rom. xiv. 17; 2 Cor. v. 5-8; vi. 10; Phil. i. 21, iv. 13; Col. iii. 17; 1 John i. 7; iii. 10.

6. It should keep the heart. Phil. iv. 6, 7; Isaiah xxvi. 3, 4; Matt. vi. 34; Luke xii. 22; Rom. viii. 28, 32; 1 Cor. iii. 21-23; Phil. iv. 19.

7. It should rule the heart. Col. iii. 15; John xvi. 33; 2 Thess. iii. 16; Heb. xiii. 20, 21; Rom. i. 7; 1 Cor. i. 3; 2 Cor. i. 2; Gal. i. 3; Eph. i. 2; Phil. i. 2; Col. i. 2; Thess. i. 1; 2 Thess. i. 2; 1 Tim. i. 2; 2 Tim. i. 2; Titus i. 4; Philem. 3; 1 Peter i. 2; 2 Peter i. 2; 2 John 3; 3 John 14; Jude 2; Rev. i. 4.

SEVENFOLD MEASURE OF BLESSING.

1. Predestinated. Eph. i. 5; Dent. vii. 7, 8; Jer. xxxi. 3; John xv. 16; Rom. ix. 16; Eph. i. 4, 11; 1 Peter i. 2; Rev. iv. 11.

2. Called. Rom. viii. 28; Rom. viii. 30; Phil. i. 6; 1 Thess. v. 24; 2 Thess. ii. 13, 14; 1 Tim. vi. 12; Heb. ix. 15; 1 Peter v. 10; 2 Peter i. 3; 1 John iii. 1, 2; Jude 1; Rev. xvii. 14.

3. Saved. Titus iii. 5; Matt. ix. 12, 13; Luke i. 72, 78; Rom. ix. 23, 24; Eph. ii. 4-9; 2 Pet. i. 3.

4. Forgiven. Eph. i. 7; Heb. xi. 12; John i. 16, 17; Acts xv. 11; Rom. iii. 24; iv. 16; v. 1, 2; xi. 6; 1 Cor. xv. 10; 2 Cor. viii. 9; 2 Tim. i. 9.

5. Strengthened. Col. i. 11; 2 Cor. xii. 9, 10; 2 Kings vi. 15-17; Acts i. 8; vi. 8; Rom. i. 16; xv. 13; 1 Cor. i. 18; 2 Cor. vi. 7; 2 Tim. i. 7, 8; 1 Pet. i. 5.

7. To be fashioned. Phil. iii. 20, 21; Rom. viii. 22, 23, 29; 1 Cor. i. 7; 2 Cor. v. 1, 2; 1 Thess. i. 9, 10; ii. 19; iii. 13; iv. 13-18; v. 1-6; 2 Thess. i. 10; ii. 1-8; iii. 5; Heb. x. 37; James v. 7, 8; Rev. xxii. 7, 12, 20.

SEVEN GIFTS OF GOD.

1. His Son. John iii. 16.

2. His Holy Spirit. John xiv. 16, 17; Acts ii. 38; Acts x. 45.

3. Faith. Eph. ii. 8; 2 Cor. iv. 13; 1 Cor. xii. 8, 9; Luke xvii. 5.

4. Grace. Rom. xii. 6; 1 Cor. i. 4; 2 Cor. vi. 1; Eph. iii. 7; Eph. iv. 7; James iv. 6.

5. Righteousness. Rom. v. 17.

6. Peace. John xiv. 27.

7. Eternal life. Rom. vi. 23; 1 John v. 11; 2 Cor. ix. 15. J. H. BROOKES.

SEVEN PROOFS OF CHRIST'S DIVINITY.

First, He is called God. Compare Ps. xlv. 6, 7, with Heb. i. 8, 9; Isa. ix. 1-6, with Matt. iv. 12-16; Isa. xl. 3; liv. 5; Zech. xiv. 5; Matt. i. 22, 23; John i. 1; x. 33; xx. 28; Rom. ix. 5; 1 Tim. iii. 16; Tit. i. 3; ii. 13; 1 John v. 20.

Second, He is called the Son of God in the sense that implies sameness of nature with the Father. Compare Ps. ii. 7, with Acts xiii. 33; Matt. iii. 17; xvi. 16; xvii. 5; xxvii. 54; Mark iii. 11; v. 7; xiv. 61, 62; Luke i. 35; x. 22; John i. 18, 34, 49; iii. 18; v. 25; vi. 69; ix. 35, 36; x. 36; xi. 4, 27; xix. 7; xx. 31; Acts viii. 37; Rom. i. 4; viii. 3; 1 Cor. i. 9; 2 Cor. i. 19; Gal. ii. 20; Eph. iv. 13; Col. i. 13; Heb. iv. 14; 2 Pet. i. 17; 1 John i. 3, 7; ii. 22-24; iv. 9, 10, 14, 15; v. 5, 10, 13; Rev. ii. 18.

Third, He is called Lord in a way that proves His infinite superiority to all creatures. Matt. xii. 8; xx. 30; xxii. 43-45; xxiv. 42; Mark v. 19, 20; ix. 24; xvi. 19, 20; Luke iii. 4; ix. 59-62; x. 17; xiii. 25; xxiii. 42; John i. 23; xi. 21, 22; xiii. 13; Acts i. 24; ii. 36; v. 14; vii. 59; ix. 6, 13; x. 36; Rom. i. 3; iv. 24; vi. 23; xiv. 8; 1 Cor. i. 3; viii. 6; xii. 3; 2 Cor. v. 10, 11; Gal. vi. 14; Eph. iii. 11; Phil. ii. 11; Col. ii. 6; iii. 24; 1 Thess. iii. 13; 2 Thess. i. 8, 9; 1 Tim. i. 2; 2 Tim. i. 2; Tit. i. 4; Phil. 3; Heb. ii. 3; James i. 1; 1 Pet. i. 3; 2 Pet. i. 11; 2 John 3; Jude 14; Rev. xix. 16. The title of Lord is applied to Him more than five hundred times in the New Testament.

Fourth, He is declared to be equal with God, John iii. 35; v. 17, 23; x. 30, 38; xii. 45; xiv. 9, 11; xv. 23, 24; xvii. 5, 21, 23; Phil. ii. 6; Col. i. 15, 19; ii. 9; Heb. i. 1-3; 1 John ii. 21, 23, 24; Rev. iii. 21.

Fifth, He performs the works of God; (1) in creating, John i. 3, 10; Eph. iii. 9; Col. i. 16; Heb. i. 10; Rev. iii. 14; (2) in preserving and upholding, Col. i. 17; Heb. i. 3; (3) in forgiving sins, Mark ii. 5, 10; Luke vii. 48-50; Acts v. 31; (4) in imparting everlasting life, Luke xxiii. 42, 43; John v. 25, 40; vi. 47; x. 10, 28; xvii. 2; (5) in bestowing the Spirit and all spiritual blessings, Luke xvii. 5; xxiv. 49; John xiv. 13; xv. 26; 1 Cor. i. 4-6; Eph. iv. 7; Phil. iv. 13; (6) in raising the dead, John v. 21, 25-29; vi. 40; xi. 25; Phil. iii. 21; 1 Thess. iv. 16; (7) in judging the world, Matt. vii. 22; xvi. 27; xxv. 31; John v. 22, 27; Acts x. 42; xvii. 31; Rom. ii. 16; xiv. 10; 2 Cor. v. 10; 2 Tim. iv. 1; Rev. i. 7; xxii. 12.

Sixth, He possesses the attributes and perfections of God, for (1) He is said to be eternal, Mic. v. 2, compared with Matt. ii. 6; John i. 2; viii. 56, 58; xvii. 5, 24; Acts iii. 15; Heb. i. 11, 12; Rev. i. 17; xxii. 13; (2) Omnipresent. Matt.

xviii. 20; xxviii. 20; John iii. 13; Eph. i. 23; (3) Omniscient, Matt. ix. 4; xii. 25; Mark ii. 8; Luke vi. 8; ix. 47; x. 22; John i. 48; ii. 24, 25; xvi. 30; xxi. 17; Rev. ii. 23; (4) Omnipotent, Matt. xxviii. 18; John v. 17; x. 18; 1 Cor. i. 24; Col. i. 17; ii. 10; Heb. vii. 25; Rev. i. 8; (5) Unchangeable, Heb. i. 11, 12; vii. 24; xiii. 8; (6) Infinitely wise and loving, 1 Cor. i. 24; Col. ii. 3; Eph. iii. 19; (7) Sinless, Mark x. 18; John viii. 29, 46; xiv. 30; Heb. vii. 26; 1 Pet. ii. 22; 1 John iii. 5.

Seventh, He claimed and received divine worship; compare Ex. xx. 3; Matt. iv. 10; Acts xiv. 14; Rev. xix. 10, with Matt. ii. 2, 11; ix. 18; xiv. 33; xv. 25; xx. 20; xxviii. 9; Luke xxiv. 52; John ix. 38; xx. 28; Acts vii. 59; Phil. ii. 10; Heb. i. 6; Rev. v. 9-14; 2 Cor. xiii. 14; Rom. i. 7, and the beginning of all the Epistles. If such a being is not God, there is no God; but, blessed be His name for ever and ever, the believer is hanging his interests for time and for eternity upon the arm of One who is almighty, and who by Himself purged our sins. Love can not stoop lower than when He descended to the cross; love can not rise higher than when it lifts us to his throne. J. H. B.

SEVEN OFFICES OF THE SPIRIT IN JOHN.

1. Quickening, iii. 5, 6; i. 12, 13, 32, 33.
2. Indwelling, iv. 14; Eph. iv. 30; 1 Thess. v. 19.
3. Outflowing, vii. 37-39.
4. Comforting, John xiv. 16, 17; 1 John ii. 1; Rom. viii. 9; 1 Cor. vi. 19; 1 John ii. 27.
5. Teaching, xiv. 26; Rom. xii. 3; 1 Cor. ii. 14; viii. 2; John vi. 63.
6. Reproving, xvi. 8.

THE SEVEN BEATITUDES OF REVELATION.

1. Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein: for the time is at hand, i. 3.

2. Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them, xiv. 13.

3. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame, xvi. 15; 1 Thess. v. 4; Luke xii. 36; 1 John ii. 28.

4. Blessed are they which are called unto the marriage supper of the Lamb, xix. 9; Eph. v. 27.

5. Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection, xx. 6; Phil. iii. 11.

6. Blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book, xxii. 7.

7. Blessed are they that do his commandments, (wash their robes, according to the correct rendering) that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city, xxii. 14; Rev. v.

SEVEN TOGETHERS.

1. We are gathered together. Matt. xviii. 20; Phil. iii. 3.

2. As the result of being gathered together, we are united together. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder, Matt. xix. 6; Acts ii. 44; iv. 23; 1 Cor. xii. 12-26.

3. Being united, we are builded together. In Christ all the building, fitly framed together, groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord: in whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit, Eph. ii. 21, 22; Zech. iv. 7.

4. As builded together, we must be found striving together. Only let your conversation be as becometh the gospel of Christ: that, whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs, that ye stand fast in one spirit, with one mind, striving together for the faith of the gospel, Phil. i. 27; Heb. x. 25; Rom. xii. 4, 5.

5. Thus striving together, and giving evidence that we are walking in fellowship with our Lord, He who is the Head over all things to the Church makes all things subserve our interests; for, we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose, Rom. viii. 28; 1 Cor. iii. 21-23.

6. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God, and the dead in Christ shall rise first: then we which are alive and remain, shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord, 1 Thess. iv. 16, 17.

7. As we commenced with two or three gathering together here on earth, so we conclude with another great and glorious gathering in the skies, for we read of our gathering together unto Him, 2 Thess. i. 1; Rev. xxi. 4; Rev. xxii. 20.

SEVEN THINGS SAID OF THE BELIEVER'S SINS.

1. They have been laid on Christ, Isa. lii. 6; 1 Pet. ii. 24; 2 Cor. v. 21.

2. They have been blotted out, Isa. xliv. 22; Col. ii. 14; Rev. iii. 5.

3. They have been removed, Ps. ciii. 12; Lev. xvi. 21, 22.

4. They have been forgiven, Rom. iv. 7; Eph. i. 7; Luke vii. 48; Col. ii. 13.

5. They have been cast behind God's back, Isa. xxxviii. 17.

6. They are cast into the depths of the sea, Micah vii. 19.

7. They are forgotten, Jer. xxxi. 34; Heb. vii. 12; ix. 17.
J. H. B.

SEVEN THINGS THE BELIEVER SHOULD REMEMBER ABOUT THE FLESH.

1. That he is under no obligation to it. We are debtors not to the flesh. Rom. viii. 12; viii. 8; Gal. vi. 8; Rom. viii. 6, margin; Rom. vii. 25; viii. 7, margin.

2. That he must not make it his companion. Who walk not after the flesh, Rom. viii. 4; Eph. iv. 19; Phil. iii. 19; Gen. xiii. 9.

3. That he must not make any allowance for it. Make not provision for the flesh, Rom. xiii. 14.

4. He must not give it an opportunity to show itself. Use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, Gal. v. 13.

5. That he must not trust it under any circumstances. For we have no confidence in the flesh, Phil. iii. 3.

6. That he must not expect any good thing from it. In my flesh dwelleth no good thing, Rom. vii. 18; It is sinful, Rom. viii. 3; Unclean, Gal. v. 19; Filthy, 2 Cor. vii. 1; Corrupt, Gen. vi. 12; Job xiv. 4.

7. He must not look upon it as a dead thing. And they that are Christ's have crucified the flesh, Gal. v. 24; Rom. vii. 24.

May the Lord Jesus grant that we may all through the Spirit mortify the deeds of the body, Rom. viii. 13; and not fulfil the lust of the flesh, Gal. v. 16.

SEVEN THINGS ABOUT CHRIST.

1. Christ is wisdom, Prov. viii. 22-31; 1 Cor. i. 18-31.

2. Christ is light, Luke i. 76-79; John i. 4; ix. 5; 2 Cor. iv. 6.

3. Christ is health, Prov. xiii. 17; Jer. xxx. 17; Matt. viii. 17; Luke iv. 18, 19. Let sin-sick souls know upon the sure testimony of the word that the power of the Lord is present to heal them, and straightway sing with joy.

The great Physician now is near,

The sympathizing Jesus:

He speaks, the drooping heart to cheer,

O hear the voice of Jesus.

4. Christ is the antidote to the deadly poison of sin, Num. xxi. 8; John iii. 14; Rom. iii. 24.

5. Christ is life, John xiv. 6; Rom. vi. 23; 1 John v. 11, 12; Col. iii. 4; John xiv. 19.

6. Christ is heaven, John iii. 13; xiv. 3; Rev. vii. 17; Phil. iii. 20.

7. Christ is ours. Happy is the believer who can say in simple faith, "My beloved is mine, and I am his," Song of Sol. ii. 16; 2 Cor. vi. 10; 1 Cor. iii. 21-23; Rom. viii. 16, 17. J. H. B.

SEVEN "ARES" IN I COR. VI.

1. Ye are washed. Trace throughout the Bible the two washings, with blood and with water as the symbol of the word of God. Rev. i. 5; vii. 14; 1 John i. 7; Lev. xvii. 11; Matt. xxvi. 28; Rom. iii. 20-26; v. 9; Eph. i. 7; Col. i. 20-22; Heb. ix. 11-22; 1 Pet. i. 18, 19; Ex. xxix. 4; John xiii. 1-10; xv. 3; xix. 34, 35; Eph. v. 26; Heb. x. 19-22; 1 John v. 6, 8.

2. Ye are sanctified. Consider the standing of the believer as already sanctified in the Father's view, and then as manifesting his position before God in a life of practical and progressive holiness, observing how the latter is always represented as springing from the former, 1 Cor. i. 2, 30; Acts xx. 32; xxvi. 18; Heb. ii. 11; x. 10, 14; xiii. 12; 1 Pet. i. 14-16; Lev. xi. 44, 45; xx. 24-26; John xvii. 19; 1 Cor. iii. 17; Col. iii. 12; Heb. iii. 1; Jude 20.

3. Ye are justified. Notice that it means just the opposite of the word condemn, Deut. xxv. 1; Job ix. 20; Isa. l. 8, 9; Prov. xvii. 15; Rom. viii. 33, 34; Job xxv. 4; Acts xiii. 39; Rom. iii. 20-30; iv. 5; v. 1, 9; Gal. ii. 16, v. 4; James ii. 17-26.

4. Know ye not that your bodies are the members of Christ? Here we have the present tense, denoting continuous action, 1 Cor. xii. 27; Rom. xii. 5; Eph. i. 22, 23; v. 30; Col. i. 18, 24; iii. 1-5.

5. Ye are not your own. Here again is the present tense, showing our lasting obligation and privilege, Rom. xiv. 7, 8; 1 Cor. x. 31; xii. 7; 2 Cor. v. 14; Gal. vi. 14; Phil. i. 21; 2 Tim. ii. 4; 1 Pet. iv. 10.

6. Ye are bought with a price. The demanded price of our redemption was paid and accepted, Acts xx. 28; Gal. i. 4; ii. 20; Eph. ii. 13; Col. i. 12-14; Tit. ii. 14; Heb. ix. 26-28; Rev. v. 9.

7. Therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's. The best authorities omit the last clause, but the same truth is abundantly taught elsewhere, Rom. xi. 36; 2 Cor. v. 5, 18; Eph. ii. 8-10; Tit. iii. 5; Rev. iv. 11.

J. H. B.

SEVEN ALLUSIONS TO
"ONE THING."

1. Death, Ecc. iii. 19. It is not certain that believers now on the earth shall die, 1 Thess. iv. 17; 1 Cor. xv. 51. But, unbelievers, however exalted their social station, however remarkable their scientific attainments, shall surely die even as the beasts; and if they die in unbelief, they will mourn with unavailing regret through eternity that they had not ceased to exist, like beasts, in the dark hour of death. Alas! they are dead already, John v. 40; 2 Cor. v. 14; Eph. ii. 1; 1 Tim. v. 6; 1 John v. 12.

2. Salvation, Mark x. 21. This salvation by grace every dying son and daughter of Adam's race must have, or perish forever. The best can do with nothing less; the worst need nothing more, John iii. 7-18; Acts iv. 12; x. 43; xiii. 39; xvi. 31; Rom. x. 9; Eph. i. 7; Col. i. 12-14; 1 Pet. i. 19; 1 John i. 7.

3. Assurance. One thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see, John ix. 25; i. 11, 12; v. 24; Matt. xi. 28; Isa. xlv. 22; Lev. xvi. 21; Heb. x. 19-22; Eph. ii. 1-10; 1 John v. 13.

4. Communion. One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to enquire in his temple, Ps. xxvii. 4. It is well to remember that communion follows assurance, as assurance follows salvation, and that the word fellowship is the same as the word partnership, 1 John i. 3; Luke v. 7; Ex. xxv. 22-30; Rom. viii. 17; 1 Cor. iii. 21-23; x. 16-21; 2 Cor. vi. 14-18.

5. Devotedness. But one thing is needful: and Mary hath chosen the good part, which shall not be taken away from her, Luke x. 42; Matt. xx. 28. Nothing pleases Him so much as to see His people forgetful of everything but His presence and sufficiency for all their wants, and nothing will throw such light upon our path as to keep the eye exclusively fixed upon Him, Luke xi. 34-36; John viii. 12; xv. 7; 2 Cor. v. 14, 15; vi. 10; Gal. i. 10; Phil. i. 21; Rev. xiv. 4.

6. Progress. This one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus, Phil. iii. 13, 14. The apostle did not feel the slightest anxiety about his salvation, but he wanted the prize; and hence he continually pressed forward that he might lay hold of that for which also he was laid hold of by Christ Jesus, 1 Cor. iii. 12-15; ix. 24-26; Gal. vi. 7; 2 Tim. iv. 6-8; James i. 12; 2 Pet. iii. 18; Rev. iii. 11.

7. The coming of the Lord. Beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day, 2 Pet. iii. 8; Matt. xxiv. 36-51; Mark xiii. 33-37; Luke xii. 35-40; xvii. 26-37; xxi. 34-36; John xiv. 3; Acts i. 11; Rev. vii. 12, 20. J. H. B.

SEVEN REASONS FOR COMING TO THE LORD'S SUPPER.

1. The participation of all Christians is an act of obedience, Matt. xxvi. 26, 27; Mark xiv. 22; 1 Cor. xi. 24.

2. It is an act of remembrance, Luke xxii. 19; 1 Cor. xi. 24, 25.

3. It is an act of testimony to His death, 1 Cor. xi. 26; v. 7.

4. It is an act of confession that salvation is through His blood, Matt. xxvi. 28; Luke xii. 8, 9; Rom. x. 9, 10; Rev. iii. 5.

5. It is an act of fellowship, 1 Cor. x. 16, 17.

6. It is an act of praise and thanksgiving, Luke xxii. 19; 1 Cor. x. 16; xi. 24.

7. It is an act silently but powerfully proclaiming His second coming, 1 Cor. xi. 26. J. H. B.

SEVEN THINGS ABOUT SIN.

1. Sin is folly, Psa. cxlix. 11-13; lxxxv. 8; Prov. xiv. 9; xxviii. 26; Luke xii. 20; Eph. v. 15.

2. Sin is darkness, Prov. iv. 19; Luke i. 79; John i. 5; iii. 18; 2 Cor. iv. 3, 4; Col. i. 12, 13.

3. Sin is sickness, Isa. i. 5, 6; Matt. ix. 12.

4. Sin is poison, Num. xxi. 6; Psa. lviii. 3, 4; Rom. iii. 10-13.

5. Sin is death, Rom. v. 12; vi. 23; vii. 5; James i. 15.

6. Sin is hell, Luke xii. 4, 5; xvi. 22, 23; 2 Pet. ii. 1-9.

7. Sin was ours who are now saved. Psa. li. 5; Ecc. vii. 20; Rom. iii. 22, 23; Eph. ii. 1-3. J. H. B.

THE SEVEN WEEPINGS OF JOSEPH AND ISRAEL.

Joseph is regarded as a type of Christ.

1. He turned from his brethren and wept, and took from them Simeon, and bound him. Genesis xlii. 24.

2. At their second visit, so moved was he at the sight of Benjamin he sought where to weep, and he entered into his chamber and wept there. Gen. xliii. 30.

3. When he made himself known to his brethren he wept aloud, or, he gave forth his voice in weeping. (Margin.) Genesis xlv. 2.

4. Having comforted his brethren, he wept on Benjamin's neck; moreover he kissed all his brethren, and wept upon them. Genesis xlv. 14, 15.

5. At Goshen, where he went to meet his father, he fell on his neck, and wept on his neck a good while. Gen. xlv. 29.

6. When Jacob died, Joseph fell upon his father's face and wept upon him and kissed him. Genesis l. 1.

7. After the death and burial of Jacob, when, through fear that Joseph would punish them for all the wrong they had done him, they besought his forgiveness, he wept when they spake to him. Genesis l. 17.

In further illustration that weeping may symbolically represent the sin and danger of disobedience to God and its punishment, we find, in the history of Israel, that on seven different occasions they manifested their sorrow in tears.

1. Loathing the manna, they wept and said, Who shall give us flesh to eat? Num. xi. 5.

2. Refusing to believe the good report of Celeb and Joshua and go up and possess the land, they cried, and all the people wept, and murmured, and said, Would God we had died in this wilderness, Num. xiv. 1, 2.

3. When God had commanded them not to go to battle against the Amorites, but they rebelled and were defeated, they returned and wept before the Lord. Deut. i. 43-45.

4. They wept for Moses at his death thirty days. Deut. xxxiv. 8.

5. When rebuked at Bochim by an angel, for disobedience to God, they lifted up their voice and wept. Judges ii. 4.

6. When defeated in battle with Benjamin, they wept before the Lord until even, and asked counsel of the Lord. Judges xx. 23.

7. Having almost destroyed the Benjamites, they came to the house of God and abode there till even before God, and lifted up their voices and wept sore. Judges xxi. 2.

THE 'BEHOLDS' OF GOD'S WORD.

Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation. Isa. xxviii. 16.

Behold the lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world. John i. 29.

Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation. 2 Cor. vi. 2.

Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear My voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and He with Me. Rev. iii. 20.

Behold, God is my salvation; I will trust, and not be afraid: for the Lord Jehovah is my strength and my song; He also is become my salvation. Isaiah lii. 2.

Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God. 1 John iii. 1.

Behold, I come quickly; and My reward is with Me, to give every man according as his work shall be. Rev. xxii. 12.

FIVE PLACES.

1. A barren place, the wilderness. 2. Testing places, Marah and Peniel. 3. Pleasant places, Psa. xvi. 16. 4. Quiet resting places, Isa. xxxii. 18. 5. Forgotten resting places, Jer. i. 6. T. W. H.

EIGHT LOVING HINTS.

1. Come by faith to the blood of Christ, yea, to Christ himself, that your sins may be pardoned. Lev. xvii. 11; Heb. ix. 14, 22; Eph. i. 7.
2. Seek by prayer the help of the Holy Spirit. Luke xi. 13; Rom. viii. 26.
3. Try to recollect continually that God is always present, knowing every thought you think, every word you speak, and observing everything you do. Prov. xv. 3; Psalm cxxxix. 2; Ezek. xi. 5; Heb. iv. 13.
4. Live upon Christ as the life-giving root of all true holiness. John vi. 15; Col. ii. 3.
5. Before you speak, ask these three questions:—Is what I am going to say true? Is it useful? Is it kind? Psalm cxx. 2; cxli. 3; Prov. xv. 1; Eph. iv.
6. Pray for a calm and thoughtful state of mind, trusting always in the Lord, for you know not what a day may bring forth. Job xxii. 21; Isaiah xxvi. 3; Hag. i. 5; Matt. xi. 29.
7. Remember, if religion has done nothing for our tempers, it has done little for our souls; therefore, be kind, merciful, cheerful, meek, and affectionate. Rom. xiii. 10; James i. 26; 1 Peter iii. 8.
8. Work, while it is called to-day, for the glory of God and the good of men. John ix. 4; 1 Cor. x. 31; Gal. vi. 10.

THREE ALSOS.

Where I am, there ye may be also. John xiv. 3. The same place.
 He that believeth on Me, the works that I do shall he do also. The same occupation.
 Because I live, ye shall live also. John xiv. 9. The same life.

HOW TO USE THE BIBLE.

Having studied the Bible, it is important that we know how to use it, and nowhere is this knowledge so essential as in our personal work for Christ. In this personal work we can divide those we meet into classes. They are: First, the professing Christian who has no liberty, and no assurance, but is in "Doubting castle." The whole of John's first epistle was written for such. Use 1 John v. 13; iii. 2, 14, and 24.

The second class are backsliders. Use Jeremiah ii. 5, 13, 19, 27, and 32;

iii. 12, 13, 14, and 22; Hosea xiv. 1, 2, and 4; examples of backsliders reclaimed, David, Peter, Thomas and all the disciples.

The third class are those not deeply convicted of sin. Use Romans iii. 10, 12, and 23; Isaiah i. 5 and 6; 1 John i. 10; Isaiah liii. 6.

Avoid speaking false peace. Don't tell a man he is converted. Let God tell him that. See Jeremiah vi. 14.

The fourth class think themselves too great sinners. They are under very deep conviction. Use Isaiah i. 18; liii. 4 and 5; 1 Peter ii. 24; Isaiah xliii. 25; xlv. 22; Romans v. 6.

The fifth class don't know how to come to Christ. They must receive a person, not a creed. John i. 12. They must believe. John iii. 15, 16, 18, and 36; v. 24; vi. 40 and 47. They must trust. Isaiah xxvi. 3; Psalms xxxiv. 8. They must take a gift. Revelation xxii. 17; Psalms cxvi. 13; Romans vi. 23. They must come. John vi. 37; Isaiah lv. 1.

The new birth. John iii. 7; 1 John v. 1 and 4.

The sixth class don't feel that they are saved. Nowhere in the Bible is feeling coupled with salvation.

The seventh class go away trusting and come back doubting. They have neglected to confess Christ. Use Romans x. 9 and 10; Matthew x. 32.

The eighth class are afraid they will fall. Use Jude 24; Isaiah xli. 10 and 13; 2 Timothy i. 12; Romans viii. 35 and 39; Colossians iii. 3 and 4.

The ninth class say they can't believe. Use John vii. 17.

The tenth class say they will try to be saved. Use Romans iv. 5.

Why people are unsaved. John v. 40. Who are invited? Luke xix. 10; Matt. ix. 12; Luke v. 32.

The time to be saved. See Isaiah lv. 6; 2 Corinthians vi. 2; Hebrews iii. 7.

The danger of delay. See Prov. i. 24, 28.

Warnings. See Psalm ix. 17; 2 Peter ii. 9.

Contrasts in conversions. There are no two alike. Matthew, Nicodemus, the woman at the well, the thief on the cross, Lydia, the Jailor, the Eunuch, Paul, the Centurion. Use the great invitations Revelation xxii. 17; Matthew xi. 28; Isaiah lv. 1.

D. L. MOODY.

FALLING LEAVES.

If God lays in proportionate grace, it matters not what suffering He lays on. 2 Cor. xii. 9.

There is nothing real about the world but its vanity. Job vii. 3.

Full pardon and full joy may well be expected from the Saviour; for in Christ all fulness dwells. Col. i. 19.

It is vain to expect calm spiritual peace apart from clear scriptural views. John xvii. 17.

Blessed is he that would rather grieve his dearest earthly friend than grieve the Spirit. Eph. iv. 30.

How many would rather have their praises sounded by men, than have their souls saved by God! Matt. vi. 2.

It is not to the mere teaching of a child, but to the training God gives the promise. Prov. xxii. 6.

A sure mark of a tender conscience is a readiness to suffer rather than to sin. Heb. xi. 25.

Many wish to seem right, but the Christian wishes to be right. Psalm xix. 12, 13.

We may be administrators, but we are not proprietors of the things we possess. Psalm xxiv. 1.
